S. W. VANCE, Esq.,

COLUMBIA, S. C.
CHARLES A. CALVO, JR., STATE PRINTER.
1895.

The Convention which was held in 1860 was called for the purpose of passing the ordinance of secession, and it made such changes in the Constitution then in force as were necessary to adapt it to those changed conditions. We had the Constitution of 1865, which was framed by a convention called together under a proclamation of a provisional Governor, the appointee of a President of the United States, who had no more power to appoint a Governor for South Carolina than any other citizen of the country, and the work of the said convention was of no more force than the proceedings of a mass meeting of citizens. The Convention of 1868 was the fruit of the Reconstructions Acts, which were notoriously unconstitutional, of which one of the most prominent men in Congress and a leader of the party in power at the time had the hardihood to say there were only two fools in the United States who considered them constitutional; and if unconstitutional they were invalid. That Constitution was made by aliens, negroes and natives without character, all the enemies of South Carolina, and was designed to degrade our State, insult our people and overturn our civilization. It is a stain upon the reputation of South Carolina that she has voluntarily lived for 18 years under that instrument after she had acquired full control of every department of her government, but it is a lasting honor to the people of the State that when they took control of their own affairs they set to work to do away with this instrument of their humiliation, in their day of defeat, and in its place to have an organic law which shall be the work of their own hands. In the performance of the important work which lies before you, you cannot do better than to go back and take as the basis of your work the Constitution of 1790, which was the only valid Constitution South Carolina ever had, and which was the work of her own sovereign hands. Under that Constitution all of her greatness, her prosperity and her glory was developed; its principles are imprinted upon the "tablets of the hearts of her people" and woven into every fibre of their being. It has been expounded by her highest Courts, and has passed into her history. Of course changes will have to be made to adapt it to the changed condition of the times, and additions to it will have to be made to keep pace with the progress of the age; but "we are not wiser in our day and generation than the children of light," and we will make no mistake in walking in the footsteps of our fathers.

I congratulate you, gentlemen, upon your being able to assemble in the peace of God and the State to perform this important work for the State and for your children for generations to come. May you be guided by wisdom from above to act in all things in such a manner as to bring safety and honor to South Carolina, and peace, prosperity and happiness to all her people. The Convention is ready for business.

The CHAIRMAN announced that Mr. Stansell having received all the votes cast was duly elected Sergeant-at-Arms of the Convention.

The committee returned accompanied by Mr. John Gary Evans.

Mr. ALDRICH, the temporary Chairman, informed him of his election to the Presidency of this Convention.

Mr. EVANS, upon assuming the chair, addressed the Convention as follows :

Gentlemen of the Convention :

I thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me by calling me to preside over your deliberations.

Under the three different forms of government the crowned monarch represents the sovereign power with honor as its essential principle. The tyrant by force of arms and a strong hand represents the sovereign power of a despotism with its underlying principle, ignorance. The people alone are sovereign in a republic, and its essential element virtue.

You represent the sovereign power of South Carolina, which power has been delegated to you by the people, by reason of the trust reposed in you, for the purpose of framing an organic law. To be called upon to preside over the sovereignty of South Carolina is, indeed, an honor of which any man should be proud. In thanking you for such an honor I simply do that which goes without saying.

I will not review the history of former conventions; this has been ably done by your temporary Chairman. I simply repeat that this is the first time the sovereignty of the State has been delegated by the will of the people, honestly and fairly expressed at the ballot box. The law which you shall frame will be supreme and cannot be reversed in future years except in a manner which you shall provide.

From the position I now occupy I will be precluded from having a voice in the deliberations of the Convention. My position as Chief Executive intimately connects me with every department of your State Government. I have some thoughts that I wish to present for your consideration, and you will pardon me while I proceed to do so.

EXECUTIVE.

In reference to the Executive Department, it is for you to say what powers the Governor shall exercise in future. It is your duty to throw around him such restrictions and safeguards as will protect the people from tyranny and oppression; to preserve them in the enjoyment of their lives, their liberty and property. The present Constitution was framed by a body that did not represent the people of South Carolina, and I recall the prophetic words of Governor Orr to that body when he admonished them that no law passed by them, unless framed with a view of preserving the rule of intelligence and virtue, could be perpetuated. This has proved true, and we are here to make the prophecy and blot out a Constitution made to perpetuate the reign of ignorance and vice over wisdom and virtue. The Chief Executive should be clothed with power to remove any and all officials guilty of misfeasance or malpractice in office, or to suspend such officers until such charges may be preferred and disposed of. Under the present Constitution a sheriff may lead a lynching bee, a clerk of the court may defile the sanctuary of justice, a county supervisor may rob and plunder the people, and still retain their offices in defiance of the Executive, whose duty it is under the Constitution to see that the laws are duly and properly enforced. If you deem this power too broad, specify in what cases it should be exercised, or abolish any article or section requiring the Governor to enforce the laws. If we are to have a chief, make him such; if a subordinate, define his province.

The legislative department needs your serious consideration; but I deem it useless to go into an extensive discussion of that department, as I see before me many delegates who have been for years members of the House and Senate. Our Legislature is handicaped and burdened with the election of a multiplicity of officers. Dispense with this and require all elections to be by the people. Let there be annual sessions consisting of thirty days.

I am satisfied that, relieved of elections and charters of corporations and towns, this limitation will be ample; and while it is now the unwritten law that the Legislature shall adjourn before Christmas, make it constitutional and thus relieve the people of useless legislation. Remember that the best governed people are the least governed. The charter curse should be controlled. The Legislature must be empowered to create corporations, but let them be under general laws, and thus relieve the people of special legislation and the granting of special privileges. By requiring the Legislature to enact a general law providing for the chartering of all corporations by the Secretary of State, you will save one-half the time now occupied by that body and furnish the State a revenue to which it is justly entitled.

The terms of legislators should not be longer than two years.

THE JUDICIARY.

The safety of the republic rests greatly upon the judiciary. It has been truly said that the greatest danger to the government of this country is the encroachment and transgressions of the Federal judiciary. Recent events in our State have verified this prophecy, but of this we have nothing to do except learn a lesson from it. The judiciary should be well guarded and placed on a pinnacle so high that it will remain free and spotless from any reflections, slurs or disgrace attempted to be cast upon upon it. The safety of the life, limbs and property of the people may best be conserved by leaving it in their own hands, and to this end judges should be elected by the people. This has proved a blessing in a majority of the cases where it has been tried and is no longer an experiment. This is the law in other States possessing more wealth and intelligence than ours, and there is no reason why the same results should not be repeated here. Our inferior courts as at present constituted are a farce. The trial justice system is expensive, inefficient and fails to meet the requirements of the people. County courts should be established with jurisdiction over misdemeanors and felonies less than capital, the terms of which should be quarterly, and all convicts sentenced directly to the county chain gang. This would insure speedy justice, economy and good roads. Let the Chairman of each township board of commissioners be made a committing magistrate with no trial jurisdiction and the system will be complete.

HOMESTEAD.

A reasonable homestead should be provided for heads of families without power to mortgage and exempt from attachment, levy and sale. Under our present law the homestead is a myth and farce. It is invariably mortgaged, and this leech has almost exhausted the life substance of our citizens.

The reason for exempting the homestead from levy and sale is not to protect unfortunate debtors. It is to preserve and foster in the citizen that essential principle of a republic: virtue, patriotism.

The patriot has been defined to be one who loves the home he inhabits, the trees that give him shade and the hills that stand in his pathway.

The tenant or renter having no home to love, no castle to defend, no sacred ties to bind him, no vine or fig tree to watch to maturity, cannot nurture patriotism, and it is for this reason that the home of the citizen should be guaranteed him, his dependent wife and children. It is appalling to witness the rapidity with which the lands of the State are passing into the hands of aliens and foreign corporations. If it is not checked our people will soon become as the Arabs of the desert or the wandering Jews of Russia, and patriotism will be dead. Let us preserve our homes for South Carolinians and perpetuate that individuality so characteristic of our people.

EDUCATION.

The question of education is of vital importance and the most serious one to deal with. It is a principle of government that the best educated people are the happiest and easiest governed. It is of more importance than the question of suffrage, because it should be the first requisite to the enjoyment of citizenship. The beginning of a citizen is at home, but his maturity is in the school and college. The schoolmaster thus becomes the most important personage under the government. It is the duty of the State to furnish to the masses that education which fits them for citizenship, and to this end our common schools should be liberally supported by taxation. Experience has proved the wisdom of separate education of the races, and the Constitution should provide for the maintenance of a white and colored school in each district in the State. Give to the citizen the right to designate the school to which his tax should be applied, and leave to the trustees the distribution of the tax of corporations upon an equable basis. A common school education creates a demand for a higher or collegiate one, and it is your duty to support the higher institutions of learning in the State. See that no lights are put out—rather let more be established. The great mass of the people never complain of taxation for education when they know they derive the direct benefit.

No fixed amount of taxation should be placed in the Constitution; it should be left in the hands of the people who pay it or to their representatives in the Legislature.

SUFFRAGE.

There should be an educational qualification for the right of suffrage if the supremacy of intelligence is to be preserved. It is no injustice to any man, black or white, to have such a qualification, for only the intelligent are capable of governing. We must do our duty in this matter boldly and fearlessly, without regard to the censure of foreigners and aliens. We have experienced the cost and hardship of the rule of the ignorant, and know what it means.

There is no room in this Convention for factional differences, and he who does not deprecate such is unworthy a seat in this hall. We have seen that white men can divide, and it is your duty, in view of such division, to so fix your election laws that your wives, your children and your homes will be protected and Anglo-Saxon supremacy preserved. Fix it as in your judgment appears wisest. This much is expected of you by your people and the outside world.

CORPORATIONS.

Ample provision should be made to protect the people against the encroachments of corporate wealth and influence—against plutocracy. Corporations in South Carolina are becoming most powerful. In the last four years the capacity and wealth of manufactories have more than doubled. Our laws, our climate and our labor offer special inducements for the operation of cotton mills in the State, and, while you owe a duty to them, you owe it to the people as well. The operatives in our factories are neither anarchists, socialists nor foreigners; they are native-born South Carolinians, with all that that word implies. You should see to it that in their poverty they are not oppressed. Whether a special officer should be appointed to look after this, is for you to determine in your wisdom. In my judgment the small salary he would be paid would be fully compensated by the good he would accomplish. Especially should some provisions be made against corrupt influences in elections and the intimidation of electors by corporate authorities. In municipalities there is corruption and dishonest means and influences used in elections. It is your duty to throw around such municipal elections the same safeguards used in State elections, and thus insure to the people of towns and cities the same fairness and honesty practiced by people in the country.

With these reflections I leave these questions with you. I have given my ideas to you, as I deemed it my duty to do, and not for the purpose of influencing you. As I look at the personnel of this Convention, I must congratulate the people upon sending you here, and no one can question their wisdom. Let your work go forth not as the work of a faction, but as coming from the sovereignty of the State, and around which a divided people may unite and say this is our Constitution. You will then receive the well-done of the whole people, and your posterity will rise and bless the work of their fathers. May God send you wisdom and imbue your hearts and minds with justice and moderation.

I now declare the Convention ready for business.

Mr. EFIRD offered the following resolution, which was considered immediately and agreed to:

RULE XLI. At a reasonable time before the final adjournment of the Convention, to be determined by the Convention, the Committee on the Style and Revision of the Whole Constitution shall have accurately engrossed and enrolled the new Constitution entire, and the same shall be reported by said committee to the Convention, read through—Article by Article, Section by Section—and submitted to a final vote of the Convention prior to its final adjournment. If, upon such final vote, a majority of the members present shall vote in the negative, the proposed new Constitution shall be rejected; but if a majority of the members present shall vote in the affirmative, the same shall be adopted. In testimony whereof, the President and Vice-Presidents, Secretary, and each member present shall sign their names thereto, the signatures of a majority of the members present—if a majority of the whole Convention—shall constitute a sufficient attestation.

An enumeration of the inhabitants for the purpose of representation shall be made in the course of every tenth year, counting from the year 1890, in such manner as shall be by law directed ; and Representatives shall be assigned to the different counties in proportion to population, by Act of the General Assembly at the session immediately succeeding every enumeration : Provided,

SECTION 6. In assigning Representatives to the several counties, the General Assembly shall allow one Representative for every one hundred and twenty-fourth part of the whole number of inhabitants in the State.

SECTION 7. All taxes upon property, real or personal, shall be laid upon the actual value of the property taxed, as the same shall be ascertained by an assessment made for the purpose of laying such tax; and the Legislature shall have power to raise revenues other ways than by taxes upon property.

SECTION 8. If, in the apportionment of Representatives, any election district shall appear not to be entitled from its population to a Representative, such election district shall nevertheless send one Representative; and if there be still a deficiency of the number of Representatives required by section fifth, such deficiency shall be supplied by assigning Representatives to those election districts having the largest surplus fractions of population, until the number of one hundred and twenty-four members are made up.

SECTION 9. No apportionment of Representatives shall be construed to take effect, in any manner, until the general election which shall succeed such apportionment.

SECTION 10. The Senate shall be composed of one member from each election district, except the election district of Charleston, which shall be allowed two Senators.

SECTION 11. SECTION 15. The terms of office of the Senators and Representatives chosen at a general election shall begin on the Monday following such election.

And if any member shall accept or exercise any of the said disqualifying offices, he shall vacate his seat.

Section 3. Mr. HEMPHILL, from the Committee on Printing, submitted the following majority and minority reports, which were ordered for consideration to-morrow:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRINTING ON A RESOLUTION IN RELATION TO PRINTING FOR THE CONVENTION.

IN THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION,
COLUMBIA, S. C., September 13, 1895.

The Committee on Printing, to whom was referred a resolution "that Charles A. Calvo, Jr., be elected Printer for this Convention and that he be authorized and directed to execute the printing upon the terms and under the provisions of Chapter III of the Revised Statutes of 1893, relating to public printing," beg leave respectfully to report that they have carefully considered the same, and the majority recommend that the resolution be adopted.

ROBERT R. HEMPHILL, Chairman.
W. F. CLAYTON.
J. W. HAMEL.

We, the minority, recommend that the resolution be not adopted.

D. H. BEHRE.
JOHN B. DENT.

Resolved, That Charles A. Calvo, Jr., Public Printer, be elected Printer for this Convention and that he be authorized and directed to execute the printing upon the terms and under the provisions of Chapter III of the Revised Statutes of 1893, relating to public printing.

Mr. HEMPHILL, from the Committee on Printing, submitted the following report, which was ordered for consideration to-morrow :

IN THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION,
COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 13th, 1895.

The Committee on Printing, to whom was referred a resolution to inquire and report what would be the probable cost of having the proceedings stenographically reported and printed, beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the same, and find that the cost of a stenographic report will be about $100 per week if the stenographer is not required to have the proceedings laid upon the desks of the members each succeeding day. If daily reports are to be placed on the desks of the members the cost would be much greater. By the first method, if the Convention lasted a month, the total cost will approximate $500, while by the other method the cost would be about $2,000.

The cost of printing cannot be estimated, depending entirely upon the amount of work done, but the charge will be about the same as for the permanent publications of the legislative bodies as fixed by law—about $1 per page.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT R. HEMPHILL.

Resolved, That it be referred to the Committee on Printing to inquire and report, as soon as practicable, what would be the approximate cost of having the proceedings of this Convention stenographically reported and printed.

Mr. OTTS, from the Committee on Counties and County Government, submitted the following majority and minority reports, which were ordered for consideration to-morrow:

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. C. OTTS, for Committee.

3. That an election shall be held in the County of Saluda on Tuesday following the first Monday in November, A. D. 1896, or on such other day as may be provided by law hereafter, for members of the General Assembly and for the regular County officers provided for by the Constitution and laws of the State.

5. That the voting precincts heretofore established by law in that portion of Edgefield County embraced in the limits of Saluda County shall be the precincts of Saluda County.

6. That the County of Saluda be, and is hereby, attached to the Second Congressional District, and shall form part and parcel of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, and that the regular terms of the Courts of General Sessions shall be held on , and that the Trial Justices located in that portion of Edgefield County embraced in the limits of Saluda County shall be continued in office until their successors shall have been appointed and qualified: Provided, however, That from and after the time this ordinance goes into effect they shall be confined and limited in their official capacity, duty and power to said limits of Saluda County.

MINORITY REPORT.

The undersigned, constituting a minority of the Committee on Counties and County Government, to whom was reported an ordinance in regard to the formatien of a new County to be called Butler, to be cut off entirely from Edgefield County, beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the same; that they do not believe it is proper for the said new County to be established by this Convention without knowing the wishes of the majority of the voters of said County; that our time is too valuable to be consumed by a long discussion which would necessarily follow; that it, along with other proposed counties, should submit themselves to the action of the General Assembly of the State, and we recommend that the ordinance be not adopted.

Respectfully submitted,

T. E. JOHNSON,
E. N. REDFEARN,
FRANK B. GARY,
A. K. SMOAK,
J. THOMAS AUSTIN,

That the General Assembly of this State shall locate, establish, maintain and supervise said State Penal School by electing a married male citizen of this State as Keeper and his wife as Matron, who shall reside therein for the term of four years, and are eligible for re-election; and the General Assembly shall fix all compensations, appropriations, rules and trainings, or any other matter, for the government of or appertaining to said State Penal School.

Mr. PRINCE introduced the following resolution, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Legislative Department:

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO THE ELIGIBILITY OF MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AND JUDGES TO CERTAIN OFFICES.

Be it resolved and ordained by the people of South Carolina, in convention assembled, and by authority of the same, That the following shall constitute Section —, Article —, of the Constitution of the State:

No member of the General Assembly of this State during the term for which he was elected shall be eligible to any office to be filled by an election by the General Assembly, and no Judge in this State during his term of office shall be eligible to any other than a judicial office.

Mr. G. D. TILLMAN introduced the following resolution, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Judicial Department :

RESOLUTION PROPOSING AN ARTICLE IN THE CONSTITUTION TO RE-ESTABLISH THE WHIPPING POST TO PROPERLY PUNISH VAGRANTS, PETTY THIEVES AND HABITUAL WIFE-BEATERS.

Resolved, That the whipping post shall be re-established in this State to properly punish vagrants, petty thieves and habitual wife-beaters, and that the General Assembly shall provide by appropriate legislation therefor.

Mr. ALDRICH introduced the following resolution, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Education :

CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISION IN RELATION TO THE COMMON SCHOOLS AND INSTITUTIONS OF LEARNING IN THE STATE.

ARTICLE ——

The General Assembly shall make due provision for the maintenance of the free common schools, and for all of the existing State institutions of higher education.

Mr. PARROTT introduced the following resolution, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Suffrage :

AN ORDINANCE TO EXTEND THE RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

Be it resolved and ordained by the people of South Carolina, in convention assembled, and by the authority of the same, That men otherwise entitled to the right of suffrage by action of this Convention, and in addition pay taxes on property to the amount of two hundred dollars or more, and who represent a family as the head thereof, are hereby given the right to cast two votes in all elections of this State.

Mr. A. H. WHITE introduced the following resolution which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Education :

SUPERVISING OF THE PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Be it resolved and ordained by the people of the State of South Carolina, in convention assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the following provision shall constitute Section —— of Article —— of the Constitution of this State:

The supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a State Board of Supervisors of Education one from each judicial district, and one from the State at large, who shall be professional teachers, and shall be elected by the Legislature; the powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be defined by the General Assembly.

Mr. McMAHAN introduced the following resolution, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Suffrage:

AN ORDINANCE TO PRESCRIBE WHO SHALL BE VOTERS.

Whereas, The right to vote is a privilege to be bestowed by the State upon such only of her citizens as either by reason of their vested interest in the State and a resulting presumption of their worth and public spirit, or by reason of their known combination of judgment, character and patriotism, may be trusted to use the power wisely and faithfully for the welfare of the present and the future generations of their countrymen; and whereas property other than in land is no guarantee that the possessor has a permanent interest in the State, and book-education is no indication of judgment, of character, or of patriotism: and whereas no general rule to be applied by a mere ministerial officer can embrace all the citizens who are qualified for this trust and at the same time exclude all who are wanting in one or more of the elements of qualification:

Be it ordained by the people of South Carolina, through their delegates in convention assembled, That the following be the Constitutional provisions regulating the suffrage:

1. No person shall vote in any election in this State except as hereinafter provided.

2. Every person twenty-one years of age, of sane mind, born of wedded parents, and owning the beneficial interest in a freehold estate in country land to the amount of one hundred acres, or in a town lot or lots to the value of five hundred dollars, shall be a legal voter, either in the precinct where his or her land is situated or in the precinct where he or she may have resided two months immediately preceding the election.

3. The Legislature, at its session in 1895 and in 1896, shall, by special Act approved by the Governor, confer the right to vote upon such persons by name as in its judgment are worthy of the ballot and will use it for the advancement of the civilization of the State.

4. After January first, 1897, every new Legislature shall, by special Act approved by the Governor, confer the suffrage according to the spirit of the above Section, but in the following manner only, that is to say: Each Legislature during its last session shall pass an Act giving notice and recommending that the persons therein named are worthy to be made voters; and each succeeding Legislature, in selecting the persons upon whom it confers the suffrage, is limited to names appearing on the list recommended by the immediately previously elected Legislature.

5. No petition shall be received from citizens asking the suffrage at the hands of the Legislature.

6. Every person named as a voter by Act of the Legislature as hereinabove provided, and being twenty-one years of age, shall thereafter have the same irrevocable and undeniable right to vote as if he or she were qualified as a land owner.

7. The right to vote shall be forfeited upon conviction of ——; but the Governor's pardon or an Act of the Legislature shall restore the right.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. W. D. EVANS, Chairman of the Committee on Finance and Taxation, reported "An ordinance to pension certain Confederate Soldiers," and requested that it be referred to the Committee on Militia; which was agreed to.

Mr. W. D. EVANS, for the Committee on Finance and Taxation, submitted the following report:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FINANCE AND TAXATION ON RESOLUTION TO PROVIDE AND FIX SALARIES FOR ALL CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICERS.

The Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred "A Resolution to provide and fix salaries for all Constitutional Officers," introduced by Mr. T. I. Rogers and referred to this Committee, respectfully report that they have carefully considered the same, and recommend that the Resolution be amended so as to apply only to State Officers and Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, and that the Resolution be referred to the Committee on Executive Department.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. D. EVANS, for Committee.

The report of the Committee was adopted.

Mr. B. R. Tillman, from the Committee on Suffrage, submitted the following report, which was considered immediately and agreed to:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SUFFRAGE ON THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST FROM WILLIAMSBURG COUNTY.

The Committee on Suffrage, to whom was referred the petition and contest of James Thorpe, Louis Jacobs, G. W. McCullough and J. E. A. Keeler, petitioners, contesting the seats of T. M. Gilland, George J. Graham, W. R. Singletary and S. W. Gamble, the sitting members of this Convention from the County of Williamsburg, beg leave to report that they have duly considered the said petition and contest, and heard the parties thereon, and that they find:

First, That the contestees, the sitting members from Williamsburg County, are T. M. Gilland, George J. Graham, W. R. Singletary and S. W. Gamble, as appears by returns of the Managers of Election, the action of the County Board of Canvassers and State Board of Canvassers, and the certificates of the Secretary of State issued in pursuance thereof, were duly elected as delegates to this Convention, and are entitled to seats in this body.

Second, That the contestants James Thorpe, Louis Jacobs, G. W. McCullough, J. E. A. Keeler, have failed to establish their title to seats in this Convention as delegates from Williamsburg County.

Third, That we recommend that the actual personal expenses up to date of each of the contestants except Louis Jacobs, amounting to $24.72 each, be paid as a part of the expenses of this Convention.

B. R. TILLMAN,
Chairman of the Committee.

Mr AUSTIN, Chairman of the Committee on Counties and County Governments, reported the various ordinances and resolutions relating to the formation of new Counties, and asked that his Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

Mr. PATTERSON said that he had a resolution of a nature personal to the President to present, and requested that the President vacate the chair and that he call one of the Vice Presidents to the chair.

The PRESIDENT thereupon requested Mr. Talbert, one of the Vice Presidents, to take the chair.

Mr. PATTERSON introduced the following resolution and asked its immediate consideration; ten members objecting, it was refused:

WHEREAS, The State, a newspaper published in the city of Columbia, did on the 17th inst., in its editorial columns, contain the following statement in reference to the action of the President of this Convention in announcing a vote upon a motion to take a recess, when the question as to whether Saluda should be inserted in the lieu of Butler, in the resolution before this Convention on the 16th inst., to-wit: "On a division vote intended to defer final action on the matter until Irby's support could be rallied, the President openly and defiantly misstated the return of the tellers, subtracting two announced votes from Irby's side in order that he might show a majority of one against postponement."

Therefore, be it resolved, That as said editorial statement is unsupported by the facts, Senator Irby having announced upon the floor of the Convention that the announcement of said vote by the President was correct, and as said statement is a reflection upon the honesty and integrity of the President of this Convention, and an insult to this body,

Be it resolved, That this Convention do hereby pronounce said editorial statement as being a malicious falsehood.

The resolution being read, it was ordered to lie over for consideration to-morrow.

Mr. PATTERSON moved that it be made a special order for to-morrow immediately after the reading of the Journal, which was agreed to.

Mr. STANYARNE WILSON moved that when this Convention adjourn it stand adjourned until 12 M. to-morrow, which was agreed to.

Mr. GEO. JOHNSTONE asked and obtained leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. Mower, for to-morrow.

Mr. SINGLETARY asked and obtained leave of absence for himself till Monday, the 23d inst.

Mr. PARLER asked and obtained leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. Howell, till Friday next.

Mr. STANYARNE WILSON asked and obtained leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. Bobo, until Friday next.

Mr. EFIRD asked and obtained indefinite leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. Lybrand.

On motion of Mr. IRBY, at 1 P. M. the Convention adjourned until 12 M. to-morrow.

NINTH DAY.

Thursday, September 19, 1895.

The Convention assembled at 12 o'clock M.

The Secretary called the roll.

The PRESIDENT took the chair.

A quorum being present, the deliberations were opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. PARROTT.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and confirmed.

The PRESIDENT presented a communication from Mr. Charles T. Walker, of Chicago, Illinois, which, being read, was, on motion of Mr. STANYARNE WILSON, received as information.

Ordered that printing be dispensed with.

Mr. STANYARNE WILSON asked and obtained permission to withdraw from the files of the Convention the papers relating to the formation of Limestone and Ennoree Counties.

Mr. PATTERSON called for the following :

SPECIAL ORDER IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE READING OF THE JOURNAL.

No. 8. Relating to an editorial in the "State" newspaper on the 17th instant.

The PRESIDENT called Mr. Talbert to the chair.

Mr. PATTERSON introduced the following substitute for the Special Order :

WHEREAS, The State, a newspaper published in the city of Columbia, did on the 17th instant, in its editorial columns, contain the following statement in reference to the action of the President of this Convention in announcing the vote upon the motion to take a recess, when the question as to whether the name Salnda should be inserted in lieu of Butler, in the resolution before the Convention on the 16th instant, to-wit : "On a division vote intended to defer final action on the matter until Irby's support could be rallied, the President openly and defiantly misstated the return of the tellers, subtracting two announced votes from Irby's side, in order that he might show a majority of one against postponement;" therefore be it

Resolved 1, That said editorial statement is unsupported by the facts, Senator Irby having announced upon the floor of the Convention that the announcement of said vote by the President was correct ; and as said editorial is a reflection upon the honesty and integrity of the President of this Convention, and an insult to this body, be it

Resolved 2nd, That this Convention desires to express its entire confidence in the integrity, honesty and fairness of our President, the Hon. John Gary Evans, and we do hereby declare the statement in the aforesaid editorial to be unsustained by the facts and untrue.

Resolved 3d. That we consider the editorial in question an abuse of the privilege granted to the Press in admitting its members to the floor of this Convention.

Mr. BATES offered the following as a substitute for the original and the substitute proposed by Mr. Patterson :

Whereas, on the 16th inst., while this Convention had under consideration an amendment to an ordinance creating a new County from a part of the territory of Edgefield, which amendment proposed a change of name from "Butler to Salnda," a motion was made to take a recess ;

And whereas a division being called for in the vote on this motion, and, the result having been announced by the tellers while there was confusion in the body, a misunderstanding arose as to the number of yeas reported by the tellers and the number announced by the Ptesident, whereupon the President ordered another vote, the result of which was the same as that announced by him at first;

And whereas a certain newspaper in this city, to wit, The State, has seen fit to impute to our honorable President an unscrupulous and intentional misstatement of a fact for partisan purposes; therefore be it

Resolved 1st, That we do hereby unhesitatingly exonerate the President of this Convention from any intentional misstatement of the vote on said occasion, for partisan or for any other purposes; and further, that he manifested his absolute fairness by ordering another vote as soon as it occurred to him that there had been a misapprehension as to the result of the first.

Resolved 2nd, That this Convention does not deem it necessary to answer by abuse nor denunciation any of the adverse or defamatory criticisms of its actions, or of its officers, by any newspaper or newspapers, person or persons; and that we reaffirm our confidence in the ability and integrity of our presiding officer.

Mr. PATTERSON moved to lay the substitute proposed by Mr. Bates on the table, which was agreed to.

Mr. ALDRICH moved to strike out Section 3 of the substitute proposed by Mr. Patterson, and insert the following in lieu thereof :

Resolved 3. That the said newspaper, The State, has abused the privilege allowed to the press by this Convention; and that for the balance of the session its representatives be denied admission to the floor of the Convention; and that the Sergeant-at-Arms be charged with the enforcement of this resolution.

Mr. D. S. HENDERSON moved to lay the amendment of Mr. Aldrich on the table, which was agreed to.

Mr. GAGE moved the following as a substitute for the original resolution and the substitute proposed by Mr. Patterson :

Resolved, That this Convention hereby expresses its confidence in the integrity of the Hon John Gary Evans, President of this body, and does hereby repudiate any public expressions to the contrary.

Mr. PRINCE moved to lay the resolution of Mr. Gage on the table; which was agreed to.

Mr. BARKER moved to indefinitely postpone the whole matter.

The question being put, the Convention refused to indefinitely postpone.

After debate upon the various amendments and substitutes proposed, participated in by Messrs. Patterson, Bates, Garris, Aldrich, Sheppard, D. S. Henderson, Berry, Jervey, Burn, Haynsworth, Gage, McGowan, Farrow, Rogers, W. D. Evans, Barker, Geo. Johnstone, Stanyarne Wilson, B. R. Tillman, Parrott and Prince,

The question was put upon the original substitute offered by Mr. Patterson and adopted by a viva voce vote.

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN moved to reconsider the vote whereby the Convention agreed to adopt the substitute for the original resolution proposed by Mr. Patterson ; which was agreed to.

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN demanded the yeas and nays upon the question of adopting the substitute, which was duly seconded.

The question being put : "Will the Convention agree thereto ?" it was decided in the affirmative.

Yeas, 123 ; nays, 23.

Those who voted in the affirmative are :

Yeas—Messrs. Aldrich, Alexander, Ashe, Atkinson, Austin, Barry, Barton, Bates, Behre, Bellinger, Bowen, Bowman, Bradham, Breazeale, J. S. Brice, T. W. Brice, Bryan, Buist, Burn, Byrd, Cantey, Carver, Clayton, Connor, Cooper, Cunningham, DeHay, Dennis, Dent, Derham, Douglass, Efird, Estridge, W. D. Evans, Field, Floyd, Fraser, Gamble, Garris, J. L. Glenn, J. P. Glenn, Gooding, Graham, Gray, Gunter, Hamel, Harris, Harrison, Hay, Haynsworth, Hemphill, D. S. Henderson, Henry, Hiers, Hodges, Houser, Howell, Hutson, Irby, T. E. Johnson, George Johnstone, Wilie Jones, Keitt, J. W. Kennedy, Klugh, Lowman, McCalla, McCaslan, McCown, McDermotte, McKagen, McMakin, McWhite, Matthews, Meares, Miller, Mitchell, J. D. Montgomery, Moore, Morrison, Murray, Nash, Nathans, Nicholson, Oliver, Otts, Parler, Parrott, Patterson, Peake, Perritte, Prince, Redfearn, John Reed, Rogers, Rosborough, Rowland, Russell, Shuler, Sligh, Sloan, A. J. Smith, W. C. Smith, Smoak, Sprott, Stackhouse, Stokes, Stribling, Sullivan, Talbert, Taylor, B. R. Tillman, G. D. Tillman, Timmerman, Waters, Wharton, Whipper, A. H. White, Wiggins, Stanyarne Wilson, W. B. Wilson, Winkler and Woodward.—123.

Those who voted in the negative are :

Nays—Messrs. Anderson, Barker, Berry, Doyle, Dudley, Farrow, Fitch, Gage, Jervey, E. J. Kennedy, Lee, McGowan, McMahan, W. J. Montgomery, Ragsdale, J. H. Read, Sheppard, Smalls, Jeremiah Smith, R. F. Smith, VonKolnitz, Wells and S. E. White.—23.

So the Convention agreed to the substitute proposed by Mr. Patterson.

The following gentlemen asked permission to have spread upon the Journal the reason for their vote :

I vote "yea" on the resolution of Mr. Patterson in reference to the editorial in the State, understanding that they mean as untrue that part which imputes intentional misstatements on the part of our President, and refer to the resolutions which I offered this morning as a substitute for Mr. Patterson's.

GEO. H. BATES.

I wish to place on record my entire confidence in our President, who was my first choice for the position which he so acceptably fills, and also my condemnation of the slander uttered against him by the State newspaper in unseemly violation of the courtesies extended to it by this Convention.

But I was forced to vote in the negative on the passage of the Patterson resolution because this was so worded as to declare that Senator Irby's concession on the floor of the Convention that the President was correct establishes that the State had not even the foundation of fact that the President was in error; whereas I understood the tellers to announce the affirmative vote on taking a recess "39" and "30," which would be "69" as claimed by the State.

JOHN J. MCMAHAN.

W. M. Fitch votes "no" because he does not believe that the President should be put in the position of needing a resolution to affect his character, as his personal acquaintance with the President has taught him the high character of the President; and, further, he believes that this Convention has no business in passing any resolution relating to a criticism in a newspaper.

W. M. FITCH.

I voted "aye" upon the resolution offered by the gentleman from Barnwell, Mr. Patterson, in relation to certain strictures of the State, a newspaper published in the city of Columbia, on the action of the President of this Convention in connection with the ordinance for the establishment of Saluda or Butler County because to have done otherwise might have appeared to reflect on the integrity of the President on the occasion and in connection with the matter indicated. I voted to indicate my confidence in his good faith in that matter; beyond that I do not wish to be understood as going.

Could I have had a way to indicate my belief in the good faith of the President in this matter other than by voting "aye," I should have voted "no," because I do not think that the matter was a proper one to be considered by the Convention.

GEORGE JOHNSTONE.

I am willing and take great pleasure in vindicating our President against any and all imputations made by the State on the 17th instant, but am unwilling to criticise that newspaper further. Therefore, I vote no.

R. F. SMITH.

I vote "no" because I do not recognize that the necessity for a resolution of confidence in its presiding officer has been, or can be, created by the attack of a newspaper editor, and because I deny the right to require the members of this Convention to vote for or against such a resolution.

THEODORE G. BARKER.

I vote "no" because my judgment is expressed in the substitute proposed by me.

G. W. W. Gage.

On the consideration of the Patterson resolution I vote "no," not for any want of confidence in the President of this Convention, but because I would have voted for the substitute of the delegate from Chester, and think that as far as this Convention should have taken notice of the matter.

E. J. Kennedy.

I voted "no" because

1. I was not present when the question which brought forth the resolution was at issue.
2. In my opinion the matter should never have been brought before the Convention.
3. Having been brought before the Convention, the Gage resolution was the proper disposition of it.

W. J. Montgomery.

On the question as to the adoption of the resolution of Mr. Patterson, of Barnwell, relative to a certain editorial in the State newspaper, I vote "no" because I consider it beneath the dignity of the presiding officer and of this Convention to notice said editorial, and the presiding officer needs no vindication against the charge of intentional unfairness.

G. G. Wells.

Mr. VonKolnitz votes "no" because he was absent from the city during the proceedings in question, and while willing and desirous of affirming his belief in the fairness and integrity of the President, the form of resolution precluded this, and he cannot by vote assume to characterize the opinion of the editor of the State as "untrue."

Mr. J. P. K. Bryan, of Charleston, S. C., voting "aye" on the resolution offered by Mr. Patterson, of Barnwell, relating to the editorial of the State on the action of the Chairman on Monday, September 16th, assigns for his reason for so voting "aye" that he has had no other opportunity of voting upon the question of motive and intent on the part of the President, and unless he so votes "aye" he might be construed as reflecting upon the integrity of the Chairman; and he desires to express by his vote only his belief that the President was not guilty of any intentional error in stating the result of the vote. Further than that he is not willing to go.

I voted "no" on the resolution of Mr. Patterson, from Barnwell, for the following reasons:

1. The President needs no vindication of his honest intentions.
2. The delegates to the Convention are not assembled to try cases of libel, and they have no right to waste the money of the people in advertising any newspaper.
3. The precedent is dangerous to the harmony and peace of the Convention, and the criticism of any paper should be treated with silent contempt.

T. E. Dudley.

On the question of adopting the resolution of Mr. Patterson, from Barnwell, I voted "no." If the resolution had only vindicated the President and repudiated the editorial of the State (paper), denouncing it as untrue, I should have voted "aye," but as the resolution contained more than this I could not vote for it.

JEREMIAH SMITH.

Upon the resolution offered by the gentleman from Barnwell (Mr. Patterson) I voted "no." I wish to say that I do not approve of the editorial in question, and I do not believe that the statement therein—that the President "intentionally" misstated the result of the count—can be sustained; but I believe that the substitute offered by the member from Chester was the best solution of the situation, hence I voted "no" on the Patterson resolution.

J. C. SHEPPARD.

I voted in favor of the substitute offered by Mr. Gage, of Chester, which vindicated the President of the Convention. I voted "no" on the resolutions passed because they, in my opinion, declared too much.

O. M. DOYLE.

The PRESIDENT proceeded to call by Counties for memorials, resolutions and such like papers.

On motion of Mr. HENRY the call by Counties was dispensed with.

MEMORIAL.

Mr. McMAHAN introduced the following memorial, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations and Police Regulations:

MEMORIAL.

GOVERNMENTAL CORPORATION DEBT AND THE TENDENCY OF MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS TOWARDS UNLAWFUL EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC FUNDS AND EXTRAVAGANCE.

BY D. H. MEANS.

To the Honorable the Constitutional Convention of South Carolina:

Since the time when it became necessary for a Roman Emperor to abolish a corporation, corporations have constantly arrogated power never originally conferred, till the creature has become more powerful than the creator; and while no State can create a public debt that the people may not repudiate, governmental corporations may contract debts that the State and people in all their sovereignty cannot repudiate. The Convention, therefore, whatever it leaves undone, should, by constitutional limitations, so harness this dangerous creature in its taxing and debt-creating power that hereafter in South Carolina it may ever be the servant and not the master of the people. It is a question of gigantic proportions, because modern civilization has multiplied the number of political corporations, each having a separate taxing and debt-creating power over the same territory, the same property, the same people. A vicious or deluded vote upon all questions not involving contract can do but temporary injury, and the greater the wrong thereby committed against the community at large, the more quickly will the people rise in their might and apply the remedy by an exercise of the repealing power. But the injury resulting from the wrongful or improvident creation of a legal debt of a public corporation is without remedy and permanent. A vicious or even an honestly deluded voter in saddling upon a County, city or other public corporation an extravagant and unnecessary bonded debt steals or squanders not only from estates in possession, but from the inheritance of generations yet unborn. This is not a theory of what might happen, but it is a statement of what has happened and is happening every day. From one end of this broad land to the other governmental communities are staggering under intolerable burdens of bonded indebtedness—burdens bequeathed to them by the voters or aldermen of bygone generations, who, deluded by designing jobbery or dazzled by visionary enthusiasm, in one brief day entailed upon themselves and posterity a wrong which no known principle of law or equity can remedy. Such being the far-reaching and irremediable damage resulting from the abuse of the power of creating corporate governmental bonded indebtedness, it behooves the Convention, WHATEVER it leaves UNDONE, to incorporate in the new Constitution a limitation that will limit and a restriction that will restrict the amount of public corporate bonded indebtedness that may be incurred.

In the present Constitution of South Carolina there is the following provision: ARTICLE IX, SECTION 17. Any bonded debts hereafter incurred by any county, municipal corporation or political division of this State shall never exceed eight per centum of the assessed value of all the taxable property therein. Carefully as it was drawn, this limitation does not limit, as the following statement as to its effect upon the city of Columbia will show: When the above eight per cent. provision was incorporated into the Constitution the bonded debt of the city was sixteen and one-half per cent., and the eight per cent. clause was construed to authorize an increase of eight per cent. in addition to what already existed. So this eight per cent. added to the sixteen and one-half per cent. authorizes a debt for the city of twenty-four and one-half per cent. Again, by the multiplication of political subdivisions, there is a school district, a township, and a county, each with a separate taxing power over the city's territory. So that for the city's territory, besides the twenty-four and one-half per cent. for the city, there may be an eight per cent. increase for the school district, and another eight per cent. for the township, and another eight per cent. for the County, making it possible to increase the bonded debt over the city's territory to forty-eight and one-half per cent. of the taxable property—which would be an intolerable burden over the same city, the same territory, the same people. But this is not all, for by further increasing political subdivisions covering same territory and by raising the valuation of property for municipal taxation over the true value, this forty-eight and one-half per cent. may be indefinitely increased.

The Mayor and Aldermen of the city wherein the Convention now meets furnished a forcible argument in favor of the necessity of limiting corporate powers, when, upon the eve of this Convention, they voted one thousand dollars of the city's money as a gift to a private corporation, and this, too, when pending the vote their attention was called to the fact that their able City Attorney, Mr. John P. Thomas, Jr., had furnished them with a written opinion that such a gift would be illegal. This same Board of Aldermen had a few months previously voted and paid as a gift $2,500 of the city's money to another private corporation; and the same City Attorney has rendered an opinion that it was unlawful for them to raise money by taxation for such gift. These are the acts of intelligent, honorable men—mostly personal friends of the writer—of the rectitude of whose intentions he has no doubt; but the very rectitude of their intentions only emphasizes the necessity of constitutional limitation upon the taxing and debt-creating power of municipal corporations, and the necessity, under the most favorable conditions of municipal government, of having municipal disbursements audited by a bonded State officer, free from the contagion and dazzling effect of visionary enthusiasm and local influence. And if the righteous, by the opinion of an able city attorney, cannot be saved from unlawful official generosity in disbursing public funds, to what extent would the sinner go—such sinners as were twenty-five years ago the aldermanic abortions of the municipal ballot box. The goodness of the aldermanic intention no more saves the city treasury from loss incident to unlawful donation or appropriation of public funds than did good intention save from death him who took morphine honestly believing it to be quinine. But suppose a person insisted upon administering, nolens volens, to others for quinine that which an able chemist had warned him was morphine, how would the story then read? Would not measures be speedily taken to effectually restrain such an one from the pursuit of such a course?

There is a lesson for the Convention in the fact that the city of Columbia to-day pays interest on a debt of $430,000 incurred in the erection of an opera house worth about $65,000—a building not now and never needed for purely governmental purposes. And this is only one of the many similar structures all over this land, looming up as beacons, warning statesmen of the danger of committing to the uncertain tide of unrestricted suffrage, or, worse still, to the possible aldermanic accidents of the municipal ballot box, a question freighted with such direful possibilities as the unrestricted power to incur a corporation debt. There is significance in the fact that a local committee in the city of Charleston, in the fire-proof building, valued a taxpayer's property at $87,820 for State taxation, and then these same persons, as another committee, met in the City Hall, and, for the same year, valued for municipal taxation this same property at $141,085. [See case of Ross vs. Kelly, now pending in State Supreme Court.] The writer uses Charleston and Columbia as illustrations, merely because he happens to be informed as to these, and not because a similar condition of affairs may not probably exist elsewhere, and thinks the instances cited will suffice to illustrate.

Created for purely governmental purposes, governmental corporations should be prohibited from embarking by means of subscriptions and its debt-creating power in the railroad, the opera house, the show business, or other industrial enterprises not germane to government, as is prohibited in the Constitution of some of the most progressive States in the Union.

It is most important that this Convention, in dealing with governmental corporate powers as to taxation and debt, consider the causes operating in the towns and cities, radically different from those obtaining in the country. Experience all over the civilized world shows that in municipal government the tendency is towards extravagance, while in rural districts there is generally no such tendency, and the reason is obvious. In the country nearly every voter owns the land on which he lives—is a freeholder—while in the city exactly the contrary obtains. Municipal elections are controlled by a large majority of non-freeholders, while in rural elections the freeholders rule. The anxieties and responsibilities of proprietorship have engendered in the freeholder the habit of serious thought and cautious action—especially in matters affecting property. Municipal corporation debt is a lien qualified and voidable as to personal property, because it is a lien thereon only while it exists or remains within the territory of the municipal taxing power, and personal property is both perishable and portable—easily spirited away or converted into bonds or other choses in action beyond the ken or power of the tax gatherer. On the other hand, such public bonded debt is a lien absolute and unavoidable upon the land—the freehold—because it is in its nature ascertainable and tangible, immovable and imperishable, and if the freeholder sells he must sell subject to this lien, with a necessary depreciation in value.

When the long and burdensome years of reckoning shall have come, the political adventurer, the designing demagogue, the citizen of extravagantly progressive ideas as to public expenditure, the successful merchant (too fearful of making enemies to mix in politics,) and every other class except the freeholder, may board the train with their respective bonds, stocks, goods, wares and merchandise and all other personalty, and leave the freeholder to bear not only his own but their share of an intolerable burden that their selfishness, recklessness, mistake or indifference has placed upon him. The freehold is the foundation upon which the entire superstructure of government rests. It is the soil into which the roots of patriotism strike deep. Nothing can harm the freehold and not the commonwealth; nothing can injure the commonwealth and not the freehold. Chained to the deck of the Roman galley, and knowing that if the vessel perished he perished also, the most craven and debased galley slave in the dire emergency of battle rendered reliable and effective though unwilling service. Then how can the freeholder—a freeman—bound to the freehold, and, therefore, to the ship of State, not by the galling chains of servitude, but by the potent and delightful bond of interest and sentiment, be he virtuous or vicious, generous or selfish, cast other than a safe vote upon a question so vitally affecting the government, the freehold and himself?

Hence the hope of the Federal Government in curbing reckless extravagance in governmental expenditures is found in the rural and agricultural South, and not in the urban and industrial North; and there is a lesson right here for this Convention in providing who shall vote upon the question of incurring municipal debts.

The writer has observed that Hon. W. D. Evans has introduced the following admirable ordinance: "All taxes, whether for State, County, city, township or other public or corporate purpose, levied upon and collected out of property in this State, shall be authorized by, and included in, the successive legislative supply Acts; and the same shall be collected all together and at the same time by such officials as the Legislature may provide; and the disbursement of such portion thereof as may be made by the officer of any County, township, city, municipal corporation, or other political subdivision, or public governmental corporation, shall be reported to and audited by the Comptroller General."

While not interfering with the autonomy of the city, this ordinance will throw the light of legislative investigation and discussion upon municipal tax levies, and an effective safeguard around municipal disbursement of public funds. If the City Treasurer had known that his disbursements must be passed upon by a State bonded officer, it is not likely that he would have paid out the thousands of dollars of public money unlawfully ordered by the Aldermen of Columbia to be given to private corporations, with the probability of his being called upon for its reimbursement to the taxpayers. The high character and intelligence of this official and the rectitude of his intentions, as in the case of the Aldermen, only emphasizes the lesson to be learned.

Again, in providing that all taxes shall be collected under one legislative levy, all together and at the same time, Mr. Evans's ordinance will insure one valuation for all taxation, and prevent municipalities from indefinitely and arbitrarily increasing valuations for taxation, and thus circumventing legislative and constitutional limitations as to the percentage of taxable values to which their municipal tax levy or debt shall go, or to meet their desire for revenue. And it will also eliminate local fear or favor in enforcing tax executions.

The taxpayer will then make one tax return and pay taxes to one person, and not. as now, have to make as many returns and pay taxes to as many persons as there happens to be separate taxing power over his property, and Mr. Cooley says that the convenience of the taxpayer is as imperative as the necessity for revenue.

In fixing the percentage of the value of taxable property beyond which governmental corporation debt shall not go, it is hoped that the Convention will so frame the ordinance that the limitation shall have reference both to the debt previously existing and that thereafter to be created, and so that the limitation will also refer to and include the sum of the debts of the County, township, school district and city or other political division where they all extend over the same territory, as is the case in Columbia.

The above is submitted at the request of certain taxpayers and the suggestion of some members of the Convention, and in the interest of many widows and orphans unable to participate in politics—small freeholders, whose limited income is barely sufficient for their support and the payment of present State and municipal taxes.

To a Convention composed largely of freeholders, who, of all men, realize the danger of extravagant County, township, city or other governmental corporation debt, and of able lawyers, who, of all men, realize the irremediable and direful consequences of such improvident debt upon estates in possession, estates in reversion and upon estates in remainder—upon present and future generations, and of substantial business men whose training impels them to look closely into finance and to preclude all possibility of extravagance and bankruptcy—to such a Convention, in full confidence of the wise limitations that will result from their deliberation, the above is respectfully submitted. D. H. MEANS.

Mr. MOORE introduced the following petition, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Judicial Department:

PETITION FROM THE "WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION" RELATING TO THE "AGE OF CONSENT."

To the Delegates in Constitutional Convention assembled.

GENTLEMEN: The increasing and alarming frequency of assaults upon women and the frightful indignities to which even little girls are subject have become the shame of our boasted civilization.

A study of the Statutes of our State has revealed to us their utter failure to meet the demands of a newly awakened public sentiment which requires better legal protection for girlhood and womanhood.

Therefore, we, the members of the "Women's Christian Temperance Union" of South Carolina, do most earnestly appeal to you, through Mrs. Chapin, our President, to enact such statutes as shall provide for the adequate punishment of crimes against women and girls.

We would also call attention to the disgraceful fact that protection of the person of our women is not placed upon so high a plane as protection of their purse. We would, therefore, entreat your honorable body to raise the (so called) "age of consent" to eighteen, the legal age which permits women to contract a valid marriage or make lawful sale of any of her personal property. North and South Carolina are now the only States, as far as we can find out, where the low age of "ten" fouls the escutcheon of their Statute books, and we earnestly plead that the disgrace to the State be wiped out by raising the law of protection to that of legal majority, eighteen.

S. F. CHAPIN,
President Women's Christian Temperance Union.

CHARLESTON, S. C., September 9th, 1895.

The Governor shall then return the Bill, with his objections to the items or Sections of the same not approved by him, to the House in which the Bill shall have originated, which House shall enter the objections at large upon its Journal, and proceed to reconsider so much of said Bill as is not approved by the Governor. If a Bill or Joint Resolution shall not be returned by the Governor within three days after it shall have been presented to him, Sundays excepted, it shall have the same force and effect as if he had signed it, unless the General Assembly, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall have such force and effect unless returned within two days after their next meeting.

AIKEN, S. C., September 21st, 1895.

Governor J. G. Evans and Hon. W. J. Talbert.

GENTLEMEN: We, the undersigned Confederate veterans, pray you submit our petition to the Convention, asking that the pensions of the wounded be doubled, as the present pay is only twenty-one or two dollars. A few more years and we will all have crossed over the river. South Carolina can well afford to pay her wounded $50, as Georgia pays hers that amount and even more.

We hope you will attend to this for us and oblige,

PETITION.

Mr. MILLER presented the following petition, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations and Police Regulations :

PETITION OF CITIZENS OF SUMTER, S. C., AGAINST THE PASSAGE OF SECTION 16 OF AN ARTICLE TO REGULATE MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS, TO WIT, No 9 ON CALENDAR.

To the Honorable the Constitutional Convention of South Carolina:

We, the undersigned petitioners, respectfully represent that we are citizens of the State of South Carolina and reside in the city of Sumter, in Sumter County.

We recognize the fact that the ballot, honestly regulated, is the safeguard of our American institutions, and upon it depends the prosperity and happiness of all the people of our Commonwealth.

Debased or degraded by a vicious or immoral class it becomes an evil, dangerous it is true, but always capable of correction by intelligence and virtue; but corrupted or tainted by fraud or dishonesty it becomes more terrible in its results than pestilence or war. It blights with its polluting touch every strata of society, reaching from the highest official to the humblest citizen. Corruption, dishonesty, perjury and every species of crime becomes a jest and a pastime.

For these reasons and many others equally weighty and important we humbly petition and respectfully ask that your honoroble body strike out and refuse to incorporate in the organic law of the State that portion of Section 16 of Article — reported from the Committee on Municipal Corporations and Police Regulations, which reads as follows: "or who can explain the same satisfactorily when read to him." These words contain in themselves the elements of fraud. To a board, perhaps partisan, it will be left to decide whether the applicant for the right of suffrage "satisfactorily explains" the clause read to him, and in the exercise of this power to decide a voter's qualification the floodgates of party discrimination, fraud and corruption will be thrown open wide.

We further respectfully ask that whatever regulations be imposed upon the exercise of the right of suffrage they be uniform, impartial, fair, and of an unchangeable and unequivocal standard.

And your petitioners will ever pray, etc, etc.

MEMORIAL.

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN presented the following memorial, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Suffrage :

JOHNSTON, S. C., Sept. 24th, 1895.

To the Hons. John Gary Evans, Benj, R. Tillman, George D. Tillman, J. C. Sheppard, R. B. Watson, H. D. Timmerman, Jasper Talbert and all the Members-eleet of the Constitutional Convention:

While I appreciate the exalted and chivalrous principle which actuates our men in shielding women from contact with what you feel would be unpleasant and perhaps degrading, I feel humbly the humiliation and unfairness in being classed with idiots, the insane, etc.

The great importance of making no mistake in the pending change in the Constitution is felt by every thinking woman in the State far more keenly than by the men. Are not our sons and daughters vitally concerned, and who will assert that a child is dearer to a father than to a mother? We are intended for helpmates in its broadest sense. Can we be that when no voice is given us in framing the laws by which we are governed? The sound judgment and dauntless courage of woman's advice was forcibly demonstrated when Pilate's wife, at the trial of our Saviour, sent this message: "Have thou nothing to do with this just man." That indomitable courage is in the mothers of this dear Southland, and I have no fear that they will be found wanting when the privilege is accorded them for a voice in the government of those dearer than life.

Let our men give us franchise, and the moral influence exerted by woman will be the needful leaven which will permeate and make palatable what we now find a heavy loaf.

Respectfully,

CORA S. LOTT.

ARTICLE ——.

Education.

Section 1. The supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a State Superintendent of Education, who shall be elected for the term of four years, by the qualified electors of the State, in such manner and at such time as the other State officers are elected; his powers, duties and compensation shall be defined by the General Assembly.

Section 2. There shall be elected every four years in each County, by the qualified electors thereof, one School Commissioner, whose qualifications, powers, duties and compensation shall be determined by the General Assembly.

Section 3. The salaries of the State Superintendent of Education and School Commissioners, and compensation of County Treasurers for collecting and disbursing school moneys, shall not be paid out of the school funds, but shall be otherwise provided for by the General Assembly.

Section 4. There shall be a State Board of Education composed of the Governor, the State Superintendent of Education, the heads of the faculties of the branches of the State University and the President of Clemson Agricultural College, and such other persons as may be added by the General Assembly, who shall serve without compensation, but whose traveling expenses incurred in the performance of their duties shall be paid, of which Board the Governor shall be Chairman, and the State Superintendent of Education Secretary. This Board shall have the regulation of examinations of teachers applying for certificates of qualifications, and shall award all scholarships, and have such other powers and duties as may be determined by law.

Section 5. The General Assembly shall provide for a liberal system of free public schools for all children between the ages of six and twenty-one years, not mentally disabled, and for the division of the Counties into suitable school districts, the present division and the provisions of law now governing the same to remain until changed by the General Assembly.

Section 6. The existing County Boards of Commissioners of the several Counties, or such officer or officers as may hereafter be vested with the same or similar powers and duties, shall levy an annual tax of three mills on the dollar upon all the taxable property in their respective Counties; which tax shall be collected at the same time and by the same officers as the other taxes for the same year and shall be held in the County treasury of the respective Counties, and the County School Commissioner shall apportion the said fund among the school districts of his County in proportion to the respective number of pupils enrolled in the public schools and notify the Trustees of the respective school districts thereof, who shall disburse the same by their warrant on the County Treasurer, to be approved by the County School Commissioner.

Three Trustees for each school district shall be selected in such manner and for such terms as the General Assembly may determine.

There shall be assessed on all taxable polls in the State between the ages of twenty-one and sixty years an annual tax of one dollar on each poll, the proceeds of which tax shall be expended for school purposes in the several school districts in which it is collected. Whenever during the three next ensuing fiscal years the tax levied by the said County Board of Commissioners, or similar officers, shall not yield an amount equal to three dollars per capita of the number of children enrolled in the public schools of each County for the scholastic year ending 31st of October, 1894, as it appears in the Report of the State Superintendent of Education for said scholastic year, the Comptroller General shall for the aforesaid three next ensuing fiscal years levy an annual tax on the taxable property of the State sufficient to make up such deficiency, and apportion same among the Counties of the State in proportion to the respective deficiencies therein: the sum so apportioned shall be paid by the State Treasurer to the County Treasurers of the respective Counties on the warrant of the Comptroller General, and shall be apportioned among the school districts of the Counties, and disbursed as other school funds.

And from and after the 1st day of November, A. D. 1898, the General Assembly shall cause to be levied annually on all the taxable property of the State such a tax, in addition to the said tax levied by the said County Board of Commissioners, or similar officers, and poll tax above provided, as may be necessary to keep the schools open throughout the State for such length of time in each scholastic year as the General Assembly may prescribe; and said tax shall be apportioned and disbursed as the additional tax for the three next ensuing fiscal years is required to be.

Any school district may, by the authority of the General Assembly, levy an additional tax for the support of its schools.

Section 7. Separate schools shall be provided for children of the white and colored races.

Section 8. The General Assembly shall provide for the maintenance of Clemson Agricultural College and the State University, and may create scholarships therein. The proceeds realized from the land scrip given by the Act of Congress, passed July 2, 1862, for the support of an agricultural college, and any lands or funds which have heretofore been or may hereafter be given or appropriated for educational purposes, shall be applied as directed in the Acts appropriating the same.

Section 9. Neither the State nor any subdivision thereof, in which term are included cities and towns, shall use its property or credit, or any public money, or authorize or permit either to be used, directly or indirectly, in aid or maintenance of any school or institution of learning, or any charitable or other institution, of whatever kind, where instruction is given which is wholly or in part under the direction or control of any church or of any religious or sectarian society or organization.

Section 10. All gifts, of every kind, for educational purposes, if accepted by the General Assembly, shall be applied and used for the purposes designated by the giver, unless the same be in conflict with the provisions of this Constitution.

Section 11. All gifts to the State where the purpose is not designated, all escheated property, and other money coming into the Treasury of the State by reason of the twelfth Section of an Act entitled "An Act to provide a mode of distribution of the moneys as direct tax from the citizens of this State by the United States in trust to the State of South Carolina," approved December 24, 1891, together with such other means as the General Assembly may provide, shall be securely invested as the State school fund, and the annual income thereof shall be apportioned by the General Assembly for the purpose of maintaining the public schools.

Section 12. All profits realized by the State from the sale or license for the sale of alcoholic liquors or beverages, not including so much thereof as is now or may hereafter be allowed by law to go to the Counties and municipal corporations of the State, shall be devoted to public school purposes, which fund shall be apportioned by the Comptroller General among the Counties of the State in proportion to the number of children enrolled in the public schools and apportioned and disbursed in said Counties as school taxes.

Section 13. Educational institutions for the benefit of the deaf, dumb and blind and such other benevolent institutions as the public good may require shall be established and supported by the State, subject to such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

Section 14. Provision shall be made, when deemed practicable, by the General Assembly for the establishment and maintenance of a State reform school for juvenile offenders.

Yours truly,
MRS. ROSELLA A. WAUR,
President Frogmore Equal Rights Association,
St. Helena Island, S. C.

Also the following, which was received as information :

RICHMOND, KY., October 8, 1895.

Governor Evans.

MY DEAR SIR: The Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States have affirmed in their combined Virginia mines and Yarbrough decisions that women and black men were guaranteed the protection of Congress against State denial of "the right of citizens of the United States to vote" for members of Congress by the Fourteenth Amendment of our National Constitution when it said: "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States." And I am exceedingly anxious that our Southern Democrats should not allow the Northern Republicans to go ahead of them in enfranchising women, so I send you and some other members of your State Convention copies of the enclosed printed letter, in the hope that you will get the Convention to protect white and black women equally with white and black men in that right to vote for members of Congress which women and black men exercised for eighteen years in the State of New Jersey, when the men who wrote the original Constitution of the United States were still living.

Most respectfully yours,

Calendar No. 10, report of Committee on Legislative Department.

Section 29, the question being the motion of Mr. Howell to strike out lines 20, 21 and 22 of the printed Bill.

After debate by Messrs. Sligh and Howell,

At 11 A. M., the hour fixed by the Convention for the consideration of the resolutions in reference to the death of the Hon. J. O. Byrd,

Mr. McCOWN moved that the Convention do now proceed to consider the same; which was agreed to.

Mr. McWHITE addressed the Convention as follows:

It is with great reluctance that I will attempt to speak to the Convention. My acquaintance with Dr. Byrd only dates from 1889. From that time we have often been associated in matters pertaining to County, State and local affairs; from 1892 to 1893 he was my colleague in the Legislature of this State. Dr. Byrd was a man of decided convictions and left evidence of his convictions, always taking a great interest in all matters pertaining to either neighborhood, County or State. A man of commanding appearance, the picture of health, and when, upon arrival at Florence on the 14th inst., and before leaving my buggy, I was shocked to learn of the sudden death of my friend and colleague, Dr. J. O. Byrd. Yes, it was true; the reaper Death had claimed him as its victim, and the once manly form, patriot and gentleman, lay cold in the icy arms of death, taken away so sudden, so unexpected. Oh, what an evidence of the truth that in the midst of life we are in death. A pleasant and lovely home made desolate, a loving companion's heart made to bleed in anguish at the loss of one so kind, noble and affectionate. Affectionate children mourn the death of an affectionate and indulgent father. He was very popular among his people as a physician and politician. An open, free heart, never turning the poor aside. Hospitable and entertaining, Dr. Byrd was a man of the people, and no one will be more missed than he.

I cannot say more. I leave for others more qualified and better acquainted with him to give a more full and detailed history of his noble life.

Mr. TIMMERMAN addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President: I had not anticipated saying a word on this solemn occasion, but it has just been suggested to me that I say something. And remembering the relations in which I have known and been associated with Dr. James O. Byrd, I feel prompted to add my humble testimonies to his worth. I have been associated with him as a member of the House of Representatives, in political conventions, in the State Medical Association, and as a member of the Senate, over which I have the honor to preside. As has been clearly said, he was a manly man, of prepossessing personal appearance, firm, bold, outspoken in his political convictions. I feel an attachment to him because we were members of that noble and humane profession to which I have devoted the best energies and best thoughts of my life for the relief of suffering humanity. He has had the honor of representing Darlington County in the House of Representatives, of which he was formerly a citizen—latterly of Florence County in the Senate, and he wore his honors worthily and well. And I am glad to add my humble testimonial to his distinguished name. By his sudden death we are reminded of that solemn warning: "Be ye also ready; at such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."

Mr. BURN addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: It is proper that I, living in an adjoining County to that of Dr. J. O. Byrd, should indulge the tribute of a tear to his memory. We all stand appalled in the presence of death. That vacant chair, draped in mourning, is a reminder that for each of us there will be a vacant chair. I knew something of his father in relation to the political affairs of Darlington County in the past. I did not enjoy the pleasure of knowing Dr. Byrd intimately, but I have met him quite a number of times. Where was he? On what mission was he engaged? He was always at the gatherings of the people. It was in their work, in their employ, that his sympathies and his labors were enlisted. The good that he has done will live after him. And now that in the prime of his manhood he has left us and entered "that bourne whence no traveler returns," it is only fitting that we should cherish his memory and honor a life devoted to the cause of the people. Having lived to such high and noble purpose, having been faithful to such great and eternal principles, we, while bowed in grief at his departure, can hope and trust for him a reward fitting the life that he lived and the principles that guided his conduct.

Mr. McCOWN addressed the Convention as follows :

Mr. President : I shall not attempt to eulogize my colleague, comrade and friend, the late Dr. James O. Byrd, and in paying this my last tribute of respect to one I truly loved and esteemed my friend, I desire to avoid the least semblance of indirect flattery.

Besides, Mr. President, I feel on this occasion, when his body scarcely lies cold in his grave to which this sad and sudden death has assigned him,—when heads are bowed in reverential grief, and hearts beat in mournful sorrow,—that to sing his praise or speak of his worth, merit, individuality or character to strangers is wholly unbecoming, especially by one professing and claiming his friendship, and to those who know him it is useless and unnecessary.

But, Mr. President, he possessed many fine traits of character. He was a man of unquestioned integrity and high honor; irrepressible moral and physical courage. But I came not to praise him. Why should I, by playing upon words, arouse the passions of man or the feeling of friends "to ope the source of sympathetic tears"?

Are not the dead provided for?

But it is said "the evil men do live after them, the good is often interred with the bones." Be it so, since he who is dead cannot be affected thereby; but I say, and it is an incentive to reward, that the good too which they do live after them. He had a happy home—an earthly boon—graced by a gentle wife and two lovely daughters. I noted this fact with pleasure while partaking of his royal and genuine hospitality. Now this happy home is shrouded in sadness. Where love ones are bereft, there is always a gloom of sorrow and sadness. Would that I could by word or deed displace this shadow with joy and sunshine.

But perhaps it is better that flesh should bear the ills that it is heir to, and that we should take a more philosophical view of death, looking to ourselves and the living, which we are more indebted to, "letting the dead past bury its dead."

To the living the note of warning is sounded, 'take heed, lest to-morrow ye die.'

Like our associate and friend, full of youthful vigor, robust, manly, wearing the bloom of perfect health upon his cheeks, moved and nerved by achievements won, by hope and expectations of plans projected and conceived, which to him can never ripen into fruition, we too may be called from the sphere of our usefulness, from the scene of our pleasures, from the joys of our associations, by the dreaded monster death, beyond that bourne from whence no traveler returns.

Verily, in the midst of life we are in death.

Mr. TALBERT addressed the Convention as follows :

MR. PRESIDENT: I deem it not amiss in me to say a word in reference to the death of Senator J. O. Byrd, by whose side I have sat for four weeks past. Until then I was not intimately acquainted with him, he living in the eastern and myself in the western portion of the State, and only knowing of his record as a public man. But since I have been a member of this Convention I have sat by his side during the deliberations of this body for four weeks, and have learned to respect and love him, and have come to know and believe that within his manly bosom burned a spark of pure patriotism, and that he was an honest man, the noblest work of God. And now, as I look around upon his recent chair, draped in mourning, where I have so often looked into his friendly face, it gives me great pleasure to add additional testimony to that already given by his colleagues, who knew him better, to his sterling qualities and real worth. He has been faithful to every trust and loyal to every cause entrusted to his hands by his people, whom he loved so well, and in whose service he yielded up his life.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Section 2. It shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass the necessary laws for the change of venue in all cases, civil and criminal, over which the Circuit Courts have original jurisdiction, upon a proper showing, supported by affidavit, that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in the County where such trial or prosecution was commenced. The State shall have the same right to move for a change of venue that a defendant has. Unless a change of venue be had under the provisions of this Article the defendants shall be tried in the County where the offense was committed.

Section 3. Justice shall be administered in a uniform mode of pleading, without distinction between law and equity.

Said reports, when ready to be made, shall be printed, and a copy thereof laid upon the desk of each member of both Houses of the General Assembly on the first day of the session, but shall not be taken up for consideration within less than ten days thereafter. The said codes shall be read at length but once in each branch of the General Assembly, and shall thereafter be deemed and taken by all Courts to contain exclusively all the general statute law of the State, except such as may be passed during the same session at which said codes may be adopted; but no alterations or additions to any of the laws therein contained shall be made except under the formalities heretofore prescribed for the passage of laws. Provision shall be made by law for filling vacancies, regulating the terms of office and the compensation of said Commissioners, and imposing such other duties as may be desired. PETITION.

Mr. W. J. MONTGOMERY presented the following petition, which was received as information, printing and reference dispensed with :

THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA, }
COUNTY OF MARION. }

To the Hon. John Gary Evans, President, and the Honorables the Members of the Constitutional Convention of the State of South Carolina :

The subscribing ladies of the town of Marion, of the County and State aforesaid, respectfully petitioning, beg leave to show,—

That whereas, from the very nature of things, there can be no sex in morals and intelligence; that whereas the principles of political reasoning in accordance with which men are given the right to vote applies with equal conclusiveness in regard to the exercise of this right by women (particularly under a free democratic Constitution), since true democracy maintains that every individual is born with an equal right to the protection and consideration of the law, and affirms that every one must have a vote in order to secure this fundamental right; that whereas the spirit of our form of government is such as requires that no man's property shall be taken for the purposes of government without his consent, and since, therefore, the law allows women to hold and manage property, it seems anomalous and inconsistent that it should refuse them a vote to protect their property from inordinate taxation and the consequences generally of weak or vicious government, and class them along with the minor, the idiot, the lunatic and the criminal; that whereas the exclusion from the suffrage founded on color has long since perished, it is a matter of deep humiliation to your petitioners that the only other exception should be founded on sex alone; and whereas that from these and other incontestible grounds your petitioners are firmly persuaded that the disfranchisement of women is an utter anomaly in the Constitution of a free people that boasts of "equal laws and equal rights," and a most unjust discrimination against equally free-born, moral, intelligent and property-holding individuals;

Wherefore your petitioners earnestly entreat that justice be accorded the good women of South Carolina, and to this end that the proposition regarding the enfranchisement of women now pending before your honorable body have early and favorable consideration at your hands and be incorporated in the organic law of the grand old Commonwealth, whose future is as dear to the hearts of her daughters as to those of her sons.

And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

At 12 M., the hour fixed by the Convention for the consideration of Calendar No. 53, resolutions on the death of Hon. R. H. Hodges,

Mr. W. D. EVANS moved that the Convention proceed to the consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

Mr. W. D. EVANS addressed the Convention as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: 'Tis but right that this Convention should pause in its deliberations of the momentous questions under consideration to pay tribute to the memory of a deceased member.

Robert H. Hodges, my late friend and colleague upon this floor, was a worthy descendant of a sturdy ancestry that has lived upon the soil of Marlboro County for near two hundred years.

Gregg's History of the Old Cheraws says: "Among the earlier settlers were the Hodges; few families gave a larger number of soldiers to the cause of liberty. The late Capt. George Hodges of Marlboro was the last connecting link with that generation." He was the grandfather of our departed colleague. His maternal ancestor, Philip Pledger, came to Marlboro in 1754, bearing letters of introduction from Charles Irby, a justice of the peace in Amelia County, Va. He bought lands just above the Welsh settlement on the Pee Dee, and, together with his two sons, settled there, all three of whom cast their lot in with the patriots in their struggle for freedom, and rendered valuable service to the cause of liberty.

Robert H. Hodges was a man of strong mind, sound judgment, and always battled for what he considered right with an energy and determination which was irresistible. He was a true friend, a loving husband and affectionate father.

Mr. President, it is unnecessary for me to multiply words in enumerating the many virtues of my friend. The people of his County know him. They knew him to love him. They will remember him to honor. Faithful in every walk in life, he enjoyed the confidence of the entire people to the extent that few men have.

I have been intimate with him in social circles, political affairs, and other works for the upbuilding and protection of the people, and in him the people ever had a faithful, a conscientious and a determined advocate.

He has crossed over the river and now rests from the labors of a life well spent in the interest of his State, his County and his community. The entire people mourn his loss, and I, Mr. President, will ever cherish among memory's records as one of my dearest treasures the thought that he was my friend and counselor.

Mr. ELLERBE addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: Having known the deceased for a number of years, and having been closely and intimately associated with his family, I beg your indulgence for a moment while uttering a word of sorrow at the loss of an acquaintance and valued friend.

On last Tuesday as the news of his death scattered throughout the country many a tear was shed and many a heart was saddened as his friends heard for the first time that Bob Hodges was dead.

To those who knew him it is not difficult to explain the cause of this sorrow. Coming from a family whose very name is synonymous with generosity and hospitality, his was as kind a heart as ever beat in human breast.

About three months ago, shortly after the nomination of delegates to this Convention, I asked one from his County how it was that he ran so well in the primary, getting nearly every vote. The reply was: "Why, Bob hasn't an enemy in Marlboro County." That was to my mind proof of extraordinary character when I remembered the history of his life for the last few years.

"Not an enemy in Marlboro County," and yet twice elected Treasurer of that County since '90 with all the bitterness we have had in this State.

"Not an enemy in Marlboro County," and yet lecturer for his County Alliance at a time when that organization was despised by many people in South Carolina. I tell you it takes character to stand and command respect in times like these, and this I say the deceased had in an eminent degree. Sitting quietly in his seat as he did, few recognized the intrinsic worth of the man.

Let me say in conclusion, Mr. President, that one who lives as he lived need not fear to die.

Mr. BURN addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: Another chair draped in mourning gives notice that another member of the body has passed into the great beyond.

A noble man, a generous spirit, has left the "temple of clay" to enter "the temple not made by hands.

I knew Brother Robert H. Hodges as a County Alliance lecturer. In the cause of educating the people he was earnest, true and devoted. He was a man of splendid mind and a pure heart. In the cause of freedom, truth and religion he was capable of lofty flights of eloquence, and it seemed at times that his lofty spirit would fly away and join "the sweet immortal bands in the beautiful forever in the happy land of song."

"He liveth long who liveth well,
All else is life but flung away."

Such was the life of our brother whose form we shall see no more, whose voice we shall hear no more, whose tongue is still in death.

Mr. ROGERS addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President: Although this death has for the past several days been expected, the weight of grief I feel on the loss of a friend is not in the least obviated by reason thereof. My life-long friend is dead, and I would be untrue to the better impulses of my nature did I allow this opportunity to pass without offering my tribute to his memory.

Mr. President, if there is one upon this floor who is qualified to speak with confidence of the virtues and manly qualities which Robert Hayne Hodges exemplified in his life, that one is myself. We were born and reared upon adjacent plantations; our fathers' homes were just one mile apart, which in rural districts means we were "next door neighbors." He attended his first school in my father's home during the troubled times of the war, when I was but a babe. Later we attended school together at an academy in the neighborhood, the pupils being composed of his brothers and sisters, and my brothers, sisters and cousins. Being near ten years my senior, I had the best of reason for appreciating a striking characteristic he then exemplified. He was always ready to take the part of the weak, and no large boy could impose upon or oppress a small one in his presence, thus giving promise in his youth of those qualities of manliness which with ripening manhood expanded and broadened into a noble man. The foundation of his character was deep, resting upon a high-minded sense of right and wrong. Hence he was devoted to truth, unswerving in principle, broad in charity, and liberal in his opinions and judgments of others. In friendship true and faithful, he made many friends—and a friend once made he never lost—for he never gave a friend cause to mistrust him. Our friendship sir, begun in early youth, was never interrupted up to the day of his death, and I am to-day proud that I had the honor to know he was my friend. He at an early day gave evidences of a far more than ordinary intellect, and aroused in the minds of his relations and friends fond hopes of his future career of usefulness and honor.

He was at an early day left an orphan, and hence his opportunities for a full development of his capabilities by a thorough education were cut off, but in spite of difficulties the fond hopes of his friends have been in large measure realized. I never knew a man who regretted more through life this fact—that he had not more thorough and complete training in his youth—or struggled harder to supply the want by his own exertions.

Mr. President, I hardly heard of his death ere my mind reverted to a visit we paid in company, just before the convening of this Convention, to each of our old homes. When we were passing the spot where the old academy stood, he quoted these touching lines:

> "Why do the friends of my childhood seem
> Restored a while in every pleasing dream?
> Why do I joy the lonely spot to view,
> By artless friendship blessed when life was new?"

Doubtless, sir, his mind was then filled with the same reflections which are now overpowering me, for others of our associates at that dear old spot had already "gone before."

Sir, I am done; I can say no more; I am quite sure no other here can feel so deeply as I do the loss we have all sustained. He was my friend.

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN addressed the Convention as follows:

Mr. President: After listening to the eloquent and feeling tributes paid by his personal friends to the memory of our dead colleague, it would seem that there was no room for anything more to be said, but I should do myself a wrong if I remained silent on this occasion. I was not personally acquainted with Mr. Hodges until the assembling of this Convention, but as Chairman of the Committee on Suffrage, of which he was a member, I have had more or less intimate association with him during the first weeks of our session. While he was a very modest man and not disposed to press himself forward, I had full opportunity to judge of his character and capacity, and I came to have a very high appreciation of both. He was a very clear reasoner, and in his discussion of matters before the Committee there was the fullest evidence of a thorough knowledge of men and affairs, while his patriotism and devotion to duty were always apparent. It, therefore, was natural that our brief acquaintance should have ripened into a feeling of friendship, and there was no member on this floor more shocked and grieved than I when the news of his untimely death was received. Mr. President, while this Convention has only been in session for a few weeks, we have been twice called upon to pause in our deliberations to take cognizance of the fact that "in the midst of life we are in death." We have had to cease from turmoil and strife to recognize the presence of the messenger of fate—the angel of death—whose scythe is ever busy, cutting down now the budding flower, now the ripened grain. It should be a warning to us, Mr. President, that we should so shape our lives and conduct as to be prepared when our own summons shall come. Judging by what I have heard and known of our dead friend, few or none of us are better prepared than he was. In thus paying tribute to his worth as a man when alive, and his memory, now that he has passed from us, I but discharge a duty which is a pleasure. I could not do more, under whatever incentive; I could not do less, without repression of my honest feelings.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

IN MEMORY OF

Hon. R. H. Hodges.

The Convention resumed the consideration of the amendment proposed by Mr. McKagen.

Mr. D. S. HENDERSON moved to lay the amendment on the table; which was agreed to.

No County seat shall be removed except by a vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors of said County in an election held for that purpose, but such election shall not be held in any County oftener than once in five years.

After debate by Messrs. McGowan and Clayton, the question being put, the Section was adopted.

Mr. BELLINGER offered the following to be known as Section 9:

Each County shall constitute an election district.

Which was agreed to.

Mr. BUIST offered the following to be known as Section 10:

The General Assembly may provide for the consolidation of two or more existing Counties if a majority of the qualified electors of such Counties, voting at an election held for that purpose, shall vote separately therefor, but such elections shall not be held oftener than once in four years in the same Counties.

Which was adopted.

Mr. BUIST offered the following to be known as Section 11:

Each County shall elect a Sheriff, a Clerk of the Court, and a Coroner, whose respective terms of office shall be four years, and whose powers and duties shall be defined by law: Provided, The Sheriff shall not be eligible to re-election until the expiration of four years.

Mr. D. S. HENDERSON moved to strike out all after the word "Provided."

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN addressed the Convention.

The following is the address, which the Convention ordered to be published in full in the Journal:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: I regret that my physical condition is and has been such since Tuesday morning, coupled with enforced attendance upon this Convention, as to render me unable to arrange the data and prepare such a speech as I think the occasion requires. I also feel my inability in a physical way to accomplish what I shall undertake, but I will simply do the best I can.

It has been well said that this is a momentous issue, that this Convention of the people of the State to deal with the question of suffrage will mark an epoch in our history. I may further say that the question of suffrage and its wise regulation is the sole cause of our being here. The prosperity, happiness and progress of this people depend upon its wise solution. The very life of the State is involved in the wisdom or the unwis-dom of our action. Why do I say this? When the Southern Cross went down in battle and the hopes of the Southern Confederacy were laid in the grave of the "Lost Cause," when we had struggled for four years with a bravery and patriotism and self-sacrifice unparalleled in history for the right of self-government, and for our rights under the Constitution as we conceived and understood them, what came to pass? President Johnson appointed a Provisional Governor, and ordered a Constitutional Convention to be convened to prepare the way for the State of South Carolina to re-enter the Union. That Convention assembled and adopted a Constitution. Under it legislation was enacted; the "Black Code," of which we have heard so much, was part of that legislation. Whatever may be said as to that "Black Code," it gave the Black Republicans, Thad. Stevens and his gang, excuse for their reconstruction deviltry. It was the only pretense they wanted, because these hell hounds, actuated by hate for the Southern people, were determined upon degrading us to the lowest level possible, and they had right at hand an instrument which the most fertile imagination, if it had been given a thousand years to concoct a scheme of revenge, could not have surpassed it. It was the presence among us of our ex-slaves set free by the results of the war.

Actuated solely by the purpose to perpetuate the rule of the Republican party, and with the hellish purpose of venting their rage and hatred upon a conquered people, they passed the Reconstruction Acts, and came very near impeaching Johnson because he had been moving forward contrary to their will. And then they put in motion the forces of the army, which were already here to depose the civil government which we had established, to overthrow the fabric which we were trying to re-erect, and to put in its place the rule of the negro over the Anglo-Saxon. Canby, the Major General in charge of this department, issued his orders calling for the election of delegates to a Constitutional Convention. And in effect he said to the Southern white men: "Attend to your material interests, the army will take care of your government; your help is not wanted, nor will your interference be tolerated"—and the radical ring-streaked and striped carpet-bagger Convention of 1868 assembled. The Constitution which they gave us was submitted to the vote of the people—to the negroes, in fact. All our then leaders, without exception, took the position that this action on the part of Congress and the United States army was outside of the Constitution and must fall. They advised our Southern white men to remain at home and pay no attention to it; that it would drop of its own illegality; and the consequence was no white man participated in the election to ratify the Constitution, It was pushed through at the polls, guarded all over the State by bayonets, and we were placed under the rule of our ex-slaves. A Legislature was elected under that Constitution, and an ex-army officer, Robert K. Scott, was elected Governor. The State House was filled with the minions of Black Republicanism, officered and led by white thieves, who came here for the express purpose of getting rich at the expense of our impoverished and fallen people.

The first Legislature under the Radical and carpet-bag regime met in November, 1868. It was composed in both branches exclusively, except from two or three white Counties, of carpet-baggers and negroes. I have attempted to get the figures as to the number of negroes in the four Legislatures which met during those eight years of misrule. I have not been able to do so; but my recollection of the statements made in the public press at the time is that there was a small majority of white men in the first, and in the second and third a large majority of negroes. I have the figures as to the fourth—1874-75—when there were fifteen Senators who were colored and sixty-one colored Representatives.

Now, sir, to give a clear idea of the results of the rule of those people during those eight years of misgovernment and robbery, I must beg your pardon while I read some figures gathered by the Investigating Committee, appointed by the General Assembly, which, in 1877, took up this question and gathered such testimony as would place on record for the benefit of future historians the facts as to the hellish work accomplished through Canby and his carpet-baggers who had been foisted upon this people by the bayonet.

THE PUBLIC CREDIT.

The amount of the public debt July, 1868, when the Radicals went into power, was $7,162,231, including bills of the Bank of the State. This was the honest debt of the State contracted prior to the war, and I do not hesitate to say here that before 1868, and up to that time, there was no State in this Union whose credit was superior to that which this State enjoyed in the money markets of London and New York.

Now, sir, prior to 1868, under the system of government which had obtained and been in effect here from 1790, during the latter years, in the forties and fifties, the average expenditure of our State government for all purposes per annum was $400,000. Let us make some allowance, if you please, for the inflation of currency just after the war, and the increased value of articles which had to be purchased, and, if you wish, let us add 50 per cent. to that as an average and reasonable estimate as to what it ought to have taken to carry on the government honestly; that would make during the eight years, if you estimate $600,000 as necessary to carry on the State government, $4,800,000. What did these carpet-bag thieves and negroes collect in cash? I will only give the aggregate items here. I hope the reporters will get them and print them for the benefit of the people of this State, as well as the people of the other States. The total amount for the eight years collected in cash by these men was $10,165,114. If you subtract $600,000 annually, it will make $4,800,000. If you please, put it five million, and you will see they collected an excess of $5,000,000 over and above the necessary expenses of the government. Did they stop there? Let me read you a brief letter which our State Treasurer, who is more familiar with this matter than I am, wrote me in answer to the inquiry I made yesterday:

"Hon. B. R. Tillman.

"DEAR SIR: Under the Conversion Act of 1869, the Republicans issued $5,965,000 of Conversion Bonds in excess of old bonds surrendered, and there were no vouchers whatever for this excess. These fraudulent bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange to the shame, injury and disgrace of the State to this day."

They are quoted in every price list you see now as non-fundable South Carolina Bonds at one cent on the dollar. When the State Treasurer and myself went to New York three years ago and endeavored to refund your debt, we were met by Henry Clews and his agents—Clews had been Kimpton's partner in his scheme of robbery—and they dogged us all over New York city with the cry: "Here, pay this debt which bears the seal of South Carolina, or you cannot get any recognition in this money market."

"They also fraudulently issued $1,000,000 bonds in 1868, ostensibly to pay interest on the public debt. The Act authorized the issue of one million, but they issued two millions, one of which was fraudulent. Another fradulent issue was one million for the relief of the Treasury in 1869. The assets of the Bank of the State and the railroad shares held by the State in 1867, amounting to $7,069,674, disappeared after the first negro Legislature met in 1868, and the State had to issue $1,259,100 bonds to redeem bills of the Bank of the State in addition to the large amount of these bills received for taxes. For a statement of these frauds see pages 316-317, United States Census, 1880.

"The plunder and destruction of the public funds and property by the negro Legislature and reconstructionists that came into power under the auspices of the Federal Government is, perhaps, without parallel in the history of civilized countries. Money was raised by any and every means found available, with reckless disregard to cost and in violation of every principle of honesty and justice, not to be expended for legitimate public uses, but squandered and embezzled in a manner that defies description, and is almost incredible. This iniquity was accomplished by increased taxation upon onerous assessments of property, the issue of bonds, stocks and certificates in the name of the State by the Legislature, Governors, Treasurer and Speakers House of Representatives and financial agents, and by their sale and hypothecation at frightful reductions in value; by the payment of accounts for unnecessary public printing, for the enrichment of publishing companies; for bills for legislative service; for wines, groceries and dry goods (these last alone amounting to $543,232); by the reproduction and repayment of warrants and coupons that had already been paid, but had never been cancelled, and even by the 'raising' of checks on public account by interpolation and alteration of figures, etc.

"Respectfully,

"W. T. C. BATES, State Treasurer."

Now, this is a long story, Mr. President, and I shall not attempt to rehearse it in all of its details. I shall only attempt to jump from one mammoth and gigantic steal to another. I will not attempt to take them up chronologically. I have not had the time to arrange the data. I will read here, for the benefit of this Convention, an extract from the report of the Investigating Committee, of which my distinguished colleague, Governor Sheppard, was a member, so you may see and learn some of the infamies practiced by these legislators and those in control of our affairs.

The Committee says:

"The legislative pay certificate was the fountain head and nursery of many of the frauds, forgeries and perjuries exposed in this report. Through this source the most flagrant violations of law were committed, whereby the State was annually robbed of amounts ranging from two hundred thousand to one million of dollars, including fraudulent printing certificates, which were collected and divided between the officials, Senators, members of the House, and political hangers-on of the administration. To perpetuate the power and influence of the Republican party it was necessary to have a ready and unfailing reservoir of funds. No simpler or easier way suggested itself than the issuing of pay certificates by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate. Thus it became not only possible but practicable to perpetuate the numerous frauds in the public printing and supplies, to which we have already referred. Indeed, this, like the famous hydra, threw out its hundred heads, encircling and poisoning every department of the government, and giving comfort and support to local leaders. In its trail followed the low, despicable forgeries and perjuries necessary to effect the end proposed. It is not surprising that the poor and ignorant members of the General Assembly fell into these practices, when they were conceived and brought forth by such adroit swindlers as those who led. This immense fund produced and nurtured a bond ring, a printing ring, and this legislative ring—the most popular and at the same time most unscrupulous. It is evident, from the testimony, that such a source of revenue as this was indispensable to silence any complaint, and to pacify the fears of the timid and the greed of the avaricious, whilst the other great rings were in successful progress.

"Among the many remarkable and famous leaders in this enterprise, without at all intending to disparage the claims of others, your Committee must mention the names of F. J. Moses, who issued and sold, and John J. Patterson, who became the purchaser. These two stand out in bold relief, as twin stars, shedding a baleful light upon all who approach them. The evidence which we append will fully justify the conclusion which your Committee has reached. The table submitted with this report shows, among other things, that in one session there was issued $1,168,255 in pay certificates (not including printing certificates), every dollar of which was a robbery, except about two hundred thousand dollars due the members of the Senate and House and regularly elected and appointed attaches of the General Assembly. The evidence of more than one witness shows that it was a race between the bond ring, composed of a limited number, and the General Assembly, as to who should receive the most of the money raised by taxation and the sale of bonds. It was decided that the greatest good could be accomplished by distributing the money to the greatest number, and members of the General Assembly, therefore, became the beneficiaries. An unlimited number of certificates were issued on the written or verbal order of the presiding officers, and the Chairmen of Standing or Special Committees."

LEGISLATIVE SUPPLIES.

Now, sir, I will take up the question of supplies furnished the Legislature. I beg again to read:

"The Committee respectfully invite attention to the evidence and vouchers submitted with this report, under the head of 'Supplies.' The abuses have been so great and of such a palpable nature that the most credulous person would hardly believe that such frauds could be perpetrated under the forms of legislation. History fails to cite an instance which can be compared with such a carnival of fraud and extravagance as has been held in South Carolina by and through the purchase of supplies for the members of the General Assembly.

"'Under the head of Supplies,' says Josephus Woodruff, Clerk of the Senate, 'was embraced anything that a Senator chose to order. These orders were generally given through the Clerk, and the accounts were rendered against the Clerk of the Senate. At first the orders were moderate, and included only stationery and postage stamps, but they gradually increased until they assumed gigantic proportions. In the commencement of this business of furnishing members, they gave orders on the Clerks to deduct the amounts from their pay, but very soon the orders largely exceeded their pay, and the accounts were then included in the report of the Committee on Contingent Accounts, and pay certificates thus issued for almost every description of merchandise.

"In addition to this, pay certificates were drawn and turned over to the Chairman of the Committee on Contingent Accounts for collection and distribution. As the matters became common, the Senators claimed that all their expenses should be paid by the State, or, in the language of Senator C. P. Leslie, 'the State had no right to be a State unless she could pay and take care of her statesmen.'"

C. P. Leslie, I believe, was a negro.

A DELEGATE: No, he was a white man.

SENATOR TILLMAN: He was so much the bigger rascal then.

Mr. WIGG (a colored delegate): All those you are reading about are white men.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I will find you plenty of "nigs" after a while, Wigg. [Laughter.]

The Committee further say, in their report:

"A room in the State House was fitted up wherein to serve 'wines, liquors, eatables and cigars' to State officials, Senators, members of the House and their friends, at all hours of the day and night. Woodruff's evidence is that the largest bills were rendered for refreshments, including the best liquors and cigars, which were served up in a room adjoining that of the Clerk of the Senate, and kept open at all hours, and was visited daily by State officials, Judges, Senators, members of the House, lawyers, editors, newspaper reporters and citizens generally, irrespective of party, and that they discussed matters, State and National, in the most agreeable manner over their sparkling glasses. Not satisfied with the establishment of a bar room in the Capitol, they employed a porter, who had charge of the 'refreshment' room. The porter states that for six years the State House bar room was generally opened at eight o'clock in the morning and kept open until from two to four the next morning; that during that time some one was constantly there eating, smoking or drinking, and that Sunday formed no exception to the rule."

Now, sir, to show you the rapid development of taste and the extravagance of our statesmen of both colors, here is a table of contrasts as to what they thought they ought to have in 1869-70, and what they considered necessary to their comfort in 1871-72.

1869–70.	1871–72.
In 1869-70, $5 clocks satisfied them,	but in 1872 clocks went up to $600.
Forty-cent spittoons in 1869,	as against $8 cuspadores in 1872.
Four-dollar benches	as against $200 crimson plush sofas.
Straw beds	as against sponge mattresses and oriental pillows. [Laughter].
One-dollar chairs	as against $60 crimson plush Gothic chairs.
Four-dollar pine tables	as against $80 library tables.
Twenty-five-cent hat pegs	as against $30 hat racks.
Eight-dollar desks	as against $50 desks.
Ten-dollar office desks	as against $80 to $175 office desks.
Fifty-cent coat hooks	as against $100 wardrobes.
Cheap matting	as against body brussels carpeting.
Clay pipes	as against the finest Havana cigars.
Cheap whiskey	as against champagne.
Four-dollar looking glasses	as against $600 mirrors.
Two-dollar window curtains	as against $600 brocatel curtains, lambrequins.
Five-dollar cornices	as against $80 walnut and gilt cornices.

Then follows itemized bills of legislative "Supplies," showing everything and anything that merchants anywhere ever bought and sold. Well, I reckon that is enough of that, I must move on. I am in so much filth that it is nearly up to my neck, and I do not want to get buried in it, or tire your patience.

The next subject I take up is the public printing. I will give you some statistics collected by this Committee from the official records, showing the amount of printing, the money expended for printing during those eight years of negro domination: Sessions 1868-69, $21,124; 1869-70, $45,000; 1870-71, $152,465; 1871-72, $173,000; 1872-73, $450,000. That's the highest point reached. We come down the next session, which cost $385,000, and then having got broke, having destroyed the credit of the State, having exhausted all means of bamboozling and fooling anybody to trust them, they got back to $50,000 a year for the last two years they were in power, during which period, as the gentleman from Beaufort said, Mr. Cardozo brought in his reform financial measures. The aggregate in the eight years is $1,326,589. This Committee tabulated from the archives of the State the amount expended by the State of South Carolina from 1790 to 1868 for public printing, and it aggregated only $609,000 for the seventy-eight years, showing an excess of cost of printing during the eight years of Republican administration over the seventy-eight previous years of $717,589.

I told you a moment ago that in 1872-73 the amount expended for public printing was $450,000. The Committee also prepared another table of statistics gathered from official sources by correspondence, showing the cost of printing for one year in the States of Louisiana, North Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, Texas, Missouri, Maryland, Virginia, Arkansas, Kentucky. They aggregated $278,241 for their public printing, as follows:

PUBLIC PRINTING—YEAR 1877.

Louisiana	$40,528 71
North Carolina	18,281 31
Mississippi	18,439 85
Florida	19,669 35
Alabama	17,000 00
Tennessee	11,402 60
Georgia	12,904 00
Texas	31,163 47
Missouri	27,000 00
Maryland	25,000 00
Virginia	29,812 00
Arkansas	13,040 00
Kentucky	13,999 71

Leaving a balance against our negro and carpet-bag rulers of $171,759 necessary to defray the expenses of public printing.

Now, sirs, how was this brought about? Here is the testimony of Josephus Woodruff, Clerk of the Senate, who, with A. O. Jones, Clerk of the House, and with Neagle, Comptroller General, were copartners in the firm of the Republican Printing Company. Woodruff says:

"When it became necessary to get appropriations through, I became aware of the absolute necessity of paying for the passage, and we added the estimate for these expenses to the amounts of our accounts in order to save ourselves from loss. One-half or more of the total amount of appropriations for the Republican Printing Company was paid to State officials and members of the General Assembly.

"There were no specific appropriations then, and printing claims were paid out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. Even then it was almost impossible to obtain payment of our claims direct from the treasury. On presentation of a claim, Mr. Parker would refer us to Mr. Neagle, who was the only party he knew had money. In this way we discounted our claims, frequently selling them at twenty-five and thirty cents on the dollar in order to carry on our work, which was very heavy. As an alternative we had to take Neagle into partnership. I submit here copy of partnership agreement, dated July 1st, 1872, between Woodruff, Jones and Neagle, witnessed by LeGrand Benedict. When Cardozo took possession of the office of Treasurer I endeavored to perfect the same arrangement as to percentage that I had with Parker. He said that he had decided not to pay out any money for an object unless there was a specific appropriation. That necessitated the introduction of a bill for the payment of our claims before the Legislature. An itemized bill was accordingly made, presented, passed upon by the Committee in both houses and an appropriation of $250,000 made for the payment of the claims of the Republican Printing Company. Governor Moses was paid $20,000 to sign the bill.

In this connection it pains me to have to read, Mr. President, a document to be found in the Senate Journal, 1873, which is as follows:

"SENATE COMMITTEE ROOMS, COLUMBIA, S. C., October 30, 1873.

"The Committee on Printing, of the Senate, to whom was referred a Bill to make appropriations for the payment of the expenses of printing, have had the same under careful consideration, and beg leave to report:

"That the work ordered by Concurrent Resolution of the General Assembly at its last session is of highest importance to the State, not only because of the information that it affords the immigrant, but as furnishing a valuable record in history. The Committee examined specimens of a portion of the work now in progress, and, after a patient hearing of the Clerks of the two Houses as to the time, labor and expense involved, believe the appropriation asked for this purpose to be just and reasonable.

"In regard to the appropriation for the payment of the printing of the Supreme Court decisions, the Committee, on reference to Chapter 104, page 495, Revised Statutes, find that while the Comptroller General is authorized to draw his warrants for the publication of these decisions, no appropriations have been made for the payment of the warrants, thereby rendering further legislative action necessary to authorize the Treasurer to pay for the work.

"With reference to the last item of appropriation asked for by the Bill, the Committee find that in the reassessment of property for the fiscal year 1873–74 the Comptroller General ordered the reprinting of the blank tax assessments, tax returns and other necessary papers for carrying out the Act passed at the last session of the General Assembly providing for a reassessment of the taxable property of the State, and the Committee are perfectly satisfied of the justness of this claim.

"The Committee, in justice to the State Printers, also beg leave to state that they have carried on their work, as shown your Committee, at heavy sacrifices on account of the State Treasurer's inability to meet the former appropriations made by the General Assembly. Their contract has been faithfully observed and their work well and promptly executed. The Committee, therefore, recommend that the Bill do pass.

"(Signed) ROBERT SMALLS, Chairman.
THAD. C. ANDREWS,
H. J. MAXWELL,
C. D. HAYNE,
B. F. WHITTEMORE."

The same Woodruff testified, and he brought his bank checks, and the Committee, in searching, went to the bank and found certificates of deposit to prove, that he had issued checks to bearer for the following amounts paid to Senators, beginning with Moses, the Governor, who was a native South Carolinian, $20,000, then to Neagle, who was their partner, $40,000, Melton & Chamberlain, $10,000, F. L. Cardozo, $12,500, and coming on down through a lot of Senators, $5,000 each, we find the name of Robert Smalls, and so on, aggregating $112,550 that they paid to that wing or branch of the General Assembly. A. O. Jones testified that he paid the House $55,000; so it seems that the House sold itself disreputably cheap as compared with those that presided at the other end of the Capitol.

But listen again. They found that the $250,000, after paying out one hundred and eighty odd thousand of it, would not work, wouldn't go around, so they made up a bill of deficiencies, amounting to $231,000. And Woodruff goes on and says:

"For the payment of this amount certificates of indebtedness, which I have already alluded to, were ordered to be issued to the company. In order to effect this, as against the bitter opposition of the other ring, I again interested the Senators and paid them the following sums."

And here follows another list of $5,000, $2,000 and $1,000 down to $500 to this same blessed set of statesmen, aggregating $57,200, in addition to the $112,000 they had already received. No wonder that the printing account was $450,000 that year. I can produce the proof, for it is here, the testimony of the cashier of the bank as to the deposit of a certain check on a certain day by Robert Smalls. I have here on my desk his pardon by the Governor in 1879, but it is unnecessary to exhibit it. He disputes and denies his guilt. It is natural that he should. These people have forced me, by endeavoring to claim that it was white men and not negroes who did these wrongs, to unearth these records from our archives and bring them here and let the world know that these men who stand here and clamor for justice for their race perpetrated these damnable robberies as well as infamies when they were in power.

PRINTING STEALS AND SMALLS' CONNECTION WITH THEM.

There are two transactions between Josephus Woodruff and Robert Smalls in the matter of public printing.

One in the fall or the winter of 1870. In connection with this we quote from Woodruff's testimony, page 215, Report on Frauds:

"He swears: 'In the fall or winter of 1870 the Carolina Printing Company was organized by Messrs. J. W. Denny, R. K. Scott, N. G. Parker, D. H. Chamberlain, J. W. Morris and L. Cass Carpenter. This company owned the Daily Union of Columbia and the Charleston Republican. Senator Leslie told Woodruff that 'the friends' in the Senate thought that, as this was a matter of Senate patronage, they should have a percentage of the profits from the printing. In order to carry out the wishes of 'the friends,' Mr. Leslie proposed that pay certificates for various amounts, ranging from three to five thousand dollars, for current printing be drawn, and one-third or one-fourth of the amount realized be given to the Chairman of the Committee on Printing for division among 'the friends,' including some fifteen or sixteen Senators. This system was carried out as long as moneys could be paid out of any sums in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, and was only checked and stopped when the law for specific appropriations and payments was enacted.'

"The certificates were usually discounted at the South Carolina Bank and Trust Company, of which bank Governor R. K. Scott, Treasurer Niles G. Parker and Attorney General Chamberlain were stockholders. The checks in the hands of the Committee are but a portion of the amounts paid during the time of the above arrangements. The money was deposited to the credit of the Printing Company, and sometimes, according to the witness, division or gratification checks were drawn against deposits in the Carolina National Bank and Central National Bank, which checks, he supposes, are still held by these banks. The testimony of Woodruff, corroborated by the checks in the hands of your Committee, shows that the following named persons received the amounts severally annexed to their names under said arrangements."

Here are mentioned the names of twenty-eight Senators and Representatives who received amounts ranging from $50 to $5,000. Among them Senator Smalls received two checks, amounting to $250.

L. N. Zealy, who was connected with the South Carolina Bank and Trust Company, (page 354, Report on Public Frauds), swears:

"I have also examined the following checks, payable to Robt. Smalls or order and R. Smalls or order, signed by J. Woodruff for Republican Printing Company, and find that they have been paid by the South Carolina Bank and Trust Company, and charged to the account of J. Woodruff for the Republican Printing Company, endorsed by Robt. Smalls, one bearing this additional endorsement: 'Pay to the order of J. C. Roath, Esq., cashier. Nathan Ritter, cashier.' Which endorsement indicates that it has passed through the bank in Charleston for collection.

"No. 19.] COLUMBIA, S. C., April 3d, 1871.

"South Carolina Bank and Trust Company of Columbia: Pay to Robt. Smalls or order $200.

J. WOODRUFF,
"For Republican Printing Company.

"[Endorsed: Pay to the order of J. C. Roath, Esq., cashier. Nathan Ritter, cashier. Robert Smalls. Also the figures 138.]

"No. 41.] COLUMBIA, S. C., July 5th, 1871.

"South Carolina Bank and Trust Company of Columbia: "Pay to R. Smalls or order fifty dollars ($50).

J. WOODRUFF,
"For Republican Printing Company.

"[Endorsed Robt. Smalls.]"

THE $5,000 FRAUD.

The second transaction between Josephus Woodruff and Robert Smalls was pertaining to the appropriation of $250,000 to the Republican Printing Company.

The Senate Committee on Printing, of which Robert Smalls was Chairman, and Thad. C. Andrews, H. J. Maxwell, C. D. Hayne and B. F. Whittemore were members, recommended that "the Bill do pass." (Page 263, Report on Frauds as quoted above).

Josephus Woodruff testified (page 265, Report on Frauds): "I can enumerate but a portion of the amounts paid on the passage of the appropriation of $250,000." He here mentioned a list of thirty Senators and others receiving sums ranging from $50 to $40,000, among whom is Senator R. Smalls, $5,000.

Josephus Woodruff continued: "The above, which foots up a total of $112,550, does not include payments made by Mr. Jones to members and officers of the House of Representatives, which I feel assured would make at least $30,000 more. Add to this amount the then existing liabilities of the company, $80,000, and it will be seen the whole amount paid out of that appropriation was $217,550, leaving a balance of $32,450 for the support of the printing establishment and work of the session of 1872–73. The work of this session was enormous. It is true that additional appropriations of $50,000 for the current printing and $50,000 for the permanent printing of that session were made, but the amounts were not paid, nor provision made for payment, until the session of 1873–74, when certificates of indebtedness, receivable for taxes, were ordered to be issued to the Printing Company in payment of their claim."

Now, here is the evidence which fastens the bribery on Smalls:

ZEALY'S TESTIMONY.

"Lawrence N. Zealy, being recalled, says (Pages 360-361, Report on Frauds): 'I have examined the following check, No. 17, payable to cash, signed by J. Woodruff, amounting to five thousand dollars:

"No. 17. COLUMBIA, S. C., January 19, 1873.

"South Carolina Bank and Trust Company of Columbia: Pay to cash or bearer five thousand dollars.

"$5,000. "J. WOODRUFF.

"[Endorsed 'A,' and the figures 584].

"And find on reference to Journal 'A,' page 437, of books South Carolina Bank and Trust Company, on Saturday, January, 1873, check for five thousand dollars, charged to J. Woodruff. The check bears date 19th January, 1873, and, the necessary amount of funds being to the credit of J. Woodruff, was charged to his account on Saturday, the 18th January, 1873, Sunday being the 19th January, 1873. I also find, in individual ledger, page 584, as designated on margin of Journal 'A,' page 437, the same amount charged to J. Woodruff, and that said check appears by following deposit slip, viz.:

"SOUTH CAROLINA BANK AND TRUST COMPANY,
"COLUMBIA, S. C., January, 18, 1873.

"Deposited by Hon. Robert Smalls.

Gold.....
Currency.....
Checks W.....	$ 5,000
Total.....

"The above having been placed to the credit of the Hon. Robert Smalls, for, upon examination of Journal B, page 437, Saturday, January 18, 1873, I find the following entry: 'Hon. Robert Smalls, credited five thousand dollars.' And by reference to the following number (875) on said page 437 of Journal B, which number (875) refers to the number of the page on which the account headed 'Hon. Robert Smalls' appears, the following entry is found: '1873. January 18. By deposit, (No. 437), $5,000. (Individual Ledger.)' Said deposit check, referred to above, bears the letter 'W' after the word 'check,' on same line, which indicates that the deposit made was a check; and it was the habit of the officers of the bank, when a check was deposited by any person, to place the first letter of the maker of the check's name upon the deposit slip. From the appearance of the letter 'W' and the entry in the books, I have no hesitation in saying that it refers to the check of J. Woodruff, charged on the same day to J. Woodruff's account and placed to the credit of the Hon. Robert Smalls."

It has been claimed that, as January 19th, 1873, was Sunday, there is a mistake. It is evident, however, that this was simply a clerical error, likely to be made in any transaction, for the books of the bank show that the money was deposited on January 18th. However, it is conclusive, from the testimony of Zealy, that Smalls did receive the check, and that the check was fraudulent.

LEGISLATIVE EXPENSES.

The next thing, after passing from this matter of printing, to which I will direct your attention, is the table prepared by the same Committee from the records covering legislative expenses. I will not attempt to tire the patience of this body by going over the figures; I will pick out items here and there, and print the whole for the information of those who shall read this expose. The number of clerks employed in 1870–71 was 349. We have been wrangling here to-day about keeping seven poor little fellows who came here to do clerical work. 1872, 176; 1873–74, 126, and so on through the list. They had 124 pages one session. [Laughter.] One for every member of the House. [Laughter.] They had 144 messengers one year and 212 another. The total amount expended under the head of legislative expenses during the first two years was $822,000; during the next year, $1,533,574; the next year, $908,855, and the next year, $922,536. [The table referred to is folded in here.]

GIGANTIC SWINDLES.

Now, not satisfied that the taxes were five million more than were necessary, you will recall that the State Treasurer spoke of the disappearance of seven millions of assets belonging to the State, being the assets of the Bank of the State and the stock of the State in different railroads which she had lent her credit to. Here is what the Committee says about it:

"Since the day of the coming of this man to South Carolina there has been perpetrated upon the people of the State a series of frauds, great and small, many of which have been already made the subject of comment, and all of which mark out together an era challenging comparison for its infamy with any history within the period of modern times. In each case the familiar footprints of this man are to be seen and measured, and most to be found in the forefront of the mottled army of plunderers, as 'the years of good stealing in South Carolina' have come and gone."

That was one of his bon mots which he got off, I suppose, in the State House bar-room, when he remarked that there were "five more years of good stealing in South Carolina." This is the only record he has left here in the memory of these people. In a general way, if you ever hear his name mentioned, some one speaks and says: "Oh, yes, he is the one who said that there were five more years of good stealing in South Carolina."

The Committee says further:

"At that time the State owned large amounts of stock in various railroad companies in the State, which had been acquired in consideration of public bounties conferred upon these corporations, and also other property of various descriptions, which for the moment was not productive of income. The most direct method of securing the controlling interest was to procure legislation to authorize the sale of the stock held by the State in the Greenville and Columbia Railroad Company, and to this end the Act was passed creating the Sinking Fund Commission, composed of Governor Scott, Attorney General Chamberlain, Comptroller Neagle, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means in the House, and the Chairman of the Committee on Finance in the Senate, and authorizing them to sell all unproductive property belonging to the State. Ostensibly the purpose of this Act was to dispose of the damaged granite and marble and other material lying around the State House grounds. The real purpose was consummated by the sale of 21,698 shares of stock in the Greenville and Columbia Railroad Company—which cost the State $20 per share, aggregating $433,960—at $2.75 per share, aggregating $59,969.50 This was followed, of course, by a sacrifice of the interest of the State in all other railroad corporations and the accumulation of a fund, all of which (in gross violation of the letter of the Act) was transferred to the Financial Agent and lost. The evidence hereto appended is conclusive that this Act was passed by bribery, the means for which were furnished by H. H. Kimpton. The stock was sold without advertisement on the day after the Bill was passed and approved, and without any action of the Commissioners either authorizing its sale or limiting the price at which it should be sold, and was paid for by Kimpton's receipt as Financial Agent in New York for the amount of the bid. No money passed, and the fund transferred to Kimpton's books was 'sunk beyond recovery in the devious processes of hypothecation and general bond swindling.

"After a majority of the stock in the Company was obtained by this arrangement and by purchases from private parties and the ring thus placed in control of its affairs, the scheme which was the objective point of the operation was brought into play in the shape of a 'Bill relating to the Greenville and Columbia Railroad Company' (prepared by Attorney General Chamberlain, and on the 17th day of February, 1871, introduced by Timothy Hurley, one of the ring) for the purpose of a further issue of bonds and giving them a value in the market. * * * In the fifth Section of this Act will be found the gist of the matter. The State then held a lien for indemnity against her endorsement upon one million and a half of guaranteed bonds of this company, so that subsequent bonds would be of little or no value and could not be sold by the ring. By this Section the lien was postponed to bonds to be issued under a second mortgage, thus enabling the ring to divide and put their bonds on the market, whilst the only security held by the State was swept away and a contingent debt of fifteen hundred thousand dollars fixed upon the State without indemnity."

Who were the partners in this swindle? "The Financial Board was composed of Governor Scott, Treasurer Parker, and Attorney General Chamberlain. Kimpton paid out of the proceeds of the sale of State bonds the money for a share and a half for Neagle, Comptroller General, who had the general supervision of the bonded debt; one share for Crews, who was Chairman of the Committee on Railroads in the House; one-quarter share for Cardozo, Secretary of State, who had the sealing of all the bonds; two and a half shares for Waterman, for Governor Scott; one-half share for Attorney General Chamberlain, and two shares for Kimpton himself, and one share for Leslie, Land Commissioner." These are the men who stole all the State's interest in the Greenville and Columbia Railroad, then had the Legislature, after they had gotten control of the railroad, to steal the balance from the widows and orphans and other stockholders of the State. They got their power to do these infamies through the members from Beaufort and other negroes who misrepresented our people in those days under bayonet rule and carpet-bag government. One of these swindlers was Chamberlain (bear it in your memories), who on his return to this State five or six years ago, as Receiver of the South Carolina Railroad, was received with open doors by society in Charleston.

MAJOR BARKER, of Charleston: "Will the gentleman allow me to interrupt him for a moment? Do I understand the gentleman to assert from his own knowledge the statement that Chamberlain was received with open arms by the society of Charleston?"

MR. TILLMAN: "No, sir; I only judge by what I saw in the newspaper."

MAJOR BARKER: "I beg leave to state on my authority that this is not true."

MR. TILLMAN: "Thank God! Then the News and Courier lied on you (laughter), because I received the impression from reading in that paper during the residence of that infamous scoundrel in your city that he was received on terms of social equality everywhere he went."

MAJOR BARKER: "I hope the gentleman will accept my statement."

MR. TILLMAN: "I thank God that you have been wronged and the good people of Charleston have been wronged in the minds of the balance of the State."

DELEGATE MILLER, of Beaufort, raising his right hand: "I hold up my right hand and swear that I saw the flower of Charleston society and the lawyers hobnobbing with Chamberlain in his car. If you want to swear me, do so," still holding high his right hand.

MAJOR BARKER (addressing himself to Senator Tillman): "I would not have risen to notice your remark but for the fact that my silence would have been accepted as an admission by me of its truth, and I have no right by such silence to aid in casting any such reflection upon the society of Charleston."

SENATOR TILLMAN: "If I have done the people of Charleston a wrong I am sorry for it, but I am not responsible for the impression created, and I leave it to this Convention if it has not been the general belief throughout this State by those who read those papers that such was the fact."

THE IMPEACHMENT SWINDLE.

The next steal to which I will direct your attention briefly is what is called the "impeachment swindle;" and again John J. Patterson shines out with an immoral pre-eminence as the prince of scoundrels.

Again let the Investigating Committee speak:

"The second noteworthy achievement of John J. Patterson, following that connected with the Columbia and Greenville Railroad Company, was in quite a different field of action. The investigations made into the management of the issuing, sale and hypothecation of State bonds made it plain that the Financial Board, composed of Governor Scott, Treasurer Parker and Attorney General Chamberlain, had fraudulently and illegally issued several millions of State bonds, and it was determined to bring these parties to trial by impeachment. C. C. Bowen, then a member from Charleston, on the 18th of December, 1871, introduced a resolution to impeach R. K. Scott of high crimes and misdemeanors. This was Patterson's opportunity. With the assistance of Worthington, he gave encouragement by day to the friends of the measure, and by night worked upon the credulity of Scott, 'running with the hare and holding with the hounds.' When the scheme was ripe, and Scott became thoroughly alarmed, he engaged the services of those worthies to buy up a majority of the members of the House, and issued to them for this purpose three 'armed force' warrants, in blank as to amounts and names of persons to whom payable, leaving these important matters to be attended to by Patterson. In 1869 the Joint Resolution was passed authorizing the Governor to employ an armed force 'for the preservation of the peace,' the expenses of which were to be 'paid out of any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.' It was from this convenient fund, then ready to hand, that the warrants were drawn—one filled up with the name of John Mooney for $25,545, another in the name of John Leggett for $10,600, and the third in the name of David H. Wilson for $13,500. All of these names are fictitious, but were nevertheless endorsed on the warrants. The two first were collected by F. S. Jacobs, who was cashier of Hardy Solomon's bank, and Patterson's confidential friend. The third order was collected by Hardy Solomon, president of the bank. The financial arrangement thus concluded, Patterson and Worthington did their work faithfully, and with the money of the State bought for Scott and Parker immunity for their crimes.

"In the progress of this double-dyed villainy, it became evident that if an adjournment over to the holidays could be effected, and the members then permitted to return to their homes, where the sentiment of the people was unanimous against the thieves, it would require more money to purchase the recusant members than the State Treasury could afford.

"Another source of annoyance to the financial ring was the report of the Joint Investigating Committee, which was already printed and ready for delivery, and which fully established their guilt. Whipper had the floor, and intended to speak until the hour of adjournment had arrived, and unless he could be seated the vote could not be had before adjournment. In this emergency the services of the Speaker, F. J. Moses, Jr., were secured by the payment of a large sum of money out of the militia fund, whereupon Samuel J. Lee, a ready tool of the ring, rose to a question of privilege, upon which Moses ruled promptly, and thus removed Whipper from the floor. Meantime, Governor Scott had issued a proclamation convening the General Assembly on the day following the day fixed for adjournment, on the dignified ground that it was 'neither decent nor proper, and is injurious to the State, for the General Assembly to adjourn from the 22d of December, 1871, to the 5th of January, 1872, whilst the Governor and Treasurer are charged with high crimes and misdemeanors'. The high and chivalric tone of these two worthies, who could steal the money of the people by the millions, and yet could not brook the indignity of remaining under a threat of impeachment for a week, even for the sake of the joyous festivity of Christmas, ought to have redeemed a multitude of sins. Under such threats and persuasions and preliminary trickery further debate was cut off, and the resolution of impeachment was defeated by an overwhelming vote—63 to 27. In this controversy R. B. Elliott bore a prominent part in behalf of the persecuted officials, and received warrants on the 'armed force fund' to the amount of $10,500, which were fully paid to him out of the Treasury in January and February, 1872."

And then they go on and show how the warrants were paid. I notice here the name of W. J. Whipper, another delegate on this floor, whose pathetic appeal and eloquent portrayal of the consequences of our act should we pass the suffrage plan has been sent broadcast. Whipper's name appears in a good light in the impeachment swindle. He was among those who were endeavoring to impeach Scott. He was on the floor, and the hour for adjournment was fixed by resolution. Speaker Moses took him off the floor after he had received $10,000 for doing it. And the negroes, who had been bribed in the meantime—Patterson got enough of them, buying them up cheap, paying the big ones $500 and $300, etc., and the small ones a less amount—voted down the impeachment resolution.

I am sorry now I have to pay my respects to the gentleman from Beaufort in another aspect. I believe, judging from his speech, which he made extemporaneously, he is the ablest man of color I have ever met; but the proof lies here, overwhelming and undeniable, that he, too, on divers occasions was a bribe-taker, and that, in addition to that, while Secretary of the Sinking Fund Commission he perpetrated a scheme to get some of the State's money. He sold State property for $7,000, then he brought a bill for services as attorney for $8,000, pocketed all he had sold the property for, and brought the State out in debt to him. [Laughter.]

I am sorry to have to bring this fact out on a member of this body, but that member stood here as a representative of the negro race and threatened us with direful consequences if we pressed forward to secure to our posterity immunity from such danger in future. I am forced, in self-defense and as a vindication of our action, to bring out the fact that while he was a representative of the people he participated in this wrong and robbery and stealage, and he must appear in the eyes of the world as simply wanting a possible return of John J. Patterson's "five years more of good stealing."

TESTIMONY AS TO W. J. WHIPPER'S VARIOUS DEFALCATIONS.

"Regarding the contract for furnishing the State House, he says he never had any contract at all to do the furnishing. Says that in the summer of 1870, when Moses was Speaker of the House, Moses asked him if he would like to make the purchase of the furniture for the Hall of Representatives and the Committee rooms in the new State House, which was fast being completed. He replied he would like to do so. Speaker Moses gave him an order to furnish the necessary articles for fitting up the Representative Hall and Committee rooms.

"On the strength of this order witness contracted with M. H. Berry, of this city, to furnish the desks, chairs and everything that came in his line. Mr. Berry then proceeded to New York with him, and took him to the manufacturers, where selections were made. Mr. Berry's bill amounted to, as near as can be remembered, about $12,000. He purchased of Messrs. Stewart, Sutphen & Co., of Brooklyn, New York, the carpets, lambrequins, cornices, etc., that came within their line, and of Messrs. Nicol, Davidson & Co. chandeliers, cuspadores, etc., that came within their line. Does not remember the exact amount of their bills, but think the three accounts of Berry, Nicol & Davidson and Stewart, Sutphen & Co. aggregated about $40,000.

"Byars, from Orangeburg, moved for a committee of nine to be appointed for the purpose of investigating the furniture account, which motion was carried, and he (Byars) became chairman of it. (Page 190).

"When the call for reports from Special Committees was made, Byars rose and reported that the Committee had carefully considered the accounts for furnishing the House of Representatives and Committee rooms, and recommended that they be paid ninety-two thousand some hundred of dollars (does not recollect the exact amount), and that the account of W. E. Rose, for $190 for board of some of the workmen engaged in putting down carpets and putting up chandeliers, etc., be not paid. After this came a question as to how these certificates for payment of the ninety-two thousand dollars should be drawn, Byars being afraid if they were drawn to the merchants who furnished the goods that they would not endorse and hand over the certificates in excess of the amount due them. It was finally decided to draw them all in favor of witness, and let him take the amounts and hand over to the parties who furnished the goods, and endorse all of the others, and they could be distributed among the friends of the ninety-two thousand dollar report. To this witness consented, thinking in that way he could prevent the payment of all the certificates except those justly due to parties who had in good faith furnished the goods. This was done, and witness went to Governor Scott and told him what he had done, and if he (the Governor) would now assist in having paid the amount actually and honestly due to the parties who furnished the goods, the amount being only about forty thousand dollars, that he (witness) would then go before any Court and swear that the excess in the hands of the members of the Legislature was a fraud, and ought not to be paid. Governor Scott said he could do nothing about it."

The witness testified that among the forty members amongst whom the certificates were divided "W. J. Whipper received a certificate for himself for three thousand dollars." (Pages 190, 191 and 192.)

Later on (page 843) John B. Dennis further testified:

"I think I have mentioned in my previous testimony that the amount of pay certificate given to Whipper was $3,000. I remember distinctly that some time afterwards he complained that the warrant was less than he was to have received."

Page 844. "F. E. Wilder, being duly sworn, deposes and says: 'I reside in Beaufort County, in this State. I was Treasurer of that County from the early part of 1871 to the latter part of 1872, and from some time in 1876 to the early part of 1877. In the spring of 1872 (I think some time in the month of March) I cashed several legislative pay certificates for W. J. Whipper, who was a member of the General Assembly from that County. I do not remember how many of them I cashed, but I think the amount was over $3,000.'

"House certificate, dated March 1st, 1872, in favor of Paul Brown, for $1,800, for amount of account for legislative expenses; House certificate, dated February 29th, 1872, in favor of Patrick Dunner, for $1,000, for amount of account for legislative expenses; and House certificate, dated March 13th, 1872, in favor of W. J. Whipper, for $36, for per diem for attending as a member of the House of Representatives—all fastened together, and the latter endorsed '1748, F. E. Wilder, $2,836, March 29th, 1872'—being shown to witness, he says: 'I think these are the certificates, or part of the certificates, I have mentioned I cashed for W. J. Whipper. I turned in these certificates to the State Treasurer as cash on account of taxes on the 29th of March, 1872. I know that is the date I turned them in because that is the date of my receipt to the State Treasurer for the amount of them. I have this day examined my receipt at the State treasury. My receipt in the State Treasurer's book is numbered 1748, corresponding with the number on the back of the certificate in favor of W. J. Whipper. I am entirely satisfied I got all these certificates from W. J. Whipper for this reason, amongst others: that the only persons whose claims I cashed that spring were Smalls, Myers, Bascomb, Nehemiah and Whipper, and none of these certificates were amongst the claims I cashed for the first four persons. Smalls' claim was a Treasurer's due bill; Myers' claims were pay certificates, all drawn in the name of Myers; Bascomb's claims were two pay certificates, one drawn in his own name, and both amounting to only $300 to $400, and Nehemiah's claim was a pay certificate drawn in his own name—according to my impression it was drawn in his own name—and was about for $200. I received no such certificates, such as those now shown to me, from anybody but Whipper, and therefore I say I am entirely satisfied that I got all of them from him.

"(Signed) F. E. WILDER.'"

THE FURNITURE STEAL.

John Williams, being duly sworn, deposes on oath as follows: "I acted as Sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives while F. J. Moses, Jr., and S. J. Lee, Esqs., were respectively Speakers of the House. It was part of my duty, under a resolution of the House, to purchase supplies for the House of Representatives by order of the Speaker.

"While Moses was Speaker I purchased some bedroom sets and delivered them at the building of Mr. Greenfield, at the corner over Muller's store, and furnished eight rooms. Two of them were occupied by Gen. W. J. Whipper." Page 171.

"I know that large quantities of furniture were furnished by Mr. Berry each session ; that as soon as the General Assembly adjourned the furniture disappeared, and that I was compelled, under the order of the Speaker or some Committee Chairman, to refurnish all the rooms as soon as the Legislature met. I was told that it was my business to furnish the rooms ; that after that I had nothing more to do with them or the furniture in them ; consequently it was, in my opinion, stolen by parties who had charge of it."

SINKING FUND FRAUDS.

The Joint Investigating Committee makes this report pertaining to the Sinking Fund Commission and frauds therein, (page 850, Report on Public Frauds):

"But for brazen effrontery we call attention to the transactions and testimony of W. J. Whipper, at one time a member and Secretary of this remarkable Commission. He admitted in his testimony, with shameless audacity, that he had received certain State bonds and money which he appropriated to his own use. It seems that he was employed by the Commission at one time to negotiate the sales of some public property. He not only negotiated certain sales, but he converted the proceeds unlawfully, and perhaps feloniously, to his own use, and when pressed for settlement appears with an account current, which, we venture, cannot be equalled in any business transaction. He sold property amounting to $6,517.99 and credits himself with $7,033.33 for professional services, although the evidence shows conclusively that he was never employed as attorney for the Commission."

Gen. W. J. Whipper, being sworn, says (page 851): "During the legislative terms embracing the sessions of 1870–1871 and 1871–1872 I was Chairman of the House Committee of Ways and Means and ex-officio a member of the Sinking Fund Commission. I was Secretary of the Commission for a portion of that time, succeeding J. L. Neagle as such. I have some bonds of the Sinking Fund Commission in my possession and one paper, the latter being a receipt of D. H. Chamberlain, then Attorney General, for a note of J. B. Dennis (receipt produced and turned over to Committee). The bonds are only constructively in my possession. They are in possession of Gen. Wm. Gurney as collateral for a loan made to me. I got the bonds in payment for a tract of land situate in Charleston sold to Henry Bischoff by me as Secretary of the Commission. I do not remember what class of bonds they were except that they were State bonds of one of the issues since reconstruction. The amount of them was $4,500 or about that amount. Gen. Gurney has had them since the summer of 1872. They were put up with a number of other collaterals to obtain a running loan. I was then doing business with Gen. Gurney, who was my factor at that time. I deem it proper to state that I was at that time Secretary and also attorney for the Commission both when I received the bonds and when I pledged them as collateral. The loans were for me individually. I have not seen Gen. Gurney about the bonds nor endeavored to procure them. * * * I claim a balance in my favor of $1,638.63, for which I hold the bonds above named. I have not with me the itemized particulars of my claims against the Commission. I claim nothing as Secretary or member. My claim is for actual expenses and as attorney's fees, and amount to $8,156.62."

I leave it to all disinterested men to judge of Whipper's guilt or innocence.

THE BLUE RIDGE STEAL.

There is next the Blue Ridge steal. The State had a mortgage on the Blue Ridge Road, having advanced large sums of money in the effort to reach the Northwest by a railroad through the Blue Ridge Mountains, and held practically the title to the road—that is, the State and Charleston jointly. We have $4,000,000—$4,200,000, I think—of Blue Ridge scrip issued fraudulently, and there is a law suit now pending in the United States Court to force this State to pay the Blue Ridge scrip issued by that Legislature in defiance of the law and now held as an obligation by a gentleman in New York, who claims that it was hypothecated with him as security for money, and it seems to me that we are never to be rid of the consequences of this misrule. The Penitentiary down here cost $900,000; that is the sum added together here as the amount appropriated during those years of Radical government.

I will pass on, Mr. President, merely mentioning that a large sum—about $500,000—was spent for the militia; and you all remember that during those dark days of '72, '73 and '74 that there was hardly a Saturday night of the year that a drum beat of some negro militia company was not in the earshot of each one of you, while threats were made by these negro soldiery that they intended to rise up and exterminate the white men from the face of the earth and take this country.

A PRE-EMINENT SCOUNDREL.

I have shown you by the records and the report of this Committee that of all the thieves and scoundrels and villains who fastened their fangs upon the throat of this State and sucked its life blood, John J. Patterson must be given pre-eminence.

What did they do for Patterson, these negroes? He bought enough of them to send him to the United States Senate as a representative in that august assemblage of this grand old State, to occupy the chair that has been graced by Calhoun and Hayne. Here is what the Committee says about it:

"In conclusion, the undersigned respectfully report that the election of the Hon. J. J. Patterson to the Senate of the United States on December 10, 1872, was procured by corruption and bribery.

"They would further remark that the Legislature of 1872-73 was largely composed of new members, and that they were most solemnly pledged to a correction of past abuses and to the inauguration of real reforms. Some of the members may have been unfit for the discharge of the important duties of legislation by reason of ignorance, yet came to Columbia with a desire, in an humble way, to do what was right. John J. Patterson enjoys the unenviable position of having been the first to place before them the poisoned chalice of temptation and to corrupt them with its enticing draughts. Need we wonder that they were intoxicated and fell? Then followed a wild saturnalia of public plunder, the record of which furnishes nothing which is at all pleasant to investigate or to perpetuate in history."

This report is signed by John R. Cochran, chairman, a Republican; Henry A. Meetze, of the Senate; Gerhard Muller, J. C. Sheppard, S. Dibble, of the House.

Now, I have alluded to the fact of this villainy, anarchy, misrule and robbery, and I cannot, in any words I possess, paint it. There is no man on this floor living in the country who dared during that dark period to leave his fireside without dread that when he returned he would find some harm to his family; and he dared not go forth without being armed, fearful of robbery. The sky was lit almost every night by the glare of burning dwellings and gin houses. Our Courts of justice were filled with bribe-takers, and the Judges themselves were not free from bribery. How did it come about, and who must bear the blame? We are told the negroes didn't do it. "Oh, we didn't do it," they say. [Addressing the negro delegates]. You blindly followed and obeyed the orders of the Freedmen's Bureau and the Union League and ignored the appeals of your former masters, who treated you with kindness and furnished you with your daily bread. I myself can testify that appeal after appeal was made by me, and by almost every white man in this State, with the negroes with whom he came in contact on his plantation: "Stop! come back! help us free ourselves from this burden!" But every one of you, almost up to 1876, blindly followed wherever these white thieves ordered. Was it negro government? The negroes furnished the ballots, and that is what we are dealing with. The negroes put the little pieces of paper in the box that gave the commission to these white scoundrels who were their leaders and the men who debauched them; and this must be our justification, our vindication and our excuse to the world that we are met in Convention openly, boldly, without any pretense of secrecy, to announce that it is our purpose, as far as we may, without coming in conflict with the United States Constitution, to put such safeguards around this ballot in future, to so restrict the suffrage and circumscribe it, that this infamy can never come about again.

The negroes were the tools of designing white men, I acknowledge—participators and willing tools. The poor, ignorant cotton field hand, who never reaped any advantage, nor saw anything except a pistol, blindly followed like sheep wherever their black and white leaders told them to go, voted unanimously every time for the Republican ticket during that dark period, and these results were achieved solely and wholly by reason of the ballot being in the hands of such cattle. Is the danger gone? No. How did we recover our liberty? By fraud and violence. We tried to overcome the thirty thousand majority by honest methods, which was a mathematical impossibility. After we had borne these indignities for eight years life became worthless under such conditions. Under the leadership and inspiration of Mart Gary—because he planned and brought about the Straightout movement of '76—in spite of the low country fighting on this floor against those who opposed putting Chamberlain forward as a compromise candidate—under his leadership and through his magnificent courage (for Edgefield alone gave us the excuse to claim the Governorship), we won the fight. We had a legal right by her majority, but then Grant's bayonets were here to prop Chamberlain in the Governor's chair. We were held in suspense from the meeting of the General Assembly in November until Hayes's title had been settled by the Electoral Commission in March. The whole State was like a powder magazine. The people had sworn to have their liberties or to die.

How did we bring it about? Every white man sunk his personal feelings and ambitions. The white people of the State, illustrating our glorious motto, "Ready with their lives and fortunes," came together as one. By fraud and violence, if you please, we threw it off. In 1878 we had to resort to more fraud and violence, and so again in 1880. Then the Registration Law and eight-box system was evolved from the superior intelligence of the white man to check and control this surging, muddy stream of ignorance and to tell it to back, and since then we have carried our elections without resort to any illegal methods, simply because the whites were united. If we were to remain united it would still be desirable that we should guard against the possibility of this flood, which is now dammed up, breaking loose; or, like the viper that is asleep, only to be warmed into life again and sting us whenever some more white rascals, native or foreign, come here and mobilize the ignorant blacks. Therefore, the only thing we can do as patriots and as statesmen is to take from them every ballot that we can under the laws of our national government.

I read a moment ago from the report of the Committee that good government can only rest on intelligence and good morals. I will go further and say that good government and the very life of republics rest on virtue, patriotism and intelligence. The chief amongst the three is intelligence. It has been said, and it must be apparent to any one who thinks, that even if we restrict the suffrage as we propose, that with 40,000 Conservatives and 40,000 Reformers, divided and striving for mastery, and 15,000 illiterate white men disfranchised, that the negroes are still here in sufficient numbers to control us. Are we so besotted, so forgetful and oblivious of the record which I have just read to you? Have our memories grown so callous that we as a white race—kinsmen, brothers, common inheritors of the glorious past and of the freedom transmitted to us by our forefathers—have we got to the point where we cannot unite as brothers, throwing aside the petty bickerings and animosities that have been engendered in the last five years, and, without regard to personal ambition or partisan advantage to anybody, can we not provide so that we will not have to appeal to these people as arbiters of our fate? Can we not rise to the necessities of the occasion and put into this Constitution such an Article in reference to suffrage as will guarantee, as far as the law can guarantee, to future generations that they shall have the blessings of Anglo-Saxon civilization and liberty in this State? How pitiable, how puerile, how ineffably, unutterably contemptible appear the personal ambitions and petty spites of men alongside of this grand and glorious purpose!

I am sorry that I feel constrained briefly to touch upon this matter now from a different standpoint. I shall be as brief as the subject will permit. I feel almost willing to stop now and leave unuttered any word in answer to what has been said this morning, and to leave it to the patriotism and wisdom of this body to move forward and not hesitate. We were told something about perfect equality of white men; that the poor tenant who has nothing but his wife and children, who labors for his daily bread from year's end to year's end, gathering no property, is equal to the highest man in this State. I grant it. It has been my cardinal doctrine as a public man that all white men, as far as the enjoyment of the privileges of government and the emoluments of office are concerned, should be equal in this State, and that the majority alone should govern. But that doctrine cannot be brought in here as a reason why we must stop and pause and falter in our purpose to secure to our posterity good government, unless you carry it further; and if you are going to bring in the universal brotherhood of man as an argument here, then are not the blacks as much entitled to that consideration as anybody? The logical conclusion is inevitable.

On this question of suffrage, it is said that some men's right to vote will be jeopardized. If there was any way under high Heaven by which we could do more than we have done, in God's name I would glory and honor the man, and bow down and submit to his leadership, if he would show us. What do they offer us? A continuation of the existing conditions and perpetuation of fraud, or fraudulent methods; and the sword of Damocles suspended over our heads by a single hair swings, and swings, and swings; and all that is necessary to bring about chaos is for a sufficient number of white men, actuated by hate, or ambition, or from any unpatriotic motive, to climb up and cut it loose, mobilize and register the negroes, lead them and give them a free vote and fair count under manhood suffrage. Some men have seduced themselves into believing that the best white men, the so-called better class, of which we have heard so much within the last few years, could form an alliance with this black substratum, and that our liberties would not be endangered. What folly! The point cannot be controverted that whenever enough white men go with that class and bring them forward, the so-called best white men may get in office once, twice or thrice by means of the negro majority led by the white minority, but the struggle for the control of that vote will just as inevitably debauch, demoralize and lower, and finally corrupt and make rotten the public morals as that the sun shines in the heavens. The men who sink nearest to their level in social equality, as Moses, Chamberlain and those scoundrels did, can always command their support. And you will always be confronted with the possibility, the probability, and even the certainty, of it coming to pass at some time, until you shall have reduced their voting strength so that there will never be enough of them to do more than to put either one white faction or the other in control of the government. And even that, which we cannot help, stands here as fixed as the law of the Medes and Persians by the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments—and yet you hesitate to make the evil as small as possible and minimize the danger!

Allusion has been made to the fact that several prominent gentlemen met in this city to see if there could be any terms of amity, any treaty of peace, between the warring factions in this State, and the words "ingrate" and "traitor" have been used in connection with my name as a participant.

What was the condition? The minority faction had opposed almost to a man the calling of this Constitutional Convention. Demagogues of a certain stripe had used the newspapers of the State to threaten and terrify the poor whites with the possible and probable loss of their ballots if the Constitutional Convention was called. Spartanburg, which had never suffered from negro domination, and which can never suffer in its local affairs from negro domination, voted overwhelmingly against the Constitutional Convention. When the fight seemed almost lost, and those of us who had struggled for ten years or more, in season and out of season, whenever an opportunity offered, to urge upon the people the wisdom and necessity for calling a Convention, and taking care of our posterity by limiting the suffrage, when we felt that the fight was desperate, in October a meeting was called at Ridgeway. The Governor and myself and the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, who has let his tongue run so loosely, were invited, and promised to go there and discuss the question. When the day came the Governor was there and spoke as true as steel. I was there and talked from the shoulder as I always talk. Where was the saviour of the Democratic party: the man who claims the credit and responsibility of calling the Convention?

MR. IRBY: Will the gentleman allow me to answer?

MR. TILLMAN: Certainly.

MR. IRBY: I don't remember—it has been some time ago. I did expect to speak there. I accepted the invitation of Mr. Johnson. It was my intention to go, and something occurred at home, either sickness or something like that, that kept me from going. I would like to ask him one question. Did not I come here for three weeks and stay and fight as hard as any man possibly could to carry the election for this Convention?

MR. TILLMAN: You did; but you afterwards charged that when the battle was on Evans ran out of the State, whereas Evans was at his post, and you at home sick, so you say. (Sarcastically.)

MR. IRBY: I did not say I was sick. It comes with ill grace from him, after all that has happened in the past, that he should charge me for one moment with shirking a responsibility, or running from anything. I did say that when the fight was fiercest Governor Evans fled the State and could not be found by telegram or letter, and I asserted it for the reason that I asked by telegram, or probably in person of the brother of the Governor, why it was that he, the Governor, did not come and help me in his own election, and in the desperate struggle in calling the Constitutional Convention, and he could not tell me where the candidate for Governor was. On the night of the election at 2 o'clock, after the fight had been won, before the smoke of battle had cleared away, our young Governor came into my room, and I reproached him and asked him why it was that he had left me in such an extremity and had not come to my assistance? He said, "Well, I have been off to see my girl," (laughter), "and I was afraid you would commit me to some pledge that I could not carry out." Now, sir, I say that when I was here facing all the dangers of defeat, and the odium of defeat, that he had little to do, and he might have spared the time to come here and help carry his own election as well as carry the Constitutional Convention.

MR. TILLMAN: With that I have nothing to do. I only mention this incidentally as I myself have been accused of certain things, and the gentleman should remember that those who live in glass houses should not throw stones. And inasmuch as he has seen proper to twit, to say that it comes with ill grace from me to even insinuate such things against him, I take this occasion to say to this Convention and to the State of South Carolina that the apparent quarrel between the gentleman and myself is all of his own making, and that I am in no wise responsible for it.

When the Barnwell-Hemphill-Evans-Tillman conference was held I went into it reluctantly because it brought me in contact with a man, the editor of the News and Courier, who has been most implacable and infamous in his abuse of me in his newspaper; with Barnwell, the recalcitrant leader, a hot Haskellite, who said on this floor: "Ben Tillman shall never be Governor of South Carolina." But as I saw at that time the tension between the factions was such that every prospect was that we would have the Conservatives mobilizing the negroes in an effort to control this Convention, to keep us, as they claimed, from doing wrong to their property rights and liberties, I sank my personal feelings and went to that conference. We had it in the Governor's office. It began at 8 o'clock. We talked and wrangled until 2 o'clock, and I leave it to the members of that conference on this floor if, after having talked over the question as to how we could come together and come to an agreement, I did not say: "Gentlemen, unless you rise above petty, personal, contemptible purposes you cannot do anything, and we had just as well retire."

There are men on this floor who were present, and they will bear me out. If not, let them rise now and deny it. I dictated the terms on which we agreed, and the basic principle was that no white man should be disfranchised except for crime, because that was the guiding star which actuated my entire purpose and action. I would suffer the loss of both of my arms before I would do anything knowingly to jeopardize those rights and not redeem my pledge to those men. Suppose we had not had any conference. No one knows what might have happened. The result, unforeseen by anybody, certainly not by me, was the immediate split of the Conservative faction into two warring armies, one side saying, "That's right, come and let's take it," and the other side saying, "No, trust Ben Tillman, Irby and Evans not one bit! If they get any majority in that Convention they had just as well have it all." That was the war cry of those people as against the News and Courier.

God works in a mysterious way His wonders to perform, and He makes instruments of men without their knowledge. The danger, if the danger existed, that the Conservatives would unite and go to the negro passed. I told those gentlemen that night (and they will bear me out in it) that I didn't believe they could get anybody to go that would amount to anything; that the white instinct was too patriotic; that they would talk and blow, but that they could not get enough white men to accomplish anything to follow these radical editors in their efforts in that direction. I further told them that while I would advocate an equal division upon the acceptance of the conditions proposed by me, that I knew or believed that the people would not give it. I concealed nothing and I deceived nobody. I said: "The mistake you have made, gentlemen, is in believing that I am all-powerful and can lead the people anywhere and make them do anything I please. You have misconceived the purpose and mainspring of the Reform movement in crediting me with having omnipotent power, when the fact is my power lies in this, that I simply lead the people the way they want to go, and I am their leader because of that." I promised them nothing except my own personal support, and I was ready to give it. Did the Conservatives accept it? No. The News and Courier alone of all the daily papers of that side said it was the wise and proper thing to do and urged its acceptance. The balance of the press and the majority of those not immediately concerned repudiated it. Both sides repudiated it. The Conservatives in sullen discontent, the Reformers because they saw the other side, while Goff was manipulating the registration law at the instigation of the conspirators, threatening: "Ah, yes; we have got you now; let the registration law be overthrown, turn all these negroes loose, and we will put you under our heels." That is what increased the feeling of discontent among the Reformers, together with the fact that it was undemocratic to give equal recognition to the minority.

The people sent us here, and they elected numbers of you without regard to your factional differences in the past; they sent you here as patriots; they have sent you here although you have opposed them in politics, and I thank God for it, because it has been demonstrated on this floor that we are all actuated by high and noble purposes, except where our personal ambitions are concerned, and we vote here as free men and equals, at no man's dictation. They say I have been shorn of my strength and my influence, that I have been measured here by my logic and my capacity to argue, that I have been turned down time and time again. I thank God that if I have, it has proved to others here that I am no more than any one else. I am simply trying to do my duty, and will always try to do it as I see it. I am not infallible, and do not claim to be. While I have never claimed that wisdom will die with me, I do say that it is my honest purpose and patriotic desire to advance the welfare and interest of this Commonwealth without regard to any one who has opposed me in the past.

It has been charged, directly or indirectly, that the agreement entered into is still to be carried out, and the evidence is brought forward in the matter of the appointments of the Committees and their chairmen.

As a matter of fact, which seems to be forgotten, the members of the Charleston delegation are representatives of the recalcitrant, irreconcilable faction there. Did they not turn Hemphill and Barnwell down in their convention and send Straightouts square from the shoulder like men? Where, then, is the connection, the bond of union between those of us on the Reform side who participated in that conference and the representatives from Charleston? Barnwell could no more control his people for peace, unity and harmony than I (Tillman). Mitchell, Barker, Farrow, Bryan and the rest of them came here as the representatives of public opinion in Charleston, and they do represent it. They have excited no bitterness here. If they have any feeling of resentment they have hid it like patriots. The gentleman from that city who has been associated with me on the Committee on Suffrage has shown a high patriotic purpose, a complete willingness to co-operate in saving the right of suffrage for the poor and illiterate white man as far as he could. His consummate legal ability has been of incalculable benefit to the Committee. He came into the Committee possibly with prejudice against me. I acknowledge I went in it with prejudice against him—because he has been fighting the Dispensary. [Laughter.] We have come to know each other better, and I feel warranted in saying that we will part with the highest mutual respect, if not friendship. And so I trust it will be with all of us. We will return to our homes with a higher purpose and a broader view, and if we must differ we will differ like decent white men, and go into the forum of reason and try to convince our constituents as to which man is right, and when the voters have spoken at the Democratic primary, as white men, we will present a united front to the remnant of the black cohorts whom we have come here to reduce and paralyze.

We have been told had we dared hint to the people that it was our purpose to incorporate an educational qualification in this Constitution we would not have been sent here, that we would have been run off the stump. I spoke at Edgefield, Barnwell and elsewhere. I concealed nothing. How do you propose to get around the Chinese wall, the impassable bulwark which the Fifteenth Amendment throws around the negroes, except by an educational or property qualification?

The desire has been on the part of the gentleman from Laurens to perpetuate the understanding clause, keep up the present system, the eight-box law, the registration law and all. You cannot do it, gentlemen. The people do not want it any longer; they are tired and sick of it unto death. With existing conditions there is nothing left, no man's ingenuity can contrive or conceive of anything to do except to put an educational or property qualification, or both. The property qualification straight would disfranchise thirty thousand people, white men, who own nothing in their own names, and it is contrary to all my ideas of principle, fairness and right, because some of these very men are the most intelligent of our citizens. I said last night that the chalice was poisoned. Some have said there is fraud in this understanding clause. Some poisons in small doses are very salutary and valuable medicines. If you put it in here that a man must understand, and you vest the right to judge whether he understands in an officer, it is a constitutional act. That officer is responsible to his conscience and his God, he is responsible to nobody else. There is no particle of fraud or illegality in it. It is just simply showing partiality, perhaps, [laughter,] or discriminating. Ah, you grin, [turning to Mr. Patton,] you of all men to get up here and wrap your Pharisaical robes around you, as you did last night, and pretend that you——

Mr. Patton: I disclaim any such purpose, and you must not charge it.

Senator Tillman: I got the impression from your speech. I charge this, that you said that the purpose of the Committee was either to have the law administered fairly or unfairly, whether by fraud or not.

Mr. Patton: I did so charge, one or the other.

Senator Tillman: Why should you last Summer have telegraphed the Governor in hot haste to remove the Republican managers or you might not get elected, and now you claim to be purer and more patriotic than other men?

Mr. Patton: I have never claimed to be purer and more patriotic than other men. If there is one thing my soul abhors, it is hypocrisy, and no man has dared charge that to me before. Whatever I may be I am not a Pharisee or a hypocrite. I came into this Convention to help pull us out of that mud and filth that you have described. I have never held myself up to be better than any one else, and there is nothing in my conduct and speech, if rightly judged, which will give ground for any such presumption, and you know it.

Senator Tillman: If I knew it I would not say so. The impression made on me, and I dare say on every member on this floor, was that you have a scheme of your own which you thought was better and which you advocated, and you had a right to advocate it, but you did not have the right to set yourself up as the judge of the motives and purposes of the Committee, who are as pure as yourself, in their efforts to solve this problem. That is the quarrel I have with you; it is not personal in any sense. As a delegate on this floor, and as chairman of the Committee, I take issue with you in the manner in which you have treated this question. I have heard of death bed repentances, but it seems to me that if I had kept the wires hot to keep the Republicans from having representation on the Board of Election Managers for fear of the possibility of being defeated as a delegate here, I would not hug my Pharisaical robes around me and undertake to impute dishonest motives to other men because they disagreed with me.

Now, to return to the gentleman from Laurens. If you look down the vista or the pathway which he asks you to take you see no signs of light or rays of hope. You see nothing there but the dire alternative that some time in the near future we shall have white men struggling to get possession of the negro vote, and a continuation of the present iniquitous system. I desire to say this for the benefit of his constituents more than his. Let this Convention reject our scheme, or modify it or not, it is written as we want it passed; we are responsible for it, all except Mr. Henry, who has disclaimed any paternity of the educational and property qualification, and I am ready to rise or fall by it, and to meet the gentleman in Laurens, or Spartanburg, or any other County in this State, and show to the people that I have not betrayed them, that I have not broken any pledges, that I am not an ingrate, that I am not a traitor, that I have acted as their best friend, and have stood squarely by all the pledges I ever made, and have endeavored to rise to the height of a statesman. I will go to Spartanburg where the two thousand majority on the other side is. I am not afraid to meet him anywhere, because right is right and truth is truth, and with these two bucklers I am ready to face any man that God ever made where my public acts or my private life are brought in question.

The bugaboo of possible injunction against the understanding clause is brought in here to throw discord among us, and to terrify timid men. Well, now, any lawyer, the merest tyro in the profession, who knows anything about it, knows that no one can go into Court and get an injunction unless he alleges personal damage or wrong, and the man would go there under this law simply to get his own rights, and not to keep other people from being registered, and the Court, if the question was brought up, might ask what harm had come to him by refusal to register under the understanding clause, and the Court might say it was unconstitutional, but it would go from one Court to another, and by the time it was decided, as Mr. Bryan has said, we would be on firm ground with the educational qualification pure and simple, and our suffrage plan would be based on a rock.

Mr. Ellerbe: What would become of these parties' rights under that Section?

Senator Tillman: I don't see how you can find——

Senator Irby: Wouldn't that invalidate the whole list on the theory that one rotten apple in the barrel will destroy the whole?

Senator Tillman: Mr. Bryan will have to answer that.

A few words more, Mr. President, and I will conclude. I believe this is about the longest speech I ever made in my life. I shall briefly discuss the resolution of the gentleman from Marlboro as to striking out the money clause—the $300 clause. Now, he said that to allow one illiterate who had $300 to register and vote, and to prohibit another illiterate who didn't have $300, was an unjust discrimination. Mr. President, the millennium has not yet come, and I am afraid it will not come in this day and generation, if ever. Perfect equality before the law in taxation or anything else is an impossibility. That theory is in our law and in our Constitution, but it has never been put in practice in any Court in any County in this State. I would like to ask him, as he pleads so strenuously against the injustice of having one illiterate with property to register, and another not, why did he forget to mention the injustice of allowing a man who is educated to register, and the man who is not to register? You did not say anything about it; you took mighty good pains to leave it untouched.

MR. ROGERS: I will answer the question. I recognize as fair and right the principle that an intelligent ballot is the safeguard of any community, but I can see no reason, and you can show no reason, why two illiterate men, both standing on equality in every other respect, one should be given this privilege over the other simply because of the fact that he has a few dollars.

SENATOR TILLMAN: The very fact that he has a few dollars is a sufficient reason of itself to show that he is probably a better citizen, is more industrious, thrifty, has accumulated something on which to pay taxes; and taxes without representation is repugnant to American liberty. By means of the $300 clause you simply reach out and take in some more white men and a few more colored men. I cannot see for the life of me why we should not go forward and not pander and cringe before people who do not understand that this does not restrict one single ballot—only gives it to a few more. That's the whole subject in a nut-shell. If there is inequality in giving a man of property the ballot and prohibiting another who has none from voting, there is inequality in giving it to a man who can read and write fairly but has not got as much intelligence as his neighbor who cannot. There are men in my neighborhood who came out of the war penniless who cannot read and write because they never had the opportunity of going to school, yet they are good citizens and have accumulated property, are well to do, sending their children to school; but if they should not be able to read and write, under your restrictive purpose, if this Convention should yield to you, they and similar men will be barred in the future from voting. So far as I am concerned and so far as the Committee is concerned, we knew this thing would create a howl among a certain class; but what is the use to pander to the notions of these people? We are told it would be said: "Here's John Smith" (for instance), "a negro with $300, who can vote, and you cannot because you have not got $300, and Ben Tillman, who was on the Committee on Suffrage, did it for you." I am ready to take the consequences. The Convention can vote it down, if they please, but I will never deny anywhere my connection with it, and I am ready to go to the people on it.

MR. MCGOWAN: As the distinguished Senator knows, I was a member of that celebrated conference to which he refers. As he has seen fit to state what was done there, I desire to set myself straight upon the record. The Senator says that that agreement that we entered into was repudiated by both sides.

SENATOR TILLMAN: In effect, yes.

MR. MCGOWAN: So far as I am concerned, I rise to distinctly state I did not.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I do not say that the parties immediately connected with it did, but the factions throughout the State were those who repudiated it.

MR. MCGOWAN: Did not we state that night that we knew many of our people and most of our papers would be against us?

SENATOR TILLMAN: I do not remember it.

MR. MCGOWAN: My recollection is distinct on that point. It was argued that we knew we would have the people of the State down upon us, and we said we knew that most of the Conservative people would be against us, but for the sake of peace, and to try to get the white people of the State together, we were willing to stand that and try to bring it about. As I remember, every Conservative member of the Committee worked faithfully to bring it about, and not a single Conservative member of the Committee repudiated it until first repudiated by the gentleman from Edgefield.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I repudiated it because I saw from the temper of the people who were backing Goff that we could not depend on them and trust the Conservatives with equal representation.

MR. MCGOWAN: I was one of the Committee that thought the Conservatives would not endorse what we did, and that most of the Conservative papers of this State would not endorse it. Therefore I say when you did repudiate it you had no right to do it, because you knew that night what would happen. So far as I am concerned, I deny I ever repudiated it. I signed that agreement honestly, hoping to bring about good will among the white people of this State. I worked faithfully for it until first repudiated by yourself.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I worked as faithfully as you or any other man. I put interviews in the papers and offered to go on the stump and speak.

MR. MCGOWAN: Did we not that night discuss for one hour the clause which you were so determined should go in, that no white man should be disfranchised except for crime? Did not we argue that ought not to go in, for it could not be done constitutionally; that we could not do it?

SRNATOR TILLMAN: Yes.

MR. MCGOWAN: Finally it was understood that while you insisted it should go in, it bound us to nothing that was unconstitutional.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I do not remember about the constitutionality being discussed. I told you I would not sign anything, would agree to nothing, unless you agreed to that, and you did agree to it.

MR. MCGOWAN: We discussed it an hour. We told you it was foolishness, for we could not do it constitutionally; that we could not bind ourselves, and the understanding was it would bind us in nothing which would be unconstitutional.

SENATOR TILLMAN: I did not understand there was to be a mental reservation in it. What is expressed is what I thought you bound yourselves to and what I bound myself to.

MR. MCGOWAN: We discussed the question of constitutionality, and we said we would bind ourselves to nothing that was unconstitutional. We told you it was foolishness to try.

Mr. SMALLS addressed the Convention on the same subject, which, upon motion of Mr. B. R. TILLMAN, was ordered printed in the Journal.

Mr. SMALLS spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: I had thought that I would not find it necessary to have a word to say in regard to this contest for the right of freemen, for the question had been ably presented by others; but to my surprise I find the distinguished gentlemen from Edgefield, Mr. B. Tillman and Mr. J. C. Sheppard, going away from the all-important question, the right to let free Americans cast an honest ballot for honest men.

By those gentlemen I am arraigned here and placed on trial for an act said to have been committed in 1873 in South Carolina. It is true, sir, that I was arrested in the State in 1877, charged by the Democrats of the State with receiving a bribe in 1873. This was done after the Democratic party had taken charge of State affairs; but the evidence upon which this trumped-up charge was brought was that of one Josephus Woodruff, who was Clerk of the Senate and also Public Printer of the State, and who had acknowledged that he had robbed the State out of over $250,000, and had run away and was brought back from Pennsylvania by a writ issued on the Governor of that State.

This man Woodruff testified that of twenty checks which he had given to "cash" or to "bearer" one was given to Robert Smalls. Why so?

Simply because they found that I had deposited in the Banking and Trust Company of the State $5,000 on the 18th day of January, 1873. But when they went to examine the record they found that the check in question was drawn on the 19th day of said month. On examining the calendar they found that the 19th day of January was Sunday, and that if the check was given to me on that day I could not have deposited until the 20th.

The gentleman, Mr. Sheppard, a few moments ago said that I was convicted, the testimony being corroborated by the Cashier of the bank. That gentleman was a member of the Committee: but, sir, he could not have read the record in this case. The Cashier of that bank was a man named Jacobs, who had been charged, as the record shows, under four indictments for perjury, and had fled the State, and a man by the name of Zealy brought in a little slip of paper, written in pencil, and said it was the handwriting of Mr. Jacobs, the Cashier of the bank. Mr. Woodruff himself testified that he had made arrangements to borrow money, or had been trying to do so, and asked me to loan him $5,000, and that when I brought the money to him he had already made the arrangements to get $20,000 from Dr. Neagle. I am as innocent of that charge as you are.

But, sir, that matter is brought in here. The State of South Carolina was in the hands of the Democratic party. It has been said that Judge Townsend was a Republican. This is the first I have ever known of it. He was not elected as a Republican, but as a Democrat, from Marlboro County, and to-day stands here as a Democrat. No one ever heard of Judge Townsend in the Republican ranks anywhere or at any time until now it seems convenient to serve a Democratic purpose.

The gentleman said that I was convicted by a jury of colored men or Republicans. Mr. Speaker, there were two colored men that might have been Republicans on that jury; but every man on that jury had been a Democrat, and had worked and voted for Wade Hampton. There is Joe Taylor. Where is he to-day? Somewhere in Canada. He is a good Democrat, but he stole twenty bales of cotton the other day and has now gone somewhere else. I stand here to-day, and am just as innocent of the charge as either of the gentlemen from Edgefield, who have gone out of the way to make this personal onslaught.

Now, let me say that after that trial and after I was arrested I appealed to the Supreme Court of the State. The Supreme Court held that opinion off over one year, as the record will show. After I had run for Congress a second time the Supreme Court rendered a decision sustaining the action of the lower Court. After that was done, under Section 641 of the Revised Statutes, I took an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. I went to Washington and appeared before that Court. The record shows it. I went before Chief Justice Waite, and he granted the appeal and docketed the case.

No sooner was this done, and no sooner had I returned to South Carolina, than, without a single word from me, or friend of mine, directly or indirectly, Governor Simpson, of South Carolina, issued and sent to me in Beaufort a pardon which I have here in this paper.

Mr. President, my acts in defense of my name and honor are such as are entitled to the respect of every freeman. I did all that man could do; but without my knowledge, against my will, the Attorney General of South Carolina, Mr. Youmans, went before the United States Supreme Court and asked that the case be stricken from the docket, on the ground that it had been adjudicated in the State. I knew nothing of this at all until I happened to see a sketch of it in the News and Courier, published in Charleston, saying that Mr. Youmans was in Washington and had made such a motion.

But while I was in Columbia, before the trial came off, Mr. Cochrane, the Chairman of that great investigating committee appointed by the Legislature of South Carolina, said to me, "Smalls, you had better resign." "Resign what?" "Resign your seat in Congress." "What," said I, "the seat the people elected me to?" "Yes; you had better resign, because if you don't they are going to convict you." Said I: "I don't believe that, sir. I am innocent and they cannot do it." "Well," said he, "bear in mind that these men have got the Court, they have got the jury, and an indictment is a conviction." I did not believe it, but I tell you those gentlemen taught me it was so. And it was so. I was sought by another gentleman, a gentleman from Aiken County, Mr. Drayton, the editor of a paper there. He came to me and said: "Smalls, we don't want to harm you. Get out of the way. We know you were kind to our people just after the surrender, and Governor Hampton says he doesn't want to injure you. We want this government, and we must have it. If you will vacate your office we will pay you $10,000 for your two years' salary." Said I, "Mr. Drayton, where did you get this money to give me?" Said he, "Smalls, don't you ask that. We have got the money. The people of South Carolina have paid in 10 per cent. on their taxes to perpetuate the Hampton government and we intend to have it." Said I: "Sir, if you want me to resign my position you must call meetings all over the Congressional District and get those people who elected me to pass resolutions requiring me to resign, and then you can have the office without a penny. Otherwise I would suffer myself to go into the Penitentiary and rot before I would resign an office that I was elected to on a trumped-up charge against me for the purpose of making me resign."

Make me resign when I am innocent; make me resign when the only testimony against me is that of a self-confessed thief. And, Mr. President, this self-confessed thief at my trial admitted, under oath, that he had been granted immunity from trial because he had promised the prosecution to testify against me. And, Mr. President, this man Woodruff has never been tried.

Why should this matter be dragged into this debate? Why, sir, it is to inflame the passions of delegates against Republicans and force them to vote for this most infamous Suffrage Bill, which seeks to take away the right to vote from two-thirds of the qualified voters of the State.

It has been claimed that there has been a compromise in my case, but this is not true. I refused all offers of compromise, but there were compromises made but I was not included; I received no advantage therefrom. I have here a copy of a compromise entered into by the State of South Carolina and the United States District Attorney for South Carolina, which I send to the desk and ask that it be read, which speaks for itself:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
COLUMBIA, S. C., April 22, 1879.

Hon. L. C. Northrop, U. S. District Attorney for the District of South Carolina,
Charleston, S. C.

DEAR SIR: After seeing in writing the views of the Governor and the State delegations in both branches of Congress, and after consultation with the State officers and others, I have deemed it proper, in the interests of peace and quiet in the State, to address you this letter in regard to the action thought to be the most conducive to that end, and most practicable under the circumstances, as to certain prosecutions which have been, or may be, brought by the United States and State governments respectively.

That action is that the United States government shall continue the cases against all persons charged with violations of law by the commission of any acts whatever in connection with, or growing out of, past canvasses or elections, and at the next term, or as soon thereafter as practicable, nol pros. them, and that no more prosecutions shall be had.

That upon this continuance by the United States, the State shall continue the pending cases against D. H. Chamberlain and others, brought under the resolution of the General Assembly, and all cases against persons charged with violations of law by the commission of any acts whatever in connection with, or growing out of, past canvasses or elections, and all cases of criminal malfeasance on the part of any public officers of the State, or of bribery or corruption of the public officers of the State, prior to January 1, 1877, and nol pros. the same, upon the United States nol prossing the prosecutions aforesaid brought by the United States government, and that no more such prosecutions shall be had by the State.

If you will do what is necessary to carry this out, as United States Attorney, I will do what is necessary to carry it out as Attorney-General.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) LeRoy F. Youmans,
Attorney-General South Carolina.

Charleston, S. C., April 29, 1879.

I certify that the above is a true and exact copy of a letter handed to me to-day after the cases alluded to were continued in the United States Court.

(Signed) L. C. Northrop.

True copy of the certified copy as above in L. C. Northrop's handwriting.

Warren R. Marshall.

April 30, 1879.

Mr. President, I am through with this matter. It should not have been brought in here. All the thieves are gone; they are scattered over the nation, but I have remained here. My race has honored me with a seat on this floor, and I shall serve them to the best of my ability. My race needs no special defense, for the past history of them in this country proves them to be the equal of any people anywhere. All they need is an equal chance in the battle of life. I am proud of them, and by their acts toward me I know that they are not ashamed of me, for they have at all times honored me with their votes.

I stand here the equal of any man. I started out in the war with the Confederates; they threatened to punish me and I left them. I went to the Union army. I fought in seventeen battles to make glorious and perpetuate the flag that some of you trampled under your feet.

Innocent of every charge attempted to be made here to-day against me, no act or word of yours can in any way blur the record that I have made at home and abroad.

Mr. President, I am through, and shall not hereafter notice any personal remark. You have the facts in the case; by them I ask to be judged.

Mr. SHEPPARD addressed the Convention as follows in reference to the report of the Commission appointed to investigate the frauds of the State government from 1868 to 1876:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention:

I was absent from the Convention, and from the city, last Friday and Saturday, when the members from Beaufort made their speeches, and undertook to demonstrate the right of the colored race to vote, and to illustrate that they are worthy of the ballot.

Upon my return to the city, I read their speeches with care, and made up my mind to expose, not only for the consideration of this Convention, but for the country at large, the record that they made while they were practically in control of the government of the State. Upon reflection I relented. It occurred to me that they are here in a hopeless and helpless and harmless minority; I felt that it would be too much like attacking a man after he is down. I preferred to throw over the horrid scene the veil of charity, was willing that the memory of men should let fall the recollections of the melancholy events of that day, and I concluded not to do so.

I would not detain the Convention even for the five minutes during which I shall ask your indulgence but for the remarks of the gentleman from Beaufort (Mr. Smalls) last night, in reply to my colleague (Mr. Tillman), who questioned the justice and rightfulness of the record that was made up by the Committee on Frauds—of which I was a member—so far as it affected him.

He sought to impress upon the members of this Convention, and upon the minds of the people of this great country, that the judgment that was rendered in his case was based upon the testimony of Woodruff alone, and that his testimony was given in consideration of amnesty.

I am sorry that the member from Beaufort has made any such reference, because it makes it obligatory upon me, as a member of that Commission, in vindication of the truth of the record, to say that such was not only not the case, but that the record justified the event beyond the criticism of the closest scrutiny. The member from Beaufort, by the modesty of his demeanor, and by his evident endeavor to discharge his duties as a member of this Convention faithfully, has strongly commended himself to my friendly consideration; and I would not uncover the record but for the provocation they have given. They have brought on the inquiry, and they must take the consequences.

Then, Mr. President, what does the record show? That the member from Beaufort was tried before a Republican Judge—a member of his own party (Judge Townsend)—perhaps the ablest lawyer that was elected to the bench during that regime. He was defended by a man who was acknowledged to be the equal of any man who ever addressed a Court of General Sessions in South Carolina, and would compare favorably with any criminal lawyer in any State of the Union—(Judge Melton.)

His case was heard by a jury, one-half of whom were men of his own color. I say one-half—my recollection is that more than one-half of the jury were men of his own color. I have examined the record this morning—since breakfast—and saw the list of the jury, and the Clerk of the Court pointed out to me the names of six of the jurors who were known to be men of his own color—some of whom were men of his own political party.

By that jury a verdict of guilty was rendered. From that verdict and the judgment thereon he appealed to the Supreme Court of this State, of which the Chief Justice (Willard) was a Republican; and the judgment was affirmed unanimously. I regret to say to any gentleman here, or to any man who may read these words, that the judgment was justified by the record.

Mr. Wigg: Did you not vote to re-elect that Judge? Did you not re-elect a Republican to office for thus catering to your party?

Mr. Sheppard: I emphatically deny it. I voted against him thirty-two times. General McGowan was the candidate against Willard, and I voted against him every time until the result was reached. The gentleman does not know what he is talking about, and had better keep his seat until I get through.

Mr. President, it gives me no pleasure to say these things, and I would not have opened my lips to mortify the honorable member from Beaufort, but he has forced me to do so, as I am the only member of this Convention who was a member of that Commission.

Since that time the State has forgiven the honorable member, and I, for one, was willing that the unhappy circumstances of his life should be blotted from the memory of men. I trust that since he has received the pardon of the Chief Executive he has so conducted himself as to show that he was worthy of the restoration to the privileges of citizenship that was conferred upon him, and I hope that hereafter he will so conduct himself as to justify that action.

Mr. President, the record of the horrible crimes and disgusting debauchery which characterized the administration of the government, in all its departments, from 1868 to 1876, is here. No epitome can be made of it. In venality and corruption it is without a parallel in the history of civilized government. No adequate or just judgment can be formed of the outrages and infamies which were perpetrated without reference to the entire record. I will not fatigue your indignation by elaborate disclosure of the horrible details, but will content myself with the addition of a few conspicuous illustrations to the fearful arraignment presented by my colleague (Mr. Tillman) last evening.

At one session of the Senate there were sixteen colored Senators, besides the President of the Senate, who was a colored man. This record shows that of these seventeen men fourteen were corrupt, and I am sorry to say that the record does not show that the remaining three were not corrupt. That appalling fact shows that between the leaders of these men and their followers there was no difference, except in the price received. These fourteen men, leaders and followers, learned and ignorant, respected and depraved, were all alike corrupt, and the only difference was that some received five thousand dollars for a single vote, others received twenty-five hundred dollars, others fifteen hundred dollars, others one thousand dollars, and on down to three hundred dollars. The leaders to whom the colored people all over the country had the right to look for guidance, to whom the colored people had the right to look for example, only differed among themselves and from their followers in the price they received.

Why, Mr. President, when we were investigating this horrid picture, and exposing to the world these specimens of depravity, more than fifty of these men, including Senators and members of the House, officers of the General Assembly and State officials, came before us in their own persons and under oath acknowledged that they had been bought time and time again—giving time, circumstance and price. I will not weary you with recitals—the record is here, and I commend it to your examination. I will content myself with a solitary illustration. Charles Minort, a member of the Legislature from this city, who was a leader among his people here, who looked upon him with pride, and had a right to look to him for example, came before the Committee and testified with reference to the election of John J. Patterson to the United States Senate. Hear what he said.

"ROOMS OF JOINT INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE,
"COLUMBIA, S. C., October 20, 1877.

"CHARLES MINORT, BEING SWORN, SAYS:

"I am a resident of the city of Columbia. Was a member of the House of Representatives for one term, commencing in November, 1872, and am at present a member of the House, having been elected in November, 1876. I voted for John J. Patterson. I was prejudiced against R. B. Elliott, and Patterson found that out. He asked me to support him, and also to hold the caucuses at my house, and said that he would pay me well for my services. I asked him how much. He said twenty-five hundred dollars; and I said all right. I accordingly held the caucuses at my house, and did my part of the work, which was all that I could do, to secure his election. Patterson paid me twenty-two hundred dollars, and promised to pay me the balance, but it has not been done. Some members told me that Patterson was paying for votes. I think Gilman told me that Patterson paid him. I am sure Gilman told me so.

" (Signed) C. S. MINORT."

Almost the entire record is made up of the testimony of participants, and is filled with confessions, under oath, such as that made by Minort.

But the member from Beaufort complains that he was persecuted, and that white men of greater prominence went unwhipped of justice, such as Leslie, Worthington and Patterson. Such was not the case. The Committee did not desire to fill the penitentiary with men who had committed these crimes. They desired that the judgment of condemnation, which was rendered upon their ex parte investigation against practically every man who had been connected with the State government during the period of reconstruction, would be vindicated by the judgment of the Courts of the State.

It was due to history that we should show by the judgment of the Courts that the record, as made up by the Committee, was just. Therefore we selected eight or ten of the most prominent and influential leaders for prosecution. Out of the entire number that we selected for prosecution—according to the best of my recollection—only two were colored, the balance were white men.

We prosecuted L. Cass Carpenter, a white man, for forgery, and convicted him before a Republican Judge and jury.

We prosecuted F. L. Cardozo, the State Treasurer, and convicted him.

We presented bills of indictment against such leaders as Patterson, Leslie, Neagle, Parker, Kimpton and Chamberlain, upon which "true bills" were rendered. We tried our best to get Leslie. We wanted Patterson more than we did any man connected with the record. We made requisition upon the Governor of Massachusetts for him, and sent our Attorney General there to demand his delivery to the agents of the State, but the Court refused to surrender him.

The members from Beaufort speak of white men who, as State officials, defaulted, by way of consolation, if not justification. But it is not true that in every State where white treasurers were guilty of malfeasance they have either been sent to the penitentiary or driven into exile and oblivion by the contempt and indignation of their fellow citizens. Where is a solitary man of them who has been forgiven by the people they have outraged, and restored to positions of power and authority?

But, Mr. President, it is no pleasure to me to go into this record, and I will not exhaust it. I regret that the matter has been referred to at all. The members from Beaufort brought it on themselves. But for their reference to the record, no mention would have been made of the facts stated. We desire to let the dead past bury its dead.

I tell them again that when the facts and the records are appealed to, they will find no comfort. I will not dwell further on the record unless they force it, but I have no objection. If they force it, they must abide the consequences.

Now, gentlemen of the Convention, I desire to apologize for having detained you with a discussion of such matters; I have done no injustice to that Commission—two of whom are dead—who were actuated by a desire to serve the State faithfully. As long as my head is hot the finger of aspersion shall not be pointed at them. Every word that they wrote, and every judgment that they rendered, was justified by the record before them; and for the services that they performed they were entitled to the thanks of the people.

Mr. G. D. TILLMAN addressed the Convention on the same subject.

Mr. D S. HENDERSON moved that the remarks of Mr. G. D. Tillman be printed in the Journal; which was agreed to.

Mr. G. D. TILLMAN spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT: Most of the facts that caused the writing of the letter which has just been read are personally known to me, and will, no doubt, be of interest. No one can even now read the history of the dark Reconstruction days through which we passed without indignation; indeed, to use the words of Gen. Toombs, I might say, "it even fatigues indignation." The document presented is genuine. I know how it came about. In fact, I may be called a party to it. When some of the carpet-bag head devils who had preyed upon the substance and vitals of the State, and were fugitives from justice, were being hunted throughout the United States by our State authorities, with a good chance of the capture of several of them, "the wisest, brightest and meanest of them" humbly sought an interview with the South Carolina delegation in Congress, including Senator Butler and the members of the House, to see if the hounding down could not be stopped. We then negotiated a treaty of peace, and agreed upon a mutual exchange of prisoners. Many South Carolinians were languishing in Northern prisons, under sentence for alleged violation of the Federal election laws, convicted, doubtless, by bribed juries and perjured witnesses, while numerous indictments were also pending in the Courts. Knowing that a number of Republicans had been guilty of other crimes besides bribe taking, theft, peculation and the robbery of the State, our local authorities here began arresting right and left, and the chief rascals, most of whom had fled the State, became alarmed about being brought to trial. Under the circumstances, we were not long in arriving at a compromise, which was that if the Federal Government would stop all its pending election prosecutions and pardon those who were immured in Northern dungeons, the State would pardon all Republicans she had convicted for crimes growing out of politics and cease further prosecutions. I know who has the original treaty of peace, but at the time it was agreed that no mention should be made of who holds the document.

A joint communication was addressed to President Hayes and the Governor of South Carolina, as I remember now, and the mutual exchange of prisoners and cessation of political prosecutions were carried out in good faith.

The whole truth can never be obtained when current history is written of contemporary events, and only time can bring out all the facts correctly. Therefore, when that historical document—this letter of Attorney General Youmans—was presented here, I felt it due to the accuracy of history that the whole truth should be known, and I say what I do for the benefit of the young men and the public, as well as to explain why South Carolina granted pardon and amnesty to all the Radical rascals after 1876.

Mr. MILLER moved that the remarks of himself and Mr. Smalls on the same subject be printed in the Journal.

Mr. EFIRD moved as a substitute that Mr. Smalls be permitted to make a statement in his own defense, and that it be printed in the Journal.

The motion of Mr. Efird was agreed to.

Mr. WHIPPER addressed the Convention on the same subject.

Mr. B. R. TILLMAN moved that Mr. Whipper be permitted to have his remarks printed in the Journal ; which was agreed to.

AN ORDINANCE TO AUTHORIZE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO PROVIDE FOR A SINKING FUND IN THE SEVERAL COUNTIES OF THE STATE TO ENABLE THE SAME TO DO BUSINESS ON A CASH BASIS.

Whereas in most, if not all, of the Counties of the State the taxes are never realized until a year after the levy, and consequently the contracts for ordinary County purposes and for the running of the schools have to be made on a credit instead of a cash basis; and whereas this is an evil which ought to be remedied.

Therefore be it ordained by the people of the State of South Carolina, in convention assembled, and by the authority of the same:

Section 1. That the General Assembly shall provide for an annual tax levy not to exceed one-half of one mill in each County not now on a cash basis. The proceeds of all such levies shall be used as a sinking fund for each and every County in which it is levied and collected, and shall be invested as the General Assembly shall direct until an amount sufficient shall have been collected to put such Counties on a cash basis. Then such annual levies shall cease.

CHARLES A. CALVO, JR.

Sworn to before me November 7, 1895.
GEO. W. PARKER, [L. S.]
Notary Public, S. C.

Mr. MITCHELL presented the following petition, signed by 316 citizens, which was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Counties and County Government:

To the Honorable the Members of the Constitutional Convention of the State of South Carolina:

Your petitioners, white voters and taxpayers in that portion of Charleston County proposed to be cut off and formed into a County to be called "Seabrook County," and also property holders of aforesaid section, but resident in Charleston, do hereby enter their solemn protest against the formation of said County.

Your petitioners would respectfully show that the assessment of said portion of Charleston County is only $2,220,726 as assessed for the fiscal year 1894-95, and to defray the expenses of said County incident to its formation and current expenses would require a levy of not less than twenty or twenty-one mills, while if we remain a portion of Charleston County we would be required to only pay on a levy of one-half that amount.

In the first place we would have to purchase from Berkeley County the court house and jail.

Second. We would have to pay Berkeley County and Charleston County $11,000 for the records that have been transcribed from Berkeley to Charleston.

Third. We would have to pay the expenses of a County government, including officers' salaries, Court expenses, maintenance of poor house and poor, and maintenance of roads and bridges, and countless other expenses.

Charleston County, with an assessment of over $20,000,000, levies a County tax of two and one-quarter mills, thereby collecting $45,000 for the above purposes; and can we expect to run the said Seabrook County for less than one-third, which is $15,000? To raise which would require a levy of seven mills in addition to eight mills required to obtain the court house and records as above recited, which will make the levy for 1895-96 over twenty-one mills. The above figures are based on the minimum cost of everything, and as property holders we earnestly protest against the creation of said County.

Again, the conformation of Seabrook County makes it necessary for every resident living to the south of Charleston (in order to reach his court house) that he must pass through Charleston. Those living to the north of Charleston will necessarily come to Mt. Pleasant, distant only three and one-half miles from Charleston; so, as a matter of convenience for the majority of the residents of the section, Charleston is the most convenient point. About 80 per cent. of the population of the proposed County reside to the south of Charleston, and, being the point at which they all do their business, should be their County seat.

Again, the proposed County being composed of the sea islands and coast section is cut up by large creeks, which are crossed by expensive bridges, costing from $1,000 to $2,000 in their construction, and the life of these bridges does not exceed six years; consequently it is very doubtful if an eight-mill tax levy will cover the expenses of the County. This section, as you all know, is liable to damage by storms. We would also state that this section is inhabited by a large criminal class, which makes the Court expenses very heavy.

We would, in the last place, call your attention to the fact that the proposed County has a white voting population of a little over 400, with a large colored vote.

For the above reasons your petitioners would most earnestly protest against the formation of the said Seabrook County, and your petitioners will ever pray.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE.

Mr. FIELD, for the Committee on Contingent Accounts and Expenses, submitted the following report, which was read the first time and ordered for consideration to-morrow:

REASON FOR VOTING.

In voting "aye" I am not voting in any spirit of antagonism to the Dispensary system, which I heartily approve.

Mr. VON KOLNITZ was paired with Mr. Jervey, otherwise he would have voted "yea."

REASONS GIVEN FOR VOTING ON THE FINAL ADOPTION OF THE ARTICLE.

I voted "no" on the Article on right of suffrage, for these reasons:

1. It places the eligibility of electors within the arbitary will, possibly of a partisan, and requires qualifications of electors, if fairly applied, which will exclude a large number of worthy men, who will be deprived of the privilege enjoyed in the past from no fault of their own.

2. And for the further reason: White supremacy may be secured without resorting to the perhaps questionable means adopted by the Convention.

T. E. DUDLEY.

I voted "no" on the adoption of this section of the Constitution because I am opposed to the educational and property qualifications.

McDERMOTTE.

I voted "aye" on the adoption of the report of the Committee on Suffrage, but still entertain the same objections presented by me on page 13 of the Journal of the thirty-eighth day.

J. W. HAMEL.

I vote "no" on the amendment because the provision could not be complied with in some instances in Horry County, and we need no constitutional provision to make us count all votes cast.

DERHAM.

I vote "no" on the final passage of this Article for the reason that I am opposed to the property qualification.

W. D. EVANS.

After offering every opposition in my power to the property qualification, and having failed to strike out that provision in the report of the Committee on Suffrage, I feel constrained to vote for the adoption of the plan in obedience to the majority vote of the Democratic members of the Convention.

W. J. TALBERT.

I cannot vote for the Article on Right of Suffrage for the following reasons: First, because the Article requires an educational and property qualification for voting.

Second, because the educational qualification prescribed discriminates in favor of one class and against another class of citizens.

Third, because the Reform faction, which dominates this Convention, and of which faction I am a member, is pledged "not to disfranchise any white man except for crime."

Fourth, because the Article subjects this Convention to the charge of conspiracy to defraud a certain class of American citizens in the exercise of the elective franchise, and I greatly fear this charge may be sustained in the United States Supreme Court.

Fifth, because if this charge be sustained by the State or Federal Court, at least fifteen thousand illiterate white men registered under the understanding clause of the Article will be disfranchised.

J. W. GRAY.

T. E. Johnson votes "no" because of his pledges that he would oppose an educational or property qualification for suffrage.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHEPPARD for the Committee on Rules, submitted the following report, which was read the first time and ordered for consideration to-morrow, to be printed in the Journal only:

The Committee on Rules, to whom was referred a resolution instructing the Committee to report a day for the final adjournment of the Convention and "to arrange a schedule of work for the Convention, fixing limits for debate, length of speeches and time of voting on the various Articles and matters yet to be considered and voted on," respectfully report that they have carefully considered the several matters contained in said resolution.

Holding in remembrance the time consumed in the discussion of matters which have heretofore been presented for the consideration of the Convention, and mindful of the importance of matters yet to be considered, such as the Articles on Education, the Judiciary, and Finance and Taxation, your Committee submit that it is utterly impracticable at this hour to fix a day for the final adjournment of the Convention.

But your Committee are hopeful of promoting the consideration of business so as to facilitate the dispatch thereof without impairing the thoroughness of debate or endangering the wisdom of results.

Your Committee have observed that the invariable result of postponing the consideration of an Article beyond the necessary continuance thereof from day to day is the protracted repetition of argument. Believing that relief is needed at this point, we respectfully recommend the adoption of the first of the accompanying resolutions.

Furthermore, your Committee have oftentimes observed that the "previous question" has been applied after exhaustive discussion has been indulged by the Convention, thereby permitting two hours of additional debate, certainly inviting unnecessary repetition.

Believing that relief is demanded here, we respectfully recommend the adoption of the second of the accompanying resolutions. As to limiting the "length of speeches," your Committee submit, without recommendation, the fourth of the accompanying resolutions.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. C. SHEPPARD, for Committee.

Resolved, First. That when an Article or Resolution is presented for consideration, the consideration thereof shall not be interrupted, save by recess or adjournment, until the same shall be disposed of.

Second. That the "previous question" is hereby abolished. That in lieu thereof it shall be competent for the Convention to fix a time at which a vote upon a pending question shall be taken—the time intervening between the date of the order and the time fixed to be equally divided between the mover of the question and the Chairman of the Committee; the Chairman of the Committee to be entitled to reply. The motion to fix the time to be decided without debate.

Third. The motion to fix the time for voting to take the place of the "previous question" in the order of business as provided by Rule 15.

Fourth. That no member shall speak more than ten minutes upon any question without leave of the Convention.

All waste and unappropriated lands belonging to the State, which terms shall include marsh and tide-water lands, but not the phosphate royalty or phosphate deposits, and all the income to be derived from said lands by leasing them, shall be set apart and be and remain forever a perpetual school fund for the support of the public schools of this State. C. Wilson, and Winkler.—57.

REASONS FOR VOTING.

In voting no upon the proposition to prevent Mr. Burns, of Darlington, from making an argument in favor of preserving to our women and children a homestead, I wish to emphasize my abhorrence at the action of the Convention in delegating to three men, called a Steering Committee, the running of this Convention. It has destroyed the freedom of speech, is tyrannical, and subversive of the rights of the people.

W. F. CLAYTON.

On the motion to table the motion to grant Mr. Burns ten minutes to speak on the homestead, I vote "aye," for the reason that Mr. Burns "relieves" the Convention, and for the further reason that in my opinion argument on this question is exhausted, and the Convention should come to a vote on it.

PAIRS,

Mr. LEE stated that he was paired with Mr. Stackhouse, otherwise he would vote "no."

Mr. GARRIS stated that he was paired with Mr. Parler, otherwise he would vote "no."

Mr. BURN made the following address and asked that it be spread upon the Journal, which was agreed to:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: Whatever wrong has been done me as an individnal or as a representative of the proud and noble people of Darlington, and I cannot disguise the fact that a wrong has been done, yet I shall not allow my feelings to warp my judgment or do anything to obstruct the business or detract from the dignity and honor of this Convention. I know the refusal to allow me ten minutes of time on the homestead measnre was done nnder a misapprehension of the facts. It was in response to my nrgent appeal that this Convention enjoyed the benefit of the splendid legal argnment delivered by His Excellency Governor John Gary Evans, which did credit to his head and heart. After Governor Evans had had his time extended to any extent he desired, he generously shortened his speech so as to give me ten minutes that he would otherwise have consumed. I would not then have asked to be allowed to speak, but for the fact that gentlemen of this Convention living in various parts of this State and some citizens of Columbia had requested and nrged me to recite as my contribution to the argument for the homes of the people that beautiful poem, the most beautiful in the English language, that will live as a monument to the patrioism of the Southern soldiers as long as the eternal hills of Virginia shall endure. A sentiment, it is true, but none the less an argument and a history written in the blood and murmured in the dying agonies of our "unknown and unrecorded dead," appealing to us for their wives, their children and their homes: "All quiet along the Potomac, they say."

Mr. MEARES presented the following and requested that it be published in the Journal, which was agreed to :

We, the members of the Constitutional Convention, desire to spread upon the Journal our solemn protest against the action taken by this body to suppress the freedom of debate and the expression of individual opinions, which are inviolable rights in themselves and essential to the proper making of the organic law to govern a free people.

The creation of a steering Committee, with the result of preventing due deliberation, and which has made it impossible for a considerable number of members to enter into the discussion of any measure, we declare to be novel in bodies of this character, inconsistent with its purposes, and an usurpation of the rights of the people as herein represented by their delegates. We protest against limitation of discussion and suppression of freedom of speech, and consider that the rights of the people have been violated and their interest impaired thereby, and feeling our individual responsibility to our constituency avail ourselves of the last opportunity to protest against the suppression of our representative rights; and feeling that we must spare ourselves the mortification and humility of begging either the "Steering Committee" or the Convention since it has denied the Hon. H. C. Burns the right to be heard. We further say we attach no blame or odium to the said "Steering Committee," and would as willingly trust, rely or confide in them as in any three members that could be appointed from this body:

Mr. McWHITE stated that he was paired with Mr. McCown, otherwise he would vote "aye."

Mr. GLENN stated that he was paired with Mr. S. E. White, otherwise he would vote "no."

REASONS FOR VOTING.

We vote "no," not that we oppose the placing of the Winthrop School beyond danger, but because we fear that such a measure would tend to imperil the support of the other institutions of higher education.

H. C. PATTON,
WILIE JONES.

I vote "no" because I believe it inconsistent to discriminate between the State institutions.

S. W. GAMBLE.

Mr. BUIST moved to amend Section 8, line 2, by inserting after the words "South Carolina" the words "and the Winthrop Normal and Industrial College."

REASONS FOR VOTING.

I am a warm supporter of Winthrop, but I vote against Mr. Tillman's amendment because I think this Convention should not discriminate among the existing State colleges, which have been successively established by the people after the issue had been fairly before them; and I vote against Mr. Buist's motion because Winthrop is now a branch of the University of South Carolina, and to name it separately is legally surplusage but practically a discrimination against the Citadel.

JOHN J. McMAHAN.

MR. PRESIDENT: When the vote was taken upon the Homestead Section I was absent from the hall. A friend has kindly said to me that my absence

The Supreme Court convened this morning for the Fifth Circuit; an important case in which I am engaged is the first case on the calendar; as soon as I finished my remarks I went down to the Supreme Court room to ask the Court to excuse me from attendance to-day, but before I left the hall I took the pains to "pair" upon the question then before the Convention.

The Secretary called the roll.

The PRESIDENT took the chair.

A quorum being present, the deliberations were opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. PARROTT.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and confirmed.

Resolved, That this Convention request of Hon. Julian Mitchell and Hon. E. J. Kennedy copies of the speeches made by them on the report on Educational Article, after they have revised the same, and that the same be printed in the Journal of this Convention for future information.

Which was referred to Committee on Contingent Accounts and Expenses.

Mr. BEHRE moved to reconsider the vote whereby the resolution was referred to the Committtee on Contingent Accounts and Expenses, and to be permitted to withdraw the same.

REMARKS OF MR. MITCHELL ON MR. BEHRE'S MOTION TO RESCIND ORDER OF REFERENCE AND WITHDRAW RESOLUTION.

While I appreciate the compliment paid me by the motion made to have my remarks on education printed, I sincerely trust the Convention will consent to the motion from the gentleman from Colleton, now made at my request, to withdraw his resolution. Had I had an inkling of the course proposed I should have earnestly protested.

The kind and considerate attention of the Convention to the remarks I have heretofore made has been a sufficient appreciation of my trying to do my duty, without more.

It certainly would be going too far to draw any distinction by having my remarks printed.

Many arguments before the Convention are entitled to more consideration than anything I have said, and it would be distasteful to me for the Convention to do otherwise than grant the motion of the gentleman from Colleton, now made, to rescind the order of reference and withdraw the resolution.

The motion of Mr. BEHRE was agreed to, and the resolution withdrawn.

Mr. ALDRICH introduced the following, which was considered immediately and adopted :

Resolved, That the five hundred copies of the permanent Journal of the proceedings of this Convention heretofore ordered be bound in permanent form, properly indexed, and shall be distributed as follows:

One copy to each member of this Convention, and one to the widow of any deceased member, one copy to each of the departments and officers of the State Government; the remaining copies to be deposited in the State Library to be disposed of as the General Assembly may direct.

The Convention proceeded to the consideration of the Constitution, with the recommendations of the Committee.

Mr. FRASER, for the Committee on Order, Style and Revision, submitted the following as a substitute for Section 8, Article III. The report of the Committee was agreed to, and the substitute was read and adopted as Section 8 :

Those who voted in the negative are :

Nays—Messrs. Anderson, Dudley, Miller, J. H. Read, I. R. Reed, Smalls, and Wigg.—7.

REASONS FOR VOTING.

I vote "aye" believing that the Constitution is as good as could be attainable.

The Homestead Article I protest against as destructive of the homes of the people and fatal to our prosperity, tending to build up a landed aristocracy and create a poverty-stricken peasantry.

HENRY C. BURN.

On the adoption of the Constitution as a whole I voted "yes," but there are several matters incorporated therein which I opposed when passed, and which I still believe to be wrong.

T. I. ROGERS.

On motion of Mr. FRASER, at 4:30 P. M., the Convention receded from business until 7:30 P. M. this day.

RECESS.

The PRESIDENT resumed the chair at 7:30 P. M.

Mr. FRASER, for the Committee on Order, Style and Revision, to whom was referred the Constitution of the State of South Carolina as adopted at this Convention, begs leave to report that the same has been properly enrolled and herewith presented for ratification; which was received as information.

By request, the following were ordered spread upon the Journal:

REASONS FOR NOT VOTING.

Upon the question of the adoption of the Constitution if I had been present I would have voted "aye."

C. J. C. HUTSON.

R. B. Watson was absent when the vote on the final adoption of the Constitution was had. If he had been present he would have voted "aye."

R. B. WATSON.

On the question of the final adoption of the Constitution I was absent when my name was called. Had I been present I would have voted "aye."

R. L. HENRY.

Mr. GARY states that he was temporarily absent at the vote upon the final passage of the Constitution. Had he been present he would have voted "aye."

On the question of the final adoption of the Constitution I was absent when my name was called. Had I been present I would have voted "aye."

J. C. KLUGH.

REASONS FOR VOTING.

I voted "no" on final adoption of the Constitution for the reason that there are many matters in the Constitution I voted against because I thought unwise, and still hold to that opinion.

T. E. DUDLEY.

My reason for voting "no" on the question of adopting the Constitution as a whole is: I have been from the beginning opposed to the understanding clause in the Article on Suffrage, believe it will be upset if tested in the United States Court, believe it opens the door for fraud, and think it unnecessary, inasmuch as other provisions in the Article, which are beyond suspicion of unfairness, will accomplish the desired end, i. e., securing white supremacy.

I. HARLESTON READ.

Mr. J. L. GLENN submitted the following communication, with the request that the same be spread upon the Journal, which was agreed to:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: During the discussion of the formation of Rock Hill County I may have made some unkind remarks about my colleagues from York. I desire publicly to retract the same and to say that they are all high-toned gentlemen. Deep personal affliction prevents me from being present and making these remarks in person.

J. S. BRICE.

Mr. W. D. EVANS introduced the following, which was considered immediately and unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary write the names of the three members, R. H. Hodges, J. O. Byrd and J. M. Sprott, who died during the session of the Convention, in the proper place on the roll of signatures ratifying this Constitution.

The PRESIDENT announced that the Constitution had been adopted as a whole, duly ratified and signed.

The PRESIDENT announced that the Constitution was now ready for the delegates to attach their signatures thereto.

The call was by Counties, and the various delegates affixed their signatures.

When Beaufort County was called, Mr. SMALLS, on behalf of the colored delegates, asked and obtained permission to be excused from signing the Constitution.

Mr. PATTERSON moved that this Convention resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole; which was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT requested Mr. George Johnstone to take the chair.

Mr. GEORGE JOHNSTONE took the chair, and called the Committee of the Whole to order.

Mr. PATTERSON offered the following, which was adopted unanimously by a rising vote :

Whereas, the Constitutional Convention is now about to adjourn sine die:

Be it resolved, That the Convention hereby testifies its high appreciation of the able, dignified and courteous manner in which the Hon. John Gary Evans has discharged the duties of the high office of President of the Convention, and also to express the wishes of the members for his continued prosperity and happiness.

Resolved, further, That this Convention record its acknowledgment of the courteous and efficient manner in which the Hons. W. J. Talbert and Ira B. Jones have presided over this body as its Vice Presidents.

Resolved, further, That this Convention desires to express its appreciation of the efficient manner in which S. W. Vance, Secretary, and the other officers and employees of this Convention have discharged the duties of their respective offices, and the best wishes of the Convention will attend them, one and all, in their future lives.

Mr. W. J. MONTGOMERY offered the following, which was unanimously adopted by a rising vote :

Resolved, That the thanks of this Convention be extended to the Committee on Order, Style and Revision, Hon. T. B. Fraser, Chairman, for their arduous and successful labors in the arrangement and revision of the several Articles of the Constitution adopted by this Convention.

Speaking to it he said :

MR. CHAIRMAN: In presenting this resolution I am satisfied I voice the sentiments of this Convention. It is seldom that one of the age of the distinguished Chairman of this Committee lays aside at the evening time of his life the surroundings of home and its pleasant associations and goes into a body like this to assume arduous and exacting duties. But, as each member has noticed, he has, with a self-sacrificing patience, given his time and mature thought to the vexed questions which have been submitted to that Committee; and no higher expression of the confidence of this Convention of the work which that Committee has done could be given than the unanimity with which it has accepted it. And as he, as Chairman, and the various gentlemen composing that Committee, lay aside the duties which they have been called upon to perform, they each one retire to their homes with the consciousness of duty well performed. In behalf of their people and their State I move the adoption of these resolutions.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted.

Mr. McGOWAN moved that the thanks of the members of the Convention be extended to the citizens of Columbia for the handsome hospitality extended them during their stay here.

This was seconded by Mr. A. J. Smith in behalf of Laurens County; Mr. Burn in behalf of Darlington; Mr. Haynsworth, as a representative of the Piedmont section, who made some appropriate remarks;

Mr. McWhite, as the "layman from Florence;" Mr. J. A Sligh, as "a private from Newberry"; Capt. Barry in behalf of Spartanburg, and Dr. Timmerman in behalf of Edgefield.

Mr McGowan's motion was unanimously adopted.

Mr. BELLINGER moved that a Committee of three be appointed to present to the President the gold watch purchased by the delegates, officers and employees of the Convention.

The Chairman appointed as the Committee Messrs. Bellinger, Buist and Breazeale.

Mr. OTTS offered the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of this body are due, and are hereby tendered, to the daily press for their faithful, complete and impartial reports of the proceedings of this Convention.

Mr. GEORGE JOHNSTONE announced that the Committee of the Whole having finished its duties is now adjourned.

The PRESIDENT resumed the chair.

Mr. GEORGE JOHNSTONE presented the resolutions to the President in the following words:

Mr. PRESIDENT: As Chairman of the Committee of the Whole, it devolves upon me to present to you the resolutions of thanks which I now hold in my hand, and through you to the Vice Presidents and the different officers of the Convention for the able, impartial and efficient manner in which you yourself and the Vice Presidents have presided over the deliberations of this body, and the different officers have performed their duties. I assure you that not only were these resolutions presented to you with absolute unanimity, but with a feeling of sincere regard from the body over which you have presided. In these the closing hours of this Convention it is with unusual pleasure that I am thus able to address myself to you as the organ of the Committee of the Whole, and to assure you that you carry into your retirement, so far as you do now retire from official station, the hearty good will of each and every member of this body.

Mr. BELLINGER, for the Committee, presented the watch to the President in the following words:

MR. PRESIDENT: Our work performed, the time has arrived when your official relations are to be severed for all time. The labors of us all during the long weeks now past have been arduous and exacting, but your position has entailed upon you duties peculiarly trying to temper, patience and physical endurance, and it gives us pleasure to congratulate you upon proving yourself equal to the demands.

In separating from you we desire to give expression in substantial form to our appreciation of the integrity, intelligence and impartiality which have marked the administration of your high and responsible office, and on behalf of the members of this Convention the pleasing task has been assigned to me to deliver this watch to you. And now, in receiving it, Mr. President, we beg that you remember that its intricate and complex machinery, working in perfect unison and accord, is typical of the fact that it comes to you as an offering from men of both races and of every shade of political opinion, but all citizens working for the common good and glory of South Carolina.

In conclusion, we hope that as it ticks away the fleeting time it will mark the hours filled for you with happiness and prosperity. And now the hour has arrived, if you will permit me a minute to suggest as a second thought that it would be well to remember, whenever you consult this watch, that it is high time you were married.

The PRESIDENT, in accepting this testimonial, spoke as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION: There are times, places and circumstances that bring the hearts of men together, when outside bickerings, dissensions and animosities are forgotten, and hearts that were once divided become united and beat for one body. I feel that this Convention, representing the sovereignty of South Carolina, rests in that condition to-night. It has been the cherished hope of most of us that this Convention would be the means of framing a law around which South Carolinians could unite, around which a divided people could come together and bury past differences. I feel that this has been accomplished. [Applause.] We came here with some misgivings, distrusting one another, feeling, possibly, that some of us in the heat of debate and in passion would cause wounds that would never be healed. I thank God that this has not been the case. I can say from my own heart, and I believe I but echo the sentiment of each of you, that when we leave here there will be no heart-burnings, no prejudice, but a united people once more. You have honored me. The people have honored me, and you in your representative capacity have honored me by placing me in this position; you have honored me with these resolutions, you honor me with this gift, which I shall ever cherish, and let me assure you that as its hands mark the fleeting moments of my life, as the years pass by, as the time of my departure from this world draws near, as I look at this, the fond memories of this Convention will ever arise, while watching you make a law upon which the hopes of our people for supremacy and prosperity are based. I shall turn with happiness to this memory. It shall also be a reminder, as has been suggested by the gentleman from Barnwell, of my departure from single blessedness to the realm of conjugal happiness, for I can assure you before we meet in another Constitutional Convention I shall have been married. [Laughter.] I am satisfied it will be sooner, but this is too dignified a body to make rash promises to.

In bidding you good-bye, in saying farewell, in adjourning your deliberations, let me wish you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. May God cause His richest blessings to shine upon you and the State for which you worked so hard. I am satisfied your work will live after you. I am satisfied an honest constituency will say: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

In my rulings I have endeavored to be fair, to exhibit no passion. I realize the frailties of human nature, and realize I have not conducted myself at times as I perhaps ought to have done, but it was an error of the head and not of the heart. I thank you again for these honors. I bid you God speed. May heaven bless our State, and may we go hand in hand with one heart, one people, forever united and prosperous. [Cheers.]

Mr. IRA B. JONES, in responding to the resolution introduced by Mr. Patterson, spoke as follows :

MR. PRESIDENT : I do not rise to make a speech, but I rise simply in behalf of Vice President Talbert, who is discharging his duty at the National Capital, and in my own behalf, to thank this Convention for the pleasing testimonies which they have seen fit to give us as Vice Presidents of this Convention. It is no slight honor to have a body of such able and patriotic men show their appreciation of the services of the officers of this body. I feel it an honor to have been a Vice President of this Convention, and I thank this Convention for the expressions of appreciation voted in these resolutions. I am gratified that the assembling of this Convention, in addition to having produced a Constitution of which any South Carolinian might be proud, has been productive, if anything, of even a greater benefit than this. It has taught us all as Carolinians that at heart we love our State and love its best interests, and that we are really one people, however much we may seem to divide upon factional lines. And I am satisfied that the good work done by this Convention will not end by its adjournment, but we will all go home feeling that it was good that the people of South Carolina should have been assembled in this Convention, and feel that, even if we differ hereafter, we can differ as brethren without the bitterness of the past. We can have more respect for each other, and issues hereafter may be decided upon the forum of reason, of intelligence and merit.

On motion of Mr. BURN, Mr. G. D. Tillman was requested to address the Convention.

Mr. TILLMAN spoke as follows :

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION : I had no expectation of being invited to address the Convention on—nothing in particular and everything in general. But since I have been called on in such a complimentary manner, I would either be more or less than a man if I did not thank the Convention for such a compliment.

Mr. President, we can all hope a great deal from the Constitution we have adopted. It is not such an instrument as we would have made if we had been a free people. We are not a free people. We have not been since the war. I fear it will be some time before we can call ourselves free. I have had that fact very painfully impressed upon me for several years. If we were free, instead of having negro suffrage, we would have negro slavery. Instead of having the United States government, we would have the Confederate States government. Instead of paying $3,000,000 pension tribute, we would be receiving it. Instead of having many things that we have, we would have other and better things. But to the extent that we are permitted to govern ourselves and pay pension tribute to our conquerors, we have framed as good an organic law, take it as a whole, as the wisdom and patriotism of the State could have desired.

Perhaps, sir, if I were to speak appropriately on such an occasion as this, I ought to speak from a national point of view—about our Federal relations and about our future as forecasted by our present surroundings. But it is too vast a subject to be taken offhand.

The Convention, though, is tired out. Many of them are making preparations to go home, and I shall therefore not attempt it.

I will casually allude to a few matters in national politics which give me hope of a better future for us. One is the fact that I am satisfied that the Republican party has adopted a new departure towards the negro. The silver question has to a great extent superseded the negro question. It was the silver question that saved us from not only more reconstruction hell in 1890, but that saved the government of the United States from being revolutionized from top to bottom. The Lodge force bill, under Reed's manipulation, passed the House of Representatives and came within one vote of passing the Senate. So near did we come to having our present form of government overthrown, and yet South Carolinians were wrangling over local matters here, simply scrambling for office without any principle at stake, and didn't seem to realize how near we were to having a political volcano exploded under our feet. Free silver saved us. The free silver Senators said: "We are more interested in free silver than we are in the rights or wrongs of the negro. And as the South is almost unanimous for free silver, we would be a parcel of fools to help the Eastern States oppress the South on the negro question."

Free silver, then, saved us in 1890, and I believe, gentlemen, free silver will save us in the presence of the overwhelming Republican sentiment that now dominates the North. Not only dominates the North, but all the border slave States. Remember Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri all went Republican at the last election on account of the Federal election laws being repealed. The free silver question will not die soon. It is a living question. It has as much vitality as the negro question ever had. Of course, Disraeli was right when he said a race issue in politics was the most vital that ever could be started. But a financial question like free silver is almost as strong. It will be years, perhaps, before the silver question is finally settled, and until it is the negro question will be relegated to the rear. The Republicans realize that the negro question is a secondary question now, and hence it was they consented to the repeal of the Federal election laws, which gave them back the Southern border States, and those border States have gone to the Republican party to stay. They have gone where they naturally belong. Hence there is no more solid Democratic South. We are to find other alliances, and economic issues are to take the place of the once great race issue. Besides, the Republicans, when they choose to exercise it, without passing any laws, can exercise great power over the South—admitting or excluding her Representatives or Senators. They will be put to the test whether they will be willing to shut the doors of Congress to the South Carolina Representatives in the present Congress.

Not feeling the necessity for it in the House, they may not do it except in some cases where they may feel it necessary to keep the negro in heart to retain the balance of power in the Northern States, which are controlled by the negro votes, because they have to do something occasionally to warm that race up. But I am satisfied they have adopted a new departure. They are divided themselves on the silver question. The East is not solid for silver. The West has a large majority of silver, and to-day the only two principles left to the Democratic party in South Carolina are enmity to Cleveland and friendship to free silver, and the silver Senators will not permit any legislation on the negro question, and the Courts have recently shown that they are not eager to punish South Carolina. So we can reasonably hope to have some peace and quiet for a few years at least. They are going to let us alone, and if we don't pile on too much animis opibusque parati in attempting to assert our sovereignty they will let us have considerable elbow room. But they are a queer people, especially under the rule of Tom Reed, who at the present stands the best chance of being the next President of the United States, and if he is, I tremble at what may happen. I was laughing the other day with some gentlemen at the idea of anybody quoting the Constitution of the United States to Tom Reed if he were President. He is a very ambitions man, but there is many a slip betwixt the cup and the lip, and a better fate may be in store for this country than to have such a dangerous man for President.

I could go on and enlarge on this theme if I had dreamed that it was the pleasure of the Convention to listen to me. If I had had any idea that it was the pleasure of the gentlemen to call on me I would have presented other silver linings to the cloud that hovers over us. I do not despair for the republic. I cannot believe that the great God above us is going to desert this people and turn it over to anarchy or civil war. I believe in the sober second thought of the great Anglo-Saxon race, who will decide their differences at the ballot boxes rather than with the cartridge. I believe that we are going to have a new alignment of political parties. There is no telling what parties or factions we will have in the future. None of us need make any rash promises or assume any extreme positions as to where we will be one year hence in politics. I believe new political parties will be organized. Democracy is not dead. Its principles are eternal, and the principles announced by Jefferson, the great father of it, in his first message in 1801, have been the political bible of freemen throughout the world; it is their bible to-day, and all that we have to do is to teach our boys and young men those principles and let them always refer to them as the test of every public man and public measure. We may join the Republican party down here for motives of policy. I sometimes think that if we had joined the Republican party just after the war it might have been better for us, but we could not do it. We were too honest and too proud. We had to come down sorter by degrees.

Now, our party has been almost disbanded by the treachery of Cleveland and the policy of the Republican party. There is no change of heart in them. They never went back on the negro from principle; it was policy. Their gold bugs would insist that silver should be destroyed as money, and their own people revolted at it because they were not willing to have white slavery established by those who wished to regulate wages by controlling the amount of money in circulation. That is what saved us once; it is what saves us now. It is what will save us for many years in the future, which shows that God in His mysterious way works out things to the right end in the long run. There are general causes which, under the same circumstances, with the same men, will work out the same results. Those causes have been at work for our good as well as for our harm in some respects.

Mr. President, this is perhaps the last time I shall ever talk in a deliberative assembly of my countrymen. I am done with public life. As I remarked on a previous occasion, I have enjoyed far more than the average share of public honor. My ambitions have been gratified. I have nothing to regret except that I could not do more for my country.

In our debates here I perhaps may, in the heat of the moment, have said things in a tone of irritation, or made remarks that had better not been uttered. There was no personal feeling if I did so. It was but the impulse of an honest heart trying to speak the truth as it was understood by me. If I have hurt any member's feelings in any way, either in debate or in free personal intercourse, I beg his pardon. For the few years that are left me, sir, I shall always cherish the remembrances of this Convention with pleasure. I believe I speak what every member on this floor feels in his heart when I say from the first day when we met here to the present hour the Convention has become more and more consolidated as one man, and inspired by one purpose, stimulated by one effort: to do the best we could for our old mother State, showing that we never have been divided on principle during the last six years of strife, and that our politics have been based upon men and not measures, personalities and not principles, and true Democracy as defined by Jefferson demands measures, not men.

It must be a source of great gratification to every member here and to their constituents at home to see with what unanimity, with what courteousness, and yet with what independence of action their representatives in this body have made the Constitution which we have just ratified. It is a rainbow of hope that the State may hereafter be united, as in the past, as one man. For remember, my countrymen, it took all the efforts we could lay forth in '76, and for many years thereafter, to control this State; and if we become divided, as I fear we may be, and as I hope we will not for some time to come, we may find it still more difficult—I won't say impossible. I have an abiding faith in the Anglo-Saxon race, as there never has been a considerable number of them together anywhere that they did not dominate any race with which they came in contact; and whatever may happen, I have faith that they will rule. But as I said, let us never forget that it took the combined forces of all the men, women and children in South Carolina to get and keep control, and that we ought to try in a spirit of self-sacrifice to come together here as we were in '76.

Gentlemen, I will not detain you longer. I thank you for the high compliment you have paid me. Would to God I could have done more in my feeble way to help on the labors of this body. I have done my best, and so have you all. I hope that as South Carolinians, as white men and Democrats, we will go on as prosperously in the future as we ever have in the past. And no matter what shall betide us in the future, I believe we can meet any fate, and nothing can go amiss with us unless we forget that we are white men, Carolinians and Democrats. [Prolonged applause.]

Mr. W. D. EVANS moved that the proceedings of the Convention be closed with prayer by one of the Chaplains; which was agreed to.

Mr. BREAZEALE moved that before the closing prayer be offered the Convention join in the singing of the hymn "God be with you till we meet again," and that the Assistant Secretary, Mr. P. L. Melton, be requested to lead the singing; which was agreed to.

After prayer by Mr. PARROTT,

On motion of Mr. CONNOR, the Convention, at 10 P. M., adjourned sine die.
